DISTRICT RELIEF WORK SAVED BY SENATE ACTION

Lewis-Wagner Bill to Provide Jobless Aid Quickly Passed.

WHITE HOUSE TO GET MEASURE THIS WEEK

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Senate yesterday passed the $500,000,000 Lewis-Wagner relief bill, providing immediate wherewithal for the District to tide over the present unemployment emergency on a par standard with the States.

The measure will go back to the House today for approval of minor changes and to the White House within the week. It makes $250,000,000 available at once for State grants on a basis of money spent, and another $250,000,000 according to need.

A change of significance to Civil Service eligibles was effected when the Senate yesterday moved to bring new Federal relief administration personnel under Civil Service jurisdiction. The House eliminated this requirement.

$8,000 Salary Limit.

As altered by the Senate, officers and employes of the new set-up, other than experts, must be appointed under civil service laws, and compensation fixed in accordance with the classification act. An $8,000 salary limitation was written into the bill.

George S. Wilson, director of the District Board of Public Welfare, last night viewed the legislation as saving the District from a very serious dilemma.

On the basis of current local relief expenditures, averaging $40,000 a week, Mr. Wilson said the District would have been between $150,000 to $200,000 short of the amount necessary to carry unemployment aid through July 1.

The Lewis-Wagner bill, which should become law this week, will advance to the District $1 for every $3 it has spent in the first three months of the current year. On this basis the District could thus collect nearly $135,000 almost immediately, Mr. Wilson said.

Funds Soon Available.

Foreseeing the local shortage, the Senate District Appropriations Committee, besides increasing the next annual relief allowance to $1,500,000,

Illness of Simon Halts London Consultations

London, May 1 (A.P.).—The illness of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, who was obliged today to relinquish his activities for a couple of days because of a slight breakdown chiefly from overwork, blocked further consultations to prepare for the world economic conference.

Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at Large, who was anxious to get to work immediately, was obliged to forego his anticipated meeting with Sir John.

5 Blasts in Chicago Blamed on Rackets

Drive Against Capone Mob Seen; World Celebrates May Day With Parades, Machine Gun Displays and Students Shouting Defiance.

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—Five synchronous blasts of dynamite thundered a terrifying greeting today to an otherwise mild May Day in Chicago.

The cry of "Communists!" soon died away as police made known a suspicion that the bombs spoke for gangs engaged in the old war for control of the trucking business.

Almost simultaneously with the blasts came the appearance of Fred Sass and Morris Goldberg, teamsters' union officials, telling a tale of abduction last Friday and a warning that the Touhy gang meant to drive Murray Humphries and his Capone gang remnants out of the profitable domination of the trucking unions.

The dynamite explosions reverberated through the Loop and the Gold Coast at 2:30 a. m.

They focused upon the Illinois Bell Telephone Building on Washington boulevard; the Willett Bus & Teaming Co.; the Stratford Building, three floors of which housed Marshall Field & Co. shops; the Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett Hardware Building and Sprague, Warner & Co., wholesale grocers.

Frightened Gold Coast residents and terror-stricken denizens of downtown hotels, thinking of gangsters and earthquakes, and hearing sirens screaming through the streets, took the quickest route to the open air.

Stone and steel portals of the five buildings were wrecked, thousands of windows were blown into bits, but not a person was injured. Estimates of damage were $100,000.

Lieut. Make Mills, head of the police industrial squad, and cognizant of radical activities, expressed assurance that no Communist plot was involved. He rather blamed the team-

JAPANESE BOMBARD DISPUTED RAILROAD

Chinese Shocked by Attack on Chinese Eastern at Manchurian Border.

Peiping, May 1 (U.P.).—A new Russo-Japanese war scare shocked Peiping today when reports reached here from Harbin of a Japanese air bombardment on the Chinese Eastern Railway tracks near Progranichnaya, on the eastern border of Manchuria.

The official Chinese wireless dispatches from Progranichnaya via Harbin reported that the Japanese planes had bombed and badly damaged the railway tracks on the eastern spur of the Chinese Eastern system in north Manchuria.

The dispatches said that the purpose of the bold raid was to tear up the tracks and right of way and thereby prevent Soviet authorities from removing rolling stock on the C. E. R. over the border into Siberia.

The Japanese planes accomplished their purpose, it was reported, but fled when Russian airplanes, patroling the Manchuria-Siberia border, appeared.

The incident added to the tension caused by the Russo-Japanese controversy in Manchuria recently over charges by authorities in the new Manchukuo state that the Soviets were seizing C. E. R. rolling stock and keeping it in Siberia. They also challenged Moscow's sole ownership of the road, which caused sharp repercussions in Moscow.

Lytton's Son and Aid Killed in Plane Crash

Hendon, England, May 1 (A.P.).—Viscount Knebworth, the eldest son of the Earl of Lytton, was killed as an airplane he was piloting crashed here tonight. Aircraftsman Ralph Harrison, who was with him in the plane, also was killed.

Kansas Seeks Curb On Gas Tax Evaders

Topeka, Kans., May 1 (A.P.).—An army of inspectors guarded the four sides of Kansas tonight in an effort to halt "bootlegging" of gasoline by evaders of the 3-cent-a-gallon State tax.

Officials say hundreds of thousands of dollars in revenue have been lost to Kansas annually by evasion of the tax.

One More Month Of Congress Is Set

(Associated Press.)

The first week in June was set for adjournment of the special session of Congress in a talk yesterday between President Roosevelt and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the party leader in the upper house.

"We feel we are progressing very satisfactorily," said Robinson, "and we are hopeful of finishing our work during the first week in June."

The majority leader indicated that if some measures were not disposed of by that time they would be put over for the regular session.

The 30-hour work week bill already passed by the Senate was said by Robinson to be "not in the picture at the moment."

RHODE ISLAND PICKS ENTIRE WET SLATE

Whole Delegation to Repeal Convention Pledged Against Dry Law.

Providence, R. I., May 1 (U.P.).—Rhode Island, first Eastern State to take formal action on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, today elected a completely wet slate of 31 delegates to a constitutional convention on May 8, which will consider ratification of prohibition repeal, almost complete returns showed tonight.

By a ratio of approximately 7 to 1 the smallest State in the Union and one of the two which have never ratified prohibition, again expressed its disapproval of the eighteenth amendment. Action of its convention on May 8 will make it the third State to ratify repeal, Michigan and Wisconsin already having ratified the proposed twenty-first amendment which would repeal the eighteenth amendment. Thirty-six States are necessary.

Returns from 225 of 229 districts give:

The measure now goes to the House.

Texans Jam Court At "Devil" Hearing

Insanity to Be Plea of "Holy Man," Slayer of Invalid Child.

Linden, Tex., May 1 (A.P.).—Backwoods folk of east Texas crowded the courtroom today as selection of a jury was begun to try Paul Oakley, 20, self-styled holy man, for a slaying he blames on the devil.

Defense counsel announced insanity would be pleaded in behalf of the itinerant preacher of the Piney Hills, whose hands strangled to death 3-year-old Bernice Clayton, an invalid, during strange healing rites at her home last December.

Oakley, who claims divine healing power, rolled his eyes and gesticulated in the courtroom, but appeared serene in his expressed belief that "God will deliver me from my plight." He has declared to authorities that the "devil" told him to choke the child while he had his hands on her throat. Elmer L. Lincoln, district attorney, indicated the death penalty would be demanded.

Murray Vetoes Measure For Taxes Postponement

Oklahoma City, May 1 (A.P.).—Vetoing a legislative resolution to extend until September the time for paying taxes, Gov. W. H. Murray said today "you can't operate a government unless taxes are paid."

ITALIAN ENVOY ARRIVES TODAY FOR MEETINGS

Procession of Diplomats Converging Here Continues.

GERMANS TO ARRIVE LATER THIS WEEK

Argentine Delegation Will Scrutinize Economic Developments.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The procession of foreign diplomats converging on the Capital continues. Italian Finance Minister Guido Jung will arrive this afternoon from New York, escorted by Italian Ambassador Augusto Rosso. Yesterday Argentine Ambassador Thomas Le Breton, in Paris, came to represent his country with Felipe Espil, Argentine Ambassador to the United States, to participate in the preliminary negotiations before the World Economic Conference. The main interest of the Argentine delegation will be economic.

The Italians will be chiefly interested in political problems. At the end of the week the delegation from Germany will arrive, headed by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the Reichsbank, who took Dr. Luther's place after the latter was appointed ambassador here. The German delegation will talk chiefly about financial problems, although all three delegations will review the entire field of world problems in all categories.

Ambassador in Conversations.

The two Italian delegates to the White House conversations will be the ambassador here, Augusto Rosso, many years head of the Italian delegations to the disarmament conferences at Geneva and elsewhere. When the conversations turn on the problems of disarmament it is believed that Ambassador Rosso will take the leading role. For the questions involving stabilization of the lira in proportion to the dollar, the conversations will be directed by Minister Jung.

Presence of Italian experts here will undoubtedly redound to the improvement of the position that will be taken by American experts at the London conference, when the balance will be struck between the dollar, the pound and the French franc. The Italian policy that has been followed

GALAXY OF BANKERS BOOKED FOR INQUIRY

J. P. Morgan Heads List to Be Questioned by Senate Group.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate Banking Committee announced yesterday that some of the Nation's most prominent bankers, including J. P. Morgan, would be summoned for the opening of its inquiry into private banking, tentatively scheduled for May 23.

Plans for opening the long planned inquiry with an investigation of the famous banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co., were laid at a conference between Chairman Fletcher and Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel.

Afterwards, Pecora announced that Morgan and all other members of the Morgan firm would be subpenaed, together with Otto H. Kahn, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Co.

Memories of the famous Pujo banking investigation a generation ago were revived by Pecora's announcement. That was the last time the head of the House of Morgan was called before a congressional committee investigating banking.

J. P. Morgan, sr., father of the present banker, was a witness at that inquiry by a House committee and figured in a sensational cross-examination at the hands of Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee.

As plans were made for resumption of the stock market inquiry, the Glass banking subcommittee completed its work on a bill to revise the national banking laws and prepared to submit it to the White House for final approval.

Chairman Glass said some alterations of a minor nature had been made in the bill. It was learned, however, that the committee retained

Farley Will Confer On Democratic Deficit

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Frank C. Walker, treasurer, plan to confer immediately with party leaders in the Middle West on means of paying off the deficit left from the party's 1928 campaign.

Farley, who returned to Washington tonight, will leave there Thursday for Louisville, where he will speak Friday, and see the Derby Saturday. He will go to Chicago Sunday, address a Democratic meeting in St. Paul Monday and return to Chicago Tuesday to speak at the memorial for the late Mayor Anton Cermak.

Washington Naval Captain Finds Second Greatest Deep

Claude B. Mayo, Aboard Oiler, Sounds 34,622 Feet at Spot 250 Miles Southeast of Yokohama in Unsurveyed Portion of Tuscarora Deep.

The discovery of the second greatest ocean depth ever recorded, 34,622 feet, was reported to the Navy Department yesterday by the U. S. S. Ramapo, under command of Capt. Claude B. Mayo, U. S. N., of this city.

The Ramapo, an oiler in the Naval Transportation Service, made the soundings in a position 250 miles southeast of Yokohama, Japan, in an unsurveyed portion of the Tuscarora Deep. Capt. Mayo has been conducting soundings in the North Pacific Ocean on trips from the West Coast of the United States to Asiatic Stations.

The depth obtained by the Ramapo was recorded by the sonic depth-finder as 33,006 feet. This figure had to be corrected in the Navy's Hydrographic office from dynamic data as to temperature, salinity and pressure of the water in which it was made. The necessary data for that vicinity was obtained by the nonmagnetic ship Carnegie of the Carnegie Institute of Washington.

The Japanese survey ship Manchu obtained a depth of 30,954 feet in August, 1924, in the vicinity of Tuscarora Deep. The new deep discovered by Capt. Mayo is exceeded only by one of 35,400 feet recorded off Mindanao, Philippine Islands, by the German cruiser Emden April 29, 1927.

INFLATION VOTE PLANS CLOUDED BY PARTY SPLIT

Snell Calls for Rule and Says "Jam It Down Our Throats."

FULL DAY TO PASS BEFORE BALLOTING

Leaders Proceed Cautiously to Avoid Possible Loss of Two-Thirds.

(Associated Press.)

Differences within the huge Democratic majority, after Republican chieftains had blocked an immediate House vote on the Roosevelt inflation bill yesterday, clouded plans for House action on the farm relief bill and definitely delayed final congressional approval until later in the week.

A breach developed late yesterday between Democratic leaders as to when the House should vote. Chairman Pou, of the Rules Committee, set the vote date for tomorrow. Byrns, of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, disclosed plans for action tonight. The issue remained unsettled.

Calling out, "go get your rule and jam it down our throats," Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, earlier had flouted Democratic plans to force a final inflation vote yesterday under a suspension of the rules. His objection blocked immediate action.

Leadership Bows to Demands.

It was then that, bowing to inflation opponents in both Republican and Democratic parties, the House leadership yielded to their demands for a full legislative day of discussion before the vote which will settle the inflation issue in Congress and send the bill to conference for adjustment of differences between the two branches over 83 other amendments.

The move blocked by Snell would have sent the bill to conference yesterday with instructions to the conferees to accept the inflation proposals. The alternative announced plan to force a vote through the

Segregation Breach Brings Martial Law

Oklahoma City, May 1 (A.P.).—Smoldering difficulties over a Negro's attempt to move to a residence area exclusively occupied by whites brought a declaration of martial law from Gov. W. H. Murray today.

The governor established the military zone in Ward 2 here and declared a boundary line to exist between white and Negro home areas. He said the order will remain in force until the State or city fixes a permanent boundary line.

Mysterious Blast Kills Rail Worker

Roanoke Man Had Gone Into Shop With Box Sent to Him.

Roanoke, Va., May 1 (A.P.).—A mysterious explosion which occurred about five minutes after he entered his small Virginian Railway workshop here carrying a box, which had been found on an express cart by station attendants Friday afternoon, this morning caused the death of Grover Cleveland (Cam) Price, 48.

The building was nearly demolished by the terrific explosion. Price, a maintenance employe, was rushed to Roanoke Hospital, where he died within 20 minutes, without regaining consciousness.

City police and Federal Department of Justice investigators found remnants of the small wooden box which were identified by Charlie Scott, Negro janitor and assistant baggageman, as pieces of the one he gave Price just before he entered the shanty. A sliced, readdressed tag to "Cam Price, Roanoke, Va.," was also found and identified by Scott.

Minimum Wage Law Approved by Lehman

Albany, N. Y., May 1 (U.P.).—Gov. Lehman approved the Wald bill tonight, enacting a minimum wage law for New York State to protect women and children in industry.

He disapproved, however, the Desmond bill which would have included protection for men.

MINDEN, LA., DEAD ESTIMATED AT 55; FIRE TRAILS WIND

Other Towns in State and Arkansas Report Sudden and Terrific Gale and Wide Damage.

SMALL ILLINOIS COMMUNITY IS PRACTICALLY WIPED OUT

Militia Called Out in Creole State When Five Minutes of Havoc Is Followed by Flames.

Shreveport, La., May 1 (A.P.).—At least 65 persons were reported killed late today by tornadic winds that ripped through sections of Arkansas and Louisiana.

Meanwhile, wind, rain and hail roared over Illinois to bring death to at least five persons, injury to nearly a score and heavy property loss.

One small farming community, Maples Mill, in Fulton County, was "practically wiped out," hospital attendants at Canton said. Two persons were fatally injured there and 11 injured as buildings collapsed.

Half-Mile Swath Torn.

Arcadia, La., west of Minden, had at least four dead; Magnolia, Ark., reported five; Camp, Ark., one.

Many of the victims at Minden were Negroes. The Negro section of that town was leveled by winds and then caught fire.

The wind tore a half mile swath through Minden and before lashing Arcadia, 25 miles away.

A National Guard company at Minden was mobilized and patroled the city. Lights were out and communication lines were down. The confusion made rescue work extremely difficult.

Every available nurse, doctor and ambulance from Shreveport was hurried to the town.

5 Minutes of Destruction.

The storm, second that had struck the Mississippi Valley in two days, dipped first on the Missouri-Arkansas border and killed Ed Cain at Camp, Ark. About 12 others in that vicinity were injured.

A tornadic wind, traveling in a black, funnel-shaped cloud, next struck at Minden, more than 250 miles south of Camp, and then raced westward.

The tornado struck Minden just before 4 p. m. It swept through the town for about five minutes, then split and skirted two sides of Arcadia.

Militia Called Out.

A National Guard company at Shreveport was called to duty at Minden, to aid the company already mobilized there.

Two emergency hospitals were set up in the main section of Minden. The soldiers tonight made plans to barricade the Shreveport-Minden highway to clear the road of automobiles of sightseers who were blocking the progress of ambulances. Messengers picked their way over debris-strewn highways to nearby towns.

The tornado stripped the Negro section of Minden. Many houses literally burst and their occupants were killed instantly. Fire that swept some of the frame structures was extinguished without adding any appreciably greater horror to the scene.

ROOSEVELT CHOOSES CIVIL SERVICE HEADS

Mitchell and Mrs. McMillin Named to Commission; New Comptroller.

Two members of the Civil Service Commission, heads of two important Treasury divisions, and the Ambassador to Brazil were named by President Roosevelt yesterday.

The nominations were Harry B. Mitchell and Lucille P. McMillin, to be Civil Service Commissioners; Guy T. Helvering, to be Commissioner of Internal Revenue; J. F. T. O'Connor, to be Comptroller of the Currency, and Hugh S. Gibson, as ambassador. The Senate is expected to take prompt action on confirming the nominations.

Mr. Mitchell, a publisher, of Great Falls, Mont., will become president of the Civil Service Commission in place of Thomas E. Campbell, the present incumbent. He was a supporter of President Roosevelt both before and after the convention, and was unsuccessful Democratic candidate for representative from Montana in the last election.

Mrs. McMillin will succeed Jessie Dell as the only woman on the commission. She is the widow of Benton McMillin, who died early this year after managing Roosevelt's campaign in Tennesse. Miss Dell is a Democrat and Mr. Campbell a Republican.

The appointment of Mr. Helvering to the Revenue post has been anticipated for some time. He is chairman of the Democratic State central committee of Kansas. It is rumored, but not definitely reported, that C. L. Shuping, of Greensboro, N. C., will be appointed assistant commissioner.

With the new commissioner ap-

Lindberghs Plan Return Over Gulf

Pontoons on Plane Will Aid Flight East by Way of Canal.

Los Angeles, May 1 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who arrived here last week on an inspection tour of facilities of the Transcontinental Air Line, of which he is technical adviser, probably will make their return trip to the East on a flight over water.

It was learned today the colonel expects to order the installation of pontoons on his low-wing Lockheed plane held here since the damage sustained while the famous couple were flying in the Orient in 1931.

Friends of the couple here believe the Lindberghs will return home via the west coast of Mexico, the Panama Canal and fly eastward across the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic Coast.

MINIMUM PAY LAW HELD VITAL IN PLANS

Secretary of Labor Calls It Essential in Reconstruction Program.

(Associated Press.)

Predictions that enactment of Secretary Perkins' shorter work-week plan would ruin sugar refiners, handicap anthracite miners and bring lower wages for workmen were met yesterday with a statement from the Secretary that minimum wage laws must be passed to complete the reconstruction program.

The direful predictions all were made before the House Labor Committee, and downtown the first woman Cabinet member, in a press conference, defended her proposal to let the Federal Government establish minimum wages, control production and force industry to observe a five-day week, six-hour day.

Emerging from a talk with President Roosevelt a short while afterward, however, Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, indicated that the bill is not on the program for enactment at the special session.

Called "Maximum" Wage.

Miss Perkins concentrated on the minimum-wage proposition, which is vigorously opposed by organized labor.

"A minimum wage is necessary at this time if the whole program of reconstruction is to go through," Miss Perkins said.

The children's labor strike in Pennsylvania, she continued, constitutes "a dramatic illustration of conditions prevailing not only in Pennsylvania but in other States where labor standards are being broken down by the pressure of cut-throat competition."

While she was saying that, John B. Haggerty, president of the Allied Printing Trades Association, was testifying before the committee:

Sees Advantage to Cuba.

Earlier in the day, Charles R. Crisp, former House member from Georgia and later a member of the Tariff Commission, had warned the committee that if the 30-hour-work-week bill were passed without a provision barring imports made by workmen on a longer schedule the American sugar refineries would be "scrapped" and "Cuba become the American sugar refinery."

A Frankville, Pa., coal producer, E. H. Suenden, held, too, that maintaining present wages and putting the coal industry on a 30-hour week would "increase cost, force abandonment of high-cost mines and cause more unemployment."

Other witnesses included Edward J. Walsh, president of the International Photoengravers Union, who said he was "emphatically opposed to the exemption of newspapers and periodicals" from the 30-hour week, and H. W. Phelps, president of the American Can Co., who indorsed the principle of the bill but urged greater flexibility as the measure applies to his industry.

President Roosevelt was represented authoritatively last night as hoping for some kind of legislation to be worked out on the basis of the 30-hour work bill. However, word from Capitol Hill was to the effect that lengthy hearings are in prospect. Apparently the administration is not going to let an extended dispute on this measure hold up adjournment.

provision for a $2,000,000,000 fund to insure bank deposits, modified as suggested by President Roosevelt.

Securities Bill Advances.

The committee authorized Glass to seek a conference with the President and Secretary Woodin for a final check on the completed bill before reporting it to the Senate.

Progress was reported from the House on President Roosevelt's bill to regulate the sale of securities, with leaders planning to take it up as soon as the farm relief-inflation program is out of the way.

This bill, which also is waiting to be taken up by the Senate, will be submitted to the House Interstate Commerce Committee today by a subcommittee in somewhat different form.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, asked the Senate to postpone consideration of his bill to regulate the flotation of foreign securities, announcing he did not want to interfere with the administration measure.

Inquiry Already Growing.

Johnson plans to offer his more drastic bill as an amendment to the administration plan when the latter comes before the Senate.

Pecora announced that there would be a series of hearings into the operations of private bankers, and that the Morgan case alone would last several days.

He said the inquiry already has extended to Drexel & Co., the Morgan firm of Philadelphia, and would include the Morgan affiliations in London and Paris. The committee is studying the flotation of both foreign and domestic securities, he added.

It also is going into the questions of interlocking directorates, operations in utility securities, and joint syndicates with other banks and corporations, Pecora said.

Although no subpenas have yet been served, Pecora said, all the 20 members of the Morgan firm have been notified to be ready to accept service.

Morgan and Thomas W. Lamont, senior partners, are sure to be called to the stand, the counsel said, and other members of the firm according to developments.

Pecora said all of the information originally requested of the Morgan firm in a series of 23 questions, now has been furnished and his accountants are working on the books of that firm and the other two banking houses.

Tulsa, May 1 (A.P.).—L. R. Haney, 64-year-old dispossessed home owner, was charged with murder today for the fatal shooting of H. T. Church, an attorney, in Church's office here last week.

Investigators believed the shooting occurred because of Haney's bitterness over the way litigation in connection with his property had been handled.

Mrs. Roosevelt Discusses School Teachers' Training

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

Equal education opportunity for every child as a true spirit of the theory of education was stressed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at her press conference at the White House yesterday. She selected education as the theme of the conference with special emphasis on the tremendous powers a public school teacher wields over the boys and girls of the nation.

Mrs. Roosevelt indorsed the theory of teaching modern languages in the lower grades. She deplores the fact that many girls and young men go into the teaching profession without giving real thought to it as a vocation. Mrs. Roosevelt is a strong advocate of proper training for teachers, considering this more important than curriculum or modern-equipped school buildings. She advocates a system of three years' training much more intensive than the ordinary four year course, in which travel at home and abroad plays an important part, instead of long vacations during which training is suspended.

In this way the First Lady believes the teachers will have more of background than they can get just out of books. The system of paying low salaries to provide expensive equipment was decried.

It has not been easy, Mrs. Roosevelt has learned in the White House, to find any consecutive time she could call her own, and she has had to arrange a new technic of work. She has not, however, found it possible to carry out the intention she announced shortly after Inauguration to keep at least two hours each morning for herself.

Mrs. Roosevelt has managed to carry out many of the economies she has planned for the White House and has found that she can get along with the reduced domestic staff by calling in extra help for special occasions. There has also been a saving on the White House automobiles and some of the drivers have been returned to the departments from which they were detailed. There has been a saving on gasoline.

The new mistress of the White House keeps a careful check on the table expenditures, and even the state dinners are not extravagant as to menu, although of the proper kind to serve to distinguished guests.

The opportunity to meet interesting figures from all over the world is one of the compensations for the hard routine of the White House. Mrs. Roosevelt expressed interest in all the distinguished persons who have been guests lately and commented on the similarity of character of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain and former Premier Edouard Herriot of France. Both of them are self-made men and converse quite simply of their families, their lives and the events which have brought them to success. The wife of the President was particularly pleased by the interest the two men showed in her interests.

On May 17 Mrs. Roosevelt will join the party of senatorial women who will visit Stratford, home of the Lee family, in Virginia. Mrs. Roosevelt recalled that it was her husband, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, who was one of the first to advocate restoring this historic Virginia mansion and estate.

The group of women who worked late and long in sultry summer time and trudged down the railroad tracks in the face of the icy winds of winter during the World War as members of the Red Cross Canteen Corps, stationed at Union Station, of which Mrs. Roosevelt was a member, will attend the garden party to be given by the wartime chairman of the corps, Mrs. Larz Anderson, in the garden of her Washington home. Those who have their uniforms, among them, of course, Mrs. Roosevelt, will wear them.

Mrs. Roosevelt will leave Washington with her friend, Miss Nancy Cook, tomorrow morning for a motor trip. They will take turns driving the car.

TREASURY RELAXES EMBARGO ON GOLD

Regulations on Exporting Indicate Dollar Content May Remain.

Treasury regulations governing the export of gold for essential international settlements were formally promulgated yesterday.

They signalize the first relaxation of the drastic gold embargo clamped down two weeks ago to frustrate unwarranted dollar speculation abroad while the administration was working out its reflation program in Congress.

The slight relaxation of the gold authority means that international payments again may be made under terms and conditions prescribed in each case by the Treasury. The licenses will be issued through the regional Federal Reserve Banks.

In banking circles the new regulations were interpreted as tacit assurances that President Roosevelt has no intention of altering the gold content of the dollar, under authority contemplated in the inflation measure now before the House. Foreign exchange bankers have been informed there will be no official thought given revalorization until the conclusions of the projected World Economic Conference are at hand, if then. This means that the dollar will continue undisturbed on its present base for at least three or four months.

Although there is still a large amount of gold outside of the Federal Reserve System, there is apparently no intention on the part of the administration to attempt to force its deposit under the antihoarding sections of the emergency banking law of March 9.

Last week's Federal Reserve statement showed $712,000,000 in monetary gold stocks still within the country but not deposited with the Federal Reserve Banks as required by the President's gold proclamations of April 5 and April 20.

Inasmuch as there is serious question concerning the constitutionality of the law requiring such deposits of private stock, the Treasury will not press its demand for compulsory deposits.

PRESIDENT POWERS ACCORDED DEFENSE

Former Secretary Hurley in Speech Says Limit of Legality Observed.

Defending the powers recently conferred upon President Roosevelt against allegations that those powers constituted dictatorship and were not Constitutional, Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War, stated in an address at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va., yesterday that decisions handed down by the Supreme Court indicate very clearly that under the limits of the Constitution, Federal authority in national economics is even greater than the field now occupied.

He cited numerous decisions by the Supreme Court outlining the power of the Federal Government, and stated that in a final analysis "whenever a unity of national action is required to insure uniformity of national commerce regulations against conflicting and discriminating State legislation, the Federal authority is supreme."

Constructions placed upon the Constitution by the Supreme Court, Mr. Hurley asserted, show clearly that the use of the banking and currency power is not an invasion of State's rights. It is in no sense the exercise of dictatorial authority, he maintained.

Delivers Annual Lecture.

Speaking before President Chandler, of William and Mary College, Gov. Pollard of Virginia, other notables of the State and the student body and faculty of the historic college, where Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, John Tyler and John Marshall were students, the former Secretary of War delivered the annual Cutler Endowment lecture.

Both the people and their leaders seem now to be rather eager to relinquish local control, home rule, State rights and police powers if the law extending the jurisdiction of the Federal Government carries with it an appropriation to be expended locally, Mr. Hurley said.

The lack of local consciousness, the failure of the individual to perform the duties of citizenship, the failure of States to enforce their own laws have caused a paralysis of some of our local governments, he charged.

Basic Changes in System.

During this period of failure to enforce local laws, racketeers in all lines, grafters, profiteers and usurers, who obey neither the dictates of common decency nor the laws of their States, are permitted to go unpunished except in rare instances when they are brought to bar for the infraction of the Federal income tax law, or some other Federal law having little bearing upon the offense committed, he added.

Commenting on suggestions offered from different quarters for a change in national economic structure, Mr. Hurley explained that we are making basic changes in our system of economic life, but that we need an economic plan for the future that will have as much merit in its sphere as the Constitution.

"When such an economic plan appears," he said, "the Constitution will not prevent its accomplishment." Opinions that Communism, Fascism or Hitlerism will be the next step in the evolution of government, he waved aside, saying that these forms of government are of short duration and that there was no successful substitute for democracy.

House Seeks Data On Lowell's Ruling

Bay State Court Is Asked for Record in Crawford Release.

(Associated Press.)

Members of the House Judiciary Committee investigating the official conduct of Federal Judge James A. Lowell, of Boston, said yesterday the committee had sent for the court record of the proceedings in which George Crawford, Negro wanted on a charge of murder in Virginia, was released.

Impeachment of Judge Lowell was demanded by Representative Smith (Democrat), Virginia, last week. Representative Healey (Democrat), Massachusetts, said he had requested the court record in connection with Smith's impeachment resolution and on his own resolution providing that investigation of Judge Lowell's conduct be deferred until the Federal District Court of Appeals had ruled on the appeal from Judge Lowell's findings.

Pit Slayer Granted Reprieve by Rolph

Hanging Delayed to June 16 to Allow Time for Judge's Report.

Sacramento, Calif., May 1 (A.P.).—Gov. James Rolph, jr., today granted a reprieve until June 16 to Albert W. Fuller, formerly of Macon, Ga., who was sentenced to be hanged at San Quentin Prison next Friday.

The governor held a hearing recently on Fuller's case, and Martin I. Welsh, Sacramento County superior court judge who considered the legal facts of the hearing for the governor, asked him to stay the execution until he could complete his report.

Fuller was convicted in Madera County of having killed William Kipp by pushing him down an abandoned mine shaft. He pleaded self-defense.

Zoo's Musk Oxen Veto Manicuring With Gusto

Kansas City, May 1 (A.P.).—Elephants, zebras and water buffaloes didn't seem to mind having their feet manicured at Swope Park Zoo today, but four musk oxen objected strenuously.

Eight employes were required to trim their hooves. Two men were butted and kicked out of the barn. First aid was required by all eight after they "ganged" the animals, one at a time.

pointed, it is expected that the selection of collectors of Internal Revenue for the various districts will be made soon. These have been held up until the commissioner was chosen. $53,000,000 SLASH DUE IN NAVY FUNDS Swanson Says $46,000,000 Will Be Added to Public Works Program.

At least $53,000,000 will be cut from Navy Department expenditures next year, Secretary of the Navy Swanson said yesterday, but he is confident that a $46,000,000 item for naval shipbuilding will be added to the public works program.

He has been asked to cut his appropriation by $55,000,000, the secretary said, and already has savings of all but $2,000,000 in view. The economy will be made through a 10 per cent reduction in civilian personnel and by curtailing activities which do not add to the efficiency of the fleet. An attempt is being made to avoid cutting the enlisted personnel and officer list, he said. He expects to have this problem settled within a week.

He expressed his belief that shipbuilding would form a part of the public works after a conference with President Roosevelt at the White House. The $46,000,000 would be the first year's expenditures in a program which would call for appropriations of $230,000,000 over a five-year period.

The shipbuilding clause of the public works program would allow this construction to be decreased or enlarged according to the results of any disarmament conferences. It would also give the President power to stop all building if necessary to carry out future disarmament treaties. The class of ships to be built has not been decided. By the terms of the London conference, this country can lay the keel of one battleship in 1935, but another disarmament parley is scheduled for that year, Secretary Swanson pointed out.

INFLATION PROGRAM CLOUDED BY SPLIT

suspension of rules would have required a two-thirds majority.

With strong opposition voiced from both sides of the aisle, party leaders hastily decided not to employ this procedure for fear that they could not muster the required two-thirds.

Committee Reports Resolution.

Instead, they had the powerful rules committee set up machinery for action under procedure requiring only a majority for approval. A resolution allowing 6 hours of debate and a single vote on both the inflation section and the sending of the bill to conference was reported by the rules committee.

Chairman Pou later said the rules committee had "agreed to complete the debate tomorrow and vote Wednesday."

"That is the agreement," the North Carolina Democrat said, but immediately Byrns came forward with other ideas.

"It is my intention to keep the House here to vote tomorrow in order to dispose of the matter," said Byrns, "We have other things to do Wednesday.

"We must complete the debates tomorrow and that will take until about 7 o'clock. We might as well vote then and get rid of the bill by sending it to conference."

Amended Bill Received.

The amended bill was received by the House from the Senate shortly after convening from a week-end recess. Chairman Jones, of the House Agriculture Committee, who is slated to head the House conferees, asked unanimous consent that the House disagree to all Senate amendments except the inflation provision, and send the bill to conference.

Immediately, demands came from Chairman Somers of the House Coinage Committee, and Representative Snell, for time to discuss the currency expansion amendment. Jones said he was willing to grant three hours of debate, but Snell declined to agree.

"This is the most important measure before this Congress," Snell said. "I can't grant unanimous consent to this far-reaching proposal that changes the fundamental financial structure of the country."

Snell demanded that the measure be opened for amendment by the House and that two days' discussion be granted.

The House members, Byrns said, were acquainted with the Senate debate on the inflation proposal.

"Yes, but there is a certain responsibility on every member of this House," Snell replied.

Byrns Seeks Consent.

Byrns then sought consent for the Rules Committee to have until midnight to file a report with the House on the rule. Republicans opposed this until Byrns threatened to recess the House to permit the Rules Committee to bring in a report and Snell withdrew the objection.

The controversial inflationary proposal, designed to pour currency into dry credit channels and stimulate commodity prices, would give President Roosevelt power to reduce the gold content of the dollar, accept $200,000,000 in silver from foreign countries on war debts and to expand the currency by $3,000,000,000.

SENATE NEAR VOTE ON MUSCLE SHOALS

Approval of Program Is Due Today; Norris Obtains Changes in Plan.

(Associated Press.)

The Government Muscle Shoals and Tennessee Valley development program, dream of President Roosevelt and Senator Norris, of Nebraska, moved near to realization last night as the Senate indicated willingness to vote its approval today.

The majority was ready to vote on the oft-debated issue yesterday, but Republicans planning speeches not yet ready obtained delay. Once the bill is passed it must go back to the House, for Senator Norris had thrust aside the latter's already passed draft, complaining it was too hedged about with red tape to suit him.

Already yesterday two changes had been made by the Senate, both advocated by Norris. The first amendment would authorize the President to investigate whether private interests had benefited unduly in the operation of the Government-owned power plants in Alabama.

The second authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, as well as the Secretary of War, to provide for construction of Cove Creek Dam or any other dams and plants to be built under the power, navigation and flood-control project.

Norris called up his bill instead of that passed April 25 by the House, because he differed specially with House provisions relating to Government distribution of power and manufacture of fertilizer.

The House bill provides for quantity production of fertilizer, while Norris' measure only calls for experimental production.

The House bill calls for contracts with private power companies for distribution and resale of Government-produced electricity, and limits its distribution to a 400-mile radius.

The Norris bill would authorize the Government corporation operating the Shoals plants to construct, lease or build its own transmission lines.

Gov. Ferguson Hits Texas Oil Control

Brands Rail Board's Act Cause of 10-Cent Market Price.

Austin, Tex., May 1 (A.P.).—Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson today sent to the Texas Legislature a message criticizing the State Railroad Commission's administration of oil proration laws and urging the creation of an oil and gas commission.

The governor said the railroad commission's order permitting east Texas oil field a daily capacity production of 750,000 barrels was "one of the most ill-advised official actions that has taken place in many years," and was the "cause of 10-cent oil today."

Mrs. Ferguson suggested that the speaker of the House and the lieutenant governor be empowered to act with her in the appointment of the members of the proposed new commission if the Legislature felt that the appointive power should not be given to the governor alone.

Two fellow officers, summoned by the building manager to take charge of a suspicious character trapped on the thirty-first floor, freed Detective McKim.

Pierre "Gold Rush" On After Cash Finds

Pierre, S. Dak., May 1 (A.P.).—Another "gold" rush is on in South Dakota.

Ever since Federal authorities reported finding $9,360 in currency on the Verne Sankey ranch near Chamberlain, hideout of the gang which received $60,000 ransom for the return of kidnaped Charles Boettcher, wealthy Denver broker, there has been a rush of money seekers to the locality. Armed with picks and shovels, men and women are reported digging in search of more of the ransom money.

Oklahoma City's Oil Fields Closed Again

Oklahoma City, May 1 (A.P.).—Awaiting a corporation commission order for reopening the Wilcox Sand zone on the basis of new potentials and another permitting taking of potentials in the Simpson and Fault Line zones, the Oklahoma City oil field was shut down again today.

Regular production for Wilcox zone wells on which potentials have been taken is expected to be resumed tomorrow. The allowable will represent 9.5 per cent of the potential for April and 10 per cent for May.

LARGER ROCK CREEK PARK PLAN VETOED

Law Prevents Use of Conservation Corps for Extension in Maryland.

A request that a detachment of the reforestation army be employed to extend Rock Creek Park into Maryland has been turned down because the law gives no authority for work of this sort, Robert Fechner, director of the Conservation Corps, said yesterday.

The project was suggested by the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission, which estimated that it would provide work for 100 men throughout the summer. The law gives the Federal Government power to make agreements with States whereby the reforestation workers may be used on private and State lands, but does not allow the Federal authority to make such agreements with other bodies, it was explained.

So far, Mr. Fechner said, Maryland has not submitted any form of plan by which the Conservation Corps could be used in State forests. Nearly 400 projects for work are before the President for final approval, it was said, and 321 projects have already been approved. These developments already approved would provide work for 170,000 of the 250,000 men who will finally constitute the army. It was also revealed that a number of States have requested that Conservation Corps workers be detailed to build roads, but that all these applications have also been denied.

Only 3,200 men of the first 25,000 enlisted are in work camps, Mr. Fechner said, due to delay in having State projects approved. Further enlistments are being held up until more State plans are ready to be put into operation. Pennsylvania is the only State which has concluded an agreement and is using the reforestation army in State forests.

BROWN SHIRTS HELD TO BE ONLY POLICE

Geneva Group Votes Hitler Force Not Military Organization.

Geneva, May 1 (A.P.).—The disarmament conference committee on armies met one of the most perplexing problems before the conference today when it held that Chancellor Adolf Hitler's brown-shirted auxiliary police should not be regarded as a military organization.

This decision was approved by a majority of only one. The American delegate, Col. George B. Strong, was among those who voted that these police forces, about 50,000 strong, have no military value, and hence should not be counted as a part of the army the convention will allow Germany.

With the United States voted Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Hungary, Sweden and Holland. France, the three Little Entente nations, Poland and Spain contended that the auxiliaries, who have been especially active in German affairs the last few months, should be regarded as soldiers.

The committee now must decide one more troublesome question—what, if any, military value should be given Chancellor Hitler's Nazi Brown Shirt organization as a whole.

The French delegates say that it totals a half million and, because of its military training, should be counted as representing 30,000 soldiers in the army that will be fixed for Germany.

Col. Strong said that the Brown Shirts should not be counted twice, once as auxiliary police and again as members of Hitler's main organization.

Count Rudolf Nadolny, the German representative, announced it should be possible to harmonize French and German views on the question of effectives, intimating thereby a hope that a convention can eventually be signed.

Minnesota Delays Foreclosure Sales

Governor Orders Postponement After Fear of Violence.

St. Paul, Minn., May 1 (U.P.).—All farm mortgage sales in Minnesota were postponed tonight for from 30 to 60 days under orders from Gov. Floyd B. Olson to all sheriffs and other county authorities.

Olson issued the order after receiving telephone and telegraph messages from sheriffs declaring that there probably would be violence if sales were attempted.

A moratorium declared by Olson on foreclosures expired Sunday. Relief measures passed by the State Legislature do not become effective for eighteen days after that date. Sheriffs reported that the objections were to holding sales during that eighteen-day period.

SCENE AFTER MAY DAY LOOP BOMBING IN CHICAGO

Associated Press Telephoto.

GUARDSMEN SEIZE 60 RIOT SUSPECTS

Iowa Military Go Through Seven Northwestern Iowa Counties in Drive.

Lemars, Iowa, May 1 (A.P.).—Stalking swiftly today through seven northwestern Iowa counties in search of suspects in last week's farm riots, National Guardsmen tonight had arrested more than 60 persons.

Twelve Plymouth County men were apprehended at Lemars. Thirty-one were picked up in O'Brien County as 50 guardsmen moved in to seize those involved in a riot at the Primghar courthouse and the abduction of Judge C. C. Bradley at Lemars last Thursday.

Troops quartered at Denison extended their activities into Monona, Shelby, Harrison, Crawford and Carroll Counties in search of men involved in a riot at the Joseph Shields farm near Denison last Friday. More than twenty were jailed.

Civil courts in Plymouth and Crawford Counties, seats of the disturbances, were closed by Gov. Clyde Herring. His order placed the military forces in full control, both in keeping order and dispensing justice.

(Associated Press.)

The executive committee of the American Bar Association, at a meeting here yesterday wrote and approved a letter commending the "courage" of Judge C. C. Bradley, who was manhandled by a Lemars, Iowa, mob, and congratulated him upon the outcome of his "unfortunate experience."

Texas Oil Leader Pleads Not Guilty

Defendants Ask Each Be Tried Separately on Attack Charge.

Austin, Tex., May 1 (A.P.).—Charles F. Roeser, of Fort Worth, president of the Texas Oil & Gas Association; Bryan Payne, of Tyler, and W. C. Stroube, of Corsicana, today appeared before the bar of the Texas State House of Representatives and pleaded not guilty to contempt charges.

They requested that each be tried separately on the charges that they assaulted Representative Gordon Burns, of Huntsville, because of his opposition on the floor of the house to passage of a bill creating a State oil and gas commission.

The respondents denied the house had jurisdiction to try them. Payne and Stroube specifically denied that they etered into a conspiracy with Roeser to attack Burns, who was injured in a fight in a hotel lobby a week ago tonight.

Reds Parade War Strength; Hitler Dares Foreign "Yoke"

Moscow's All-Day Show Passes Before Stalin at Lenin Tomb.

Moscow, May 1 (A.P.).—A million persons—proletarians, peasants, soldiers and sailors—swarmed through Moscow's Red Square today in a celebration of May Day that lasted from morning until late tonight.

Outstanding in the great mass demonstration were the appearance and equipment of between 35,000 and 50,000 troops of the Moscow garrison, who had with them armored cars, artillery, antiaircraft guns and tanks larger than any foreign observers ever had seen here in a demonstration of this kind.

There were more than twenty huge tanks, painted a battleship gray and carrying 3-inch guns in their turrets.

Joseph V. Stalin, Russia's dictator, stood on the top of the sacred tomb of Lenin and received the salutes of the military and the cheers and songs of the civilian participants. Stalin was dressed as usual in a semi-military overcoat, with khaki cap and black boots.

The celebration opened with a 101-gun salute fired from the battlements of the Kremlin. Stalin was at his reviewing post at the beginning and he remained there the whole day through. With him were other high Russian officials, including M. I. Kalinin, chairman of the union central executive committee, and V. M. Molotov, president of the council of peoples commissars.

Saluting the traditional day of the worker, 350 airplanes dipped low over the procession. The soldiers taking part in the demonstration wore summer uniforms for the first time this year, and they presented a colorful spectacle.

After the military had passed the reviewing stand, thousands of workers and peasants swarmed into the square from three streets. Slowly they marched past the Lenin tomb, singing and cheering. They carried numberless banners and signs telling of the progress of Socialist construction.

In an address to the troops War Commissar Slemence Voroshilov declared "We are the masters while in the western countries. Demonstrations today will be met by police rifles and machine guns."

REPEAL ACTION DUE FROM RHODE ISLAND

ment act was ordered repealed, the referendum vote was: Wet, 171,960; dry, 47,652, a ratio of approximately 3½ to 1.

The wet victory was all the more impressive and decisive by reason of a bitter fight waged in the past month by dry forces who hoped, by holding up "return of the saloon" as a threat, to turn many opponents of prohibition into opponents of repeal.

Each side presented a slate of 31 delegates at large, one slate pledged to repeal, the other opposed. In addition there was a slate of 15 unpledged delegates. The latter received only scattering votes.

Indications were that the $3,000,000 unemployment relief bond issue, which was voted on a separate ballot and which had been urged by both major political parties, had passed by a generous margin.

Chicago Jury Convicts Kentuckian as Killer

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—A jury in criminal court today convicted James Preston Chastine, of Louisville, Ky., of manslaughter for the slaying here of his uncle, James A. Carroll, 62, during a drinking party.

Sentence was deferred until after arguments on a motion for a new trial, scheduled within a few days. The penalty for manslaughter usually is 1 to 14 years. Chastine confessed to police he had beaten his uncle after the latter upbraided him for leaving his wife in Louisville.

Germans' Chancellor Says Inferiority Complex Has Disappeared.

Berlin, May 1 (A.P.).—Chancellor Adolf Hitler at the first May Day celebration held under his dictatorship tonight hurled defiance at foreign nations which, he charged, were aiming to destroy Germany.

He said Germany's inferiority complex had disappeared once and for all with the "national awakening" and promised that the government would pull Germany out of a slough, in which years of mismanagement had plunged her, by her own efforts and by a plan, partly moral and partly economic, the details of which he explained.

One and a half million Berlin residents acclaimed the Nazi chieftain as he shouted passionately: "German people, you are not second rate, even if the world wants you to be so a thousand times.

"We will never bow our necks to a foreign yoke. We want peace and lo, other nations turn against us, but they will not succeed."

The chancellor's appeal for national unity was made at Templehof Airdrome, once a Hohenzollern parade ground, where a huge army of laborers mobilized for the climax to a turbulent May Day filled with speeches, parades and military music.

The government's program, the chancellor said, consists of eight parts:

First, fighting to keep the power that is now in its hands.

Second, awakening self-confidence in the German people.

Third, convincing the people that the government wants but one thing, namely, the people's weal.

Fourth, Elevating the esteem in which manual labor should be held by drafting every youth, whether rich or poor, for compulsory labor service.

Fifth, freeing creative business and industry from the fetters of majority votes.

Sixth, putting agriculture on its feet, thereby building a foundation for welfare also of the factory and intellectual worker.

Seventh, reducing unemployment partly by urging private owners to undertake a vast program of house repairs and partly by devoting several billion marks to public works, especially road construction.

Eighth, reducing interest rates and adopting a trade policy with other nations which would protect and stabilize production without harming farmers.

Mrs. Buck Severs Mission Relations

Author Resigns Following Trouble Over Views on Church Doctrine.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Mrs. Pearl S. Buck, whose novels of Chinese life have made her one of America's most widely known missionaries, but whose doctrinal views have met with some criticism by members of her church, has severed her connection with the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions.

Mrs. Buck's doctrinal views antagonized some of the church's conservative element, but Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, one of the board's secretaries, recently praised her work and said he believed a conversation with her would clear up the trouble.

The board, in announcing her retirement today, issued the following statement:

"After various friendly conversations and without appearing before the board, Mrs. J. Lossing Buck has requested that she be permitted to retire from active connection with the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and at a meeting on Monday (today) the board accepted her resignation with regret."

Defense Is Undertaken In Test of Blue Laws

The National Association Opposed to Blue Laws announced last night that it would defend the three men who were arrested Sunday for violation of the Maryland blue law when they moved the household goods of S. H. Horn, Washington attorney, to Somerset, Md.

It was stated that John J. McGinnis, 2325 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who successfully defended C. B. Rosenberger against a similar charge in Clarendon, Va., last year, would represent the three men when they are brought to trial in the Montgomery County police court next Monday. Rosenberger was charged with violation of the Virginia blue law for painting his house on Sunday.

INDEPENDENT OFFICE BILL NEARING HOUSE

Carrying 30-Year Retirement Provision, May Be Reported Today.

The sharply cut independent offices bill, carrying items of general legislation ranging from 30-year retirement of Federal employes to power for the President to cancel transportation contracts, will be reported to the House today or tomorrow.

House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan will turn the measure over to the full Appropriations Committee at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Cut $468,407,000 under the total allowed by Congress last session, the bill reflects the $400,000,000 reduction in veterans' benefits ordered by the President.

Probably the most controversial of its provisions has to do with retirement of Federal employes after 30 years of service. The committee rewrote the compulsory Budget Bureau provision, substituting "selective" retirement, at the discretion of the President.

As exclusively reported in last Saturday's Post, the bill further modified the original Budget Bureau authorization for the President to cancel contracts, limiting this authority to transportation agreements, such as ocean and air mail contracts.

Other general legislative features of the bill provide for furloughing of Army officers at half pay, and limit military flying pay in excess of regular pay.

Apple Bloom Fete Starts Tomorrow

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 1.—With approximately 100 entries allotted positions in the line for the feature parade, "The Trail of the Pink Petals," at the Apple Blossom Festival here Wednesday and Thursday, Director of Parades Fred A. Read, jr., declared today that the line of march would be about 6 miles in length and would in point of beauty eclipse all previous festivals.

The statement was made by Mr. Read after he had completed the arrangement of 40 bands in division form together with between 50 to 60 floats. He added that a score of entries were to be made between the present and the time the parade moves at 2 p. m. Thursday.

With the stage set, Winchester this afternoon awaited the arrival tomorrow of Queen Shenandoah the Tenth, Miss Francoise May, daughter of the Belgian Ambassador to the United States, who will reign over the festival. Miss May, accompanied by her official escort, Count Francois de Buisseret, first secretary of the Belgian Embassy, will motor under police escort to Winchester tomorrow afternoon. While here they will be entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Philip W. Boyd.

Chicago Slakes Thirst And Pays $10,000,000

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—It took, according to an unofficial survey, some $10,000,000 to slake Chicago's thirst since beer became legal 24 days ago.

The brewers reported today the city had consumed about 2,400,000 cases and 48,000 barrels of brew. At 15 cents a pint, the average retail price here, that would be $10,425,000 worth. Nearly all of the breweries are running 24-hour shifts seven days a week.

DYNAMITE BLASTS TERRIFY CHICAGO

sters' union racketeering war, and recalled similar bombing outrages two years ago. At that time there were dynamite attacks on Sears, Roebuck & Co., the International Harvester Co. plant and the downtown furniture mart and merchandise mart. Blame then shifted from "reds" to the trucking racket—intimidation of "big business" that failed to accede to demands of the gang-controlled group of teamsters and truck drivers.

Several orderly parades passed through the Loop streets this afternoon.

(Associated Press.)

May Day was a stirring holiday of music, speeches, and parades for Russian and German workers, but in much of the rest of the world there were bombings, bloodshed, protest parades, or stringent decrees against demonstrations.

Three hundred self-styled "hunger marchers" met on Boston Common and then laid demands for relief before Gov. Ely's secretary.

Thousands of persons marched through New Orleans streets in protest against a pay scale obtaining for relief work fixed by the Louisiana Relief Administration.

Thousands of Communists and Socialists marched through New York streets with banners decrying Fascism, war, and want, and Hitler Fascism was hanged in effigy.

Paris spent the day calmly. Only one disturbance was reported in the French capital, when a crowd of 2,000 threw stones and bricks at police who had prevented them from parading.

Several were injured in Madrid when police broke up a demonstration of about 1,000 Communists. Spain, however, was generally quiet.

Peru was in a state of siege because of the assassination Sunday of President Sanchez Cerro by an alleged revolutionary.

Main streets of Vienna were guarded by soldiers with machine guns for Communists had scheduled a demonstration in defiance of a government decree.

London's demonstrations centered in Hyde Park. Marching university students chanted such slogans as "we will not fight for king or country" and carried banners decrying Fascism.

Conservative and antimilitarist radicals in Tokyo paraded separately because of a difference of opinion over the question of supporting the army's domination of national policies.

CONTRACTORS CALL TAX DIVERSION ORGY

Gasoline Levy Used for Other Than Road Building Is Termed Unjust.

No greater spectacle of economic folly has ever been witnessed in America than the orgy of gasoline tax conversion to governmental activities bearing no relation whatever to highways, the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America declared yesterday in a formal resolution adopted at its annual spring meeting at the Willard Hotel condemning such diversion.

"The inevitable end of all such programs of unjust taxation is a revolt by those paying the tax, as it were, 'a killing of the goose that lays the golden eggs,'" the resolution asserted. "The Associated General Contractors reiterate their stand against the diversion of motor vehicle and gas tax revenues to other than highway purposes, and urge the use of these funds to provide useful highway facilities for those who pay the tax and to provide jobs for our unemployed citizens."

Prefer Work to Dole.

Arguing that work is preferable to dole, the board also urged that a large volume of needed public works be launched immediately under supervision of existing agencies manned by experienced engineers and architects so that work relief might be expedited.

Recommendation that the proposed "blue sky" securities bill be amended to require impartial certified appraisals of real estate upon which securities are issued and indorsement of the so-called Nashville plan to govern relations between general and subcontractors and to eliminate "bid peddling" also were approved.

Details of the national construction program urged upon the administration by the Construction League of the United States, were explained by Col. J. P. Hogan, of the American Society of Civil Engineers, who, with Robert D. Kohn, past president of the American Institute of Architects, and Edward J. Harding, managing director of the Associated General Contractors, constitute a special committee of the league to advance the proposal. Hogan expressed belief that recommendation of a sizable public works program would be forthcoming from the White House soon.

Report on Legislation.

The program also included a report on legislation by Col. George B. Walbridge, of Detroit; a discussion by A. E. Horst, of Philadelphia, of the cooperative efforts of surety companies and general contractors to improve surety writing practices, and a review by S. M. Williams, of Washington, of the activities of the Bureau of Contract Information in classifying and rating general contractors according to their skill, integrity and responsibility.

Among the guests presented to the board by A. C. Tozzer, of New York, president of the association, were Gov. Harry H. Blood, of Utah; Donald H. Sawyer, director of the Federal Employment Stabilization Board, and V. B. Phelan, of the Division of Building and Housing, Department of Commerce.

ITALIAN CONFEREES WILL ARRIVE TODAY

by Mussolini in all matters relative to disarmament, as well as to debts, has been a studied support of this Government. This was true when the first debt moratorium was declared and has been also true to a lesser degree where questions involving disarmament were involved.

Stabilization of the American dollar is at the moment more important to Italy than almost any other subject on the international calendar. There is, of course, the Mussolinian doctrine of continental stability as a necessary prerequisite for agreement on economic problems, which is another way of saying revision of treaties, but it is not believed that any decisive campaign will be made here at this time to venture upon that dangerous theme.

Rosso Is Quiet Observer.

Some measure of agreement between the United States and Italy on the broad lines of a disarmament plan that will jibe with the MacDonald plan as well as with the plan that has been fostered by American Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis, will undoubtedly be sought there. Italian Ambassador Rosso has been quietly observing the result of the British and French missions and finds himself in the strategic position of the man who still holds his cards after all the other bids are in. He will be able to play his hand to its advantage.

The Argentine mission is concerned with the agricultural and economic phases of the London conference. The project of an international wheat conference also will be explored with some thoroughness at this time, as it is already believed certain that the United States will send Henry Morgenthau, sr., as American delegate to the conference when it meets in Geneva late in May.

The more equable adjustment of tariff rates and the elimination of the objectionable quarantine restrictions that have hampered the improvement of American-Argentine trade relations will also be studied here in the next few days. Argentine Delegate Le Breton was met in New York by Ambassador Espil.

Espil Presents Colleague.

On their arrival here yesterday afternoon they went at once to the White House, where Ambassador Espil presented his colleague. Following this presentation, Mrs. Roosevelt invited them to tea in the west room of the White House and in the evening there was a formal dinner in honor of the two delegates.

The problem of American short-term credits is one of the most important to be discussed here with Chancellor Hitler's representative, Dr. Schact. It was explained that Ambassador Luther's competence in matters of finance is so universally conceded that there can be no derogation of his position here that Dr. Schacht is also coming to this country.

White House Visit Waits For Better Farm Prices

Waterloo, Nebr., May 1 (A.P.).—The 13 Sumnicks have just about given up their intention to accept this year an invitation from President and Mrs. Roosevelt to visit the White House.

Gus Sumnick, owner of the farm which the Roosevelts visited on a campaign trip last September, today said there was not quite enough money in farming this year to take his wife and 11 children to Washington. But next year, he said, expected increases in farm prices should make the trip possible.

EXPERTS REGISTER WITH HOUSE PLANS

Renovize Contest With Old Structure to Extend Through May 9.

Many local architects and draftsmen were registering yesterday for the competition for a suitable plan of renovization for the old house on exhibition between the new Department of Commerce Building and the Willard Hotel.

The contest is to be continued through May 9, and will be judged by a committee of architects designated by the president of the local chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The winner of the competition will be made chairman of a special committee on the development of the design. Plans must be submitted to the competition committee, Renovize Washington campaign, room 221, Star Building. Any number of plans may be submitted.

For Family of Three.

Under requirements of the contest, the old structure must be renovized for a family of three with moderate means who have decided for the sake of a child to have a small suburban home with plenty of grounds. It is assumed that the structure is a corner lot, bordering on an alley.

The structure on display is of frame, 19 feet 2 inches by 29 feet 8 inches, one story high, 12 feet from floor level to ceiling, with low hipped roof. The total net floor area is about 500 square feet.

Minimum requirements call for living and dining space, separate or combined, kitchen, bedroom for parents, bedroom for child, bathroom, flower garden, outdoor sitting space, outdoor play area, service and laundry yard, adequate closet space, kitchen space for refrigerator, laundry trays, ironing board, utensils, etc., storage space and minimum space for heating plant and hot-water heater.

Add Extra Bedroom.

The plans must also provide for adding an extra bedroom with access to bath or with economical provision for extra bath and a site for a future garage.

The hypothetical family has an annual income of $3,000 and a savings account of $1,800. The head of the family has a life insurance policy of $5,000. Cost of the lot and house is $1,000, leaving $800 in available cash, of which $300 is to be held for emergencies. The borrowing power of the head of the family is placed at $5,000, but he desires to hold the cash outlay to $3,000.

Court to Approve Reynolds Charities

Bank's Plans to Protect 2-Year-Old Child Are Denied.

Concord, N. C., May 1 (A.P.).—Judge Wilson Warlick in Cabarrus County Superior Court announced late today he would give formal approval to an agreement whereby the estate of the late Smith Reynolds would be used to establish a charitable fundation after $4,000,000 is divided equally between his daughter, 2-year-old Anne Cannon Reynolds, and her half-brother, the infant son of Libby Holman Reynolds.

His announcement was made as he denied the petition of the Cabarrus Bank & Trust Co. seeking to force its coguardian, Mrs. Annie L. Cannon, to join with it in what it termed its efforts to protect the rights of Anne Cannon Reynolds 2d.

The bank sought to have declared void an agreement by which the child's mother, now Mrs. Brandon Smith, of Charlotte, waived her and its claims to the R. J. Reynolds tobacco fortune for $500,000 each at the time she divorced young Reynolds in Reno.

Mrs. Norton Seeks District Franchise

Introduces Amendment to Constitution Giving Washington Vote.

An amendment to the Constitution giving the District representation in Congress and the right to vote for President, was proposed yesterday in a resolution introduced in the House by Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey.

Identical with a resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, the measure introduced by Chairman Norton, of the House District Committee, will not be pressed until the next session of Congress.

"I believe that an enthusiastically organized campaign of education at this time supported by a firm presentation of the case to Congress, will result in favorable action," commented Mrs. Norton.

SENATE VOTE SAVES RELIEF IN DISTRICT

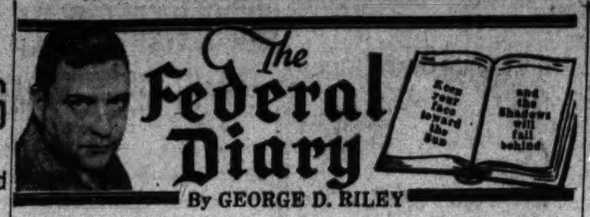
also has voted to make this amount immediately available. So the District has two irons in the fire, Mr. Wilson pointed out.

The Lewis-Wagner relief bill was passed yesterday without a record vote, after less than an hour's debate. A salary increase of from $8,500 to $10,000 for the new relief administrator was voted by the Senate, when proponents of the boost pointed out the 15 per cent Federal pay cut will automatically bring it again to the lower figure.

Another Senate amendment authorizes the administrator to appoint State administrators, where necessary, to bring about effective cooperation between Federal and State agencies.

Yesterday's vote marked the second time the Senate has passed the relief bill. It first passed the chamber in different form several weeks ago, but the House rewrote it, contending that as it is an appropriation measure, it should originate in the House. The House today has the alternative of accepting the Senate alterations, or sending the measure to conference to iron out minor differences.



By GEORGE D. RILEY

THIS talk about balanced budgets has its echo in a personal way in the views and expressions by a woman on the Hill who is close to a member of Congress. Having heard she believed Old Man Budget is at the bottom of a lot of our troubles, we asked her if she would express her views. She did, but declined to have her name used.

Here are some of the things she said, in brief:

1—We must get down to earth. We must balance our own budgets.

2—Government employes at least are sure of their pay, while millions are sure of nothing.

3—We must strike a pace of sane living. We must see to it that we get our money's worth. We should assume a cash basis, a pay-as-we-go fundamental.

"Young women have come to me and have said they couldn't possibly make both ends meet on their Government pay, that they have dependents back home, that they can't keep going.

"Often I tell them that I can not afford expensive marcels, fur coats I do not require a room with private bath. I advise service hose, the kind nurses wear."

"But, Mrs. So-and-so, take the young woman stenographer or clerk who barely makes $100 a month now. Suppose she pay out for rent——"

"That's the point; we must not consider employes as individuals. We must take them collectively and as an average. Two men in the Army came in the other day. They said they simply couldn't do the 'impossible,' that they couldn't make the grade. I sat down with them and started budgeting their expenses and when we got through they were amazed. They couldn't see why they didn't have money left out of their incomes."

We present this interview simply to show a new slant that is held on Government workers and their problems.

THE Federal Diary Golf Tournament committee in charge of play at Indian Spring, May 25, last night announced that careful consideration has been given to the question, "should ladies be permitted to enter the Federal employes' tournament?"

J. Leland Acuff, general chairman, says "It is considered impracticable to accept applications for that day, since it would be almost impossible to properly handicap the lady entrants in comparison with men's handicaps.

"Indian Spring course, up to date, as it is, has special tees for ladies on most of the 18 holes, which naturally gives them advantage in distance, and this, too, would serve to unbalance the handicap play.

"We regret the necessity of limiting this affair to male entrants and wish to express appreciation to the ladies for the interest shown. This event, designed to promote wider acquaintanceship and good fellowship among Federal employes, apparently will do more than that. From a review of the applications, it appears the majority are from golfers not now affiliated with any golf club. To them a real treat is in store, for Indian Spring is truly as fine a layout as has been our privilege to view, and we are told that it was constructed under the supervision of the outstanding men in that profession.

"George Diffenbaugh, the club pro, will give you more details as to the topography of each hole and some advice on how to play these holes, through these columns.

Latest entrants include H. L. Madison, State; R. W. Johnston, Treasury; L. E. Skeen, Internal Revenue; Ray W. Lewis, Treasury, and Joseph S. Grimes, Commerce.

GEORGE H. LLEWLLYN, (*) Veterans' Administration, is a great lover of East Potomac Park. One of his great delights, he confides, is to motor down to the Georgetown channel front, park his car, and then find a lonesome bench. One would not gather, as he sees George from day to day, that he leans to day dreaming, but even the best of character readers sometimes makes an error in judgment. May our paths cross again, George.

EDDIE COLLIFLOWER, Bureau of Investigation pitcher, had no more on the ball yesterday than did Luther C. Steward, N. F. P. E. president. The result was a victory for G. P. O. over Colliflower's team as the Departmental League opened its championship race.

Mr. Steward hurled the first ball to Umpire Bussius, and his toss—as is usual in such cases—went somewhat wide, but no wider than some of the Investigation pitcher's twirls did in the seventh inning, when he blew up and allowed the Government Printers to walk off with a 10-5 conquest.

Bobby Lyons was the hero of the tilt. Lyons relieved Ingram in the fourth and pitched airtight ball, and capped his work by hitting a terrific homer off Colliflower during the G. P. O. rally for 3 runs. Colliflower and Lyons are bosom pals off the diamond, and spend most of their time in one another's company.

Director J. Edgar Hoover, Bureau of Investigation, was on hand to cheer his team, which last year won the championship from G. P. O.

LITTLE Congress will install its newly elected officers today. Lyndon Johnson, of Texas, was elected Speaker; Jack Frost, clerk, and Mr. Johnson, of Minnesota, as sergeant at arms.

For the first time in the history of Little Congress, which is the name of the organization on Capitol Hill whose membership is composed of the clerks and secretaries to senators and representatives, all officers elected have never before held office in Little Congress. It is truly a new deal, as the purpose of Little Congress was to have a debating society nonpartisan in its scope, with the idea of a membership that could learn the art of public speaking and debate and free from the partisanship of politics.

In the past 14 years of Little Congress, certain rules of the larger body were adhered to, such as the rule of seniority, but this rule was dispensed with in the recent election. An officer of Little Congress, in order to become speaker, had to start in at the bottom and retain membership and interest until at last the coveted goal of speaker was attained.

There are today many past members who can remember back at their speakership of Little Congress, an experience not easily forgotten, and needless to state, there will be regret that the old order has been so lightly cast aside. Who can foretell just what this action may be in the future success of this distinctive organization?

The Kansas City Star, $500 "for the best editorial"—a series on national and international subjects and particularly on governmental economy.

The committee also awarded three traveling scholarships in journalism to New York students and a traveling scholarship in music of $1,500 to Robert Delaney, of Santa Barbara School, Carpinteria, Calif.

The announcement of the Pulitzer prize winners in letters will be made at a dinner Thursday evening.

TREASURER REPORTS TO ADVENTIST GROUP

Foreign mission leaders in all countries aside from the United States and Canada, which are recognized as the home base, contributed $1,079,874.23 to the general conference of Seventh Day Adventists during 1932 toward the advancement of its world-wide activities, according to a report given by Treasurer J. L. Shaw at the spring council of the denomination in Takoma Park yesterday.

Following the announcement, a recommendation was passed for the treasurer to send letters of thanks for such a wonderful gift to the foreign division conferences. Mr. Shaw's report showed that the general conference treasury received $3,943,385.15 during 1932. Cash on hand and in bank on December 31, 1932, totaled $640,805.97, and there were security investments totaling $564,095.24, the total current assets being $1,584,413.12.

The Rev. A. G. Daniells, president of the board of managers of the College of Medical Evangelists, located at Loma Linda, Calif., reported that there has just been introduced at the institution, controlled by the general conference, a course that will better qualify medical students to engage in the spiritual side of medical ministry. He said greater work is being planned for those unable to pay for medical attention.

"Our plan is to train these young men and women to go into the homes of the poverty-stricken and minister to them without making any charge for service," he said. "We also want them to visit our denominational churches and give talks on both the medical and spiritual phases of life. This kind of a course is now being taught with the first-year class, who by the time they are through the four-year course will be qualified to go to mission lands and not only care for the bodies of the suffering, but minister to them spiritually."

Crush Out of Race Against Saunders

Montgomery Official Refuses to Be Candidate for Attorney General.

Roanoke, Va., May 1 (A.P.).—Charles W. Crush, of Christiansburg, Commonwealth's attorney of Montgomery County, announced tonight he would not be a candidate for attorney general of Virginia in the Democratic primary.

Mr. Crush had been considering entering the race against Attorney General John R. Saunders and had received assurances of support from numerous sources.

He made the following announcement:

"I appreciate the many promises of support given me by friends throughout the State in event I should enter the race for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. I have given full consideration to the stuation. In this economic crisis it is well to avoid intra-party contests, and I believe it will be to the interests of the Democratic party that I do not enter the contest. I believe the personal ambitions of all candidates should be subordinated to the good of the Democratic party, and I announce that I will not be a candidate."

Action of Gotwals Averts Furloughs

Bookkeeping on Repairs at Wilson School Helps Shop Employes.

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals' decision to charge $18,000 repair work against a $120,000 appropriation for rehabilitation of the Wilson Teachers' College will obviate the necessity of the District repair shop employes taking a two-week administrative furlough but probably will not lead to the restoration of any of the 68 per diem employes recently discharged.

This was the opinion of Harold W. Baker, director of construction, expressed after Maj. Gotwals and Auditor Daniel J. Donovan had decided that the $18,000 might be applied to the repair shop's pay roll. Formerly, the engineer commissioner had held that this transfer could not be done.

Maj. Gotwals had formerly ruled that the $18,000 was spent for repairs that would have been necessary under any circumstances and that were not part of the general rehabilitation.

Major Tastes Discipline; Tore Premier's Trousers

(United Press.)

Major, the White House police dog, has developed a temper and will no longr join Meggie, Mrs. Roosevelt's black scottie, in barking a welcome to visitors to the Executive Mansion, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Roosevelt said Major was in "deep disgrace" because he snapped at Prime Minister Bennett of Canada and Senator Hattie Caraway, (Democrat), Arkansas, when they called at the White House Saturday.

Mrs. Caraway's arm was bruised by the dog's fangs but Bennett escaped with slightly snagged trousers.

Hereafter, Major will be muzzled and kept away from visitors, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

STATUES MUTILATED ON DUPONT FOUNTAIN

Missing Fingers Called to Attention of Citizens Association.

Fingers missing from the figures on the Dupont Circle fountain created consternation among members of the Dupont Circle Citizens Association at its meeting yesterday afternoon at the Mayflower Hotel.

The fact that the fingers are missing was brought to the attention of the association by Harral Mulliken. Mischievous youngsters were blamed. Condition of the circle itself was also criticized, and it was voted to bring the matter to the attention of Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks.

The association also expressed concern that boarding houses are not specifically prohibited in restricted areas, whereas in semirestricted areas they are prohibited. This was believed to be due to a flaw in the wording of the regulations. Certain boarding houses in the Dupont section were singled out for criticism.

The time at which the association meets—4:30 p. m.—also caused some discussion. One member expressed the belief that this hour is preventing many persons from joining the association.

Col. Robert L. Longstreet and Mr. Mulliken were elected to serve as members of the executive committee for three years.

Silver Spring Fire Department Elects

Same Officers Returned to Posts at Annual Meeting.

Officers of the Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department were reelected last night at the annual meeting in the firehouse. Fire Chief Charles Deffinbaugh reported that the department had responded to 31 house, 21 auto and 16 miscellaneous fires and to 8 first aid calls, of which 69 were silent alarms, with an estimated fire damage of $5,125.

Officers are: Leo Bender, president; John Feast, vice president; L. L. Swindell, secretary; Clay V. Davis, treasurer; George Hamilton, financial secretary; Ernest Sayer, sergeant at arms; R. D. Crompton, W. J. Jouvenal, Mountz Deffinbaugh, Fred N. Oden and Fred L. Lutes, members of executive committee; F. N. Oden, W. J. Jouvenal, George Miller, Clifford Beall, Wilbur Beall, delegates, and George Hamilton, John Feast, V. H. Bender, Richard Nowlin, W. B. Davis, alternates to the annual State firemen's convention.

The treasurer reported that $7,783.19 had been received from tax funds, of which $4,757.87 was paid on fire engines. Remodeling of the firehouse, which cost $6,772.28, was paid for by carnivals and other benefits.

Takoma Park Fire Menaces 11 Lives

Five Are Rescued From Porch Roof; Exploding Heater Blamed.

Fire caused by an exploding water heater in the basement early yesterday routed 11 persons from their apartments at 109 Maple avenue, Takoma Park, Md. Damage amounted to about $2,500.

Six occupants of the building were awakaned by a passer-by and made their way to the street. The other five, including two children, were rescued from the roof of the front porch by members of the Takoma Park Volunteer Fire Department and Engine Company 22 of Washington.

C. J. Schrenker cut his foot when he kicked out the glass of a window to get himself and wife and year-old baby to the porch roof. Mrs. F. S. Williams, jr., and her 4-year-old child escaped with the Schrenker family. The other occupants, who were unharmed, were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Boyle, jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Tarwater and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Barnard. The apartment house is owned by the Tarwaters.

TAX MUST BE PAID NOW, SAYS OFFICIAL

Fairfax Treasurer to Send Collectors to Enforce Payment May 15.

Taxpayers of Fairfax County, Va., are receiving a memorandum from Dr. F. W. Huddleson, county treasurer, reminding them of their unpaid taxes for 1932 and warning that all such past-due tax bills must be paid immediately.

Huddleson writes that it is essential that taxes be fully collected for the prompt and efficient management of the county's financial affairs. He states that many taxpayers who do not pay their taxes when due on December 5 are assessed an additional 5 per cent and have gotten into a habit of considering the penalty as a carrying charge until June 15 and that they do not need to pay until that date.

This belief is a fallacy, he declares, as he is empowered under the Virginia law to enforce the payment of past due taxes any time after December 5 by a levy and sale. On June 15 all unpaid taxes are placed on the delinquent tax books and another 5 per cent penalty and a 6 per cent interest charge from that date until paid is added.

Dr. Huddleson states that on May 15 he intends to place collectors in the field to enforce tax payments of those unpaid by that date. He directs the taxpayers' attention to the fact that this will entail an additional expense on those where a levy is necessary, as the costs in each case are borne directly by the taxpayer. The collectors will be sent into the field this year earlier than usual so that the treasurer can close his books promptly on June 15 in accordance with the State law.

Girl Defies Gandhi; To Join His Fast

German Jewess Disciple Disobeys His Order to Quit Jail.

Poona, India, May 1 (A.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi faced a novel problem today when a young woman disciple defied his instructions to leave him and declared her intention of joining him in a three-weeks' fast which the religious and political leader will start May 8.

She is Dr. Margaret Spiegel, a German Jewess, who fled to India from Germany when Nazis came into power and joined the American woman, Miss Nila Cram Cook, as one of Gandhi's disciples at Ashram. Dr. Spiegel declared she wanted eventually to cause the Mahatma to abandon his project, which is in protest against the caste system.

Gandhi today instructed both women to leave Veroda Jail in which he has been imprisoned for more than a year in connection with his passive resistance campaign against the government. Miss Cook obeyed the leader and reentered Ashram, but Dr. Spiegel was deaf to all his arguments.

MEMORY OF DEWEY HONORED AT TOMB

Manila Fight Commemoration Marked With Flowers at Cathedral.

A service of commemoration of Manila Day was held at the tomb of Admiral George Dewey in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral yesterday at 5 p. m. The service was conducted by the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral.

The service was under the auspices of the Womans' Naval Service of which Mrs. Dewey was honorary president. She lies buried beside Admiral Dewey. Wreaths were laid on the tombs of Admiral Dewey and his wife during the service yesterday.

The wreath bearers were two small lads, Spencer Lee Hart and Henry Suydam, jr. The flags were carried by Hugh Morris and Robert Clement Watson, jr. The wreaths and flowers were furnished through Mrs. Laura V. Dann and Miss Lillian Dann.

Among the other children in the procession carrying flowers to place on the tombs were Judith Phillips, Edward Riggs and Margaret Riggs, Hillis Morris, Frederick Henney, jr., Olive Watson and Ennals Waggaman.

In his brief address, Canon Peter told the children of the inspiring life of Admiral Dewey and the lessons in the making of the American flag.

This annual service of the Woman's Naval Service in honor of the admiral was suggested in a statement written by Mrs. Dewey to a friend in which she declared: "I want Admiral Dewey to be buried where children can walk easily to his grave and, perhaps, lay a flower there as they try to emulate his bravery, sincerity and loyalty."

HOOGEWERFF RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Retired Rear Admiral Died in Honolulu While Visiting Son.

Funeral services for Rear Admiral John A. Hoogewerff, U. S. N., retired, will be held at 11 a. m. today in Arlington National Cemetery, Chaplain Sydney K. Evans, Chaplain Corps of the Navy, officiating. There will be no military escort or honors rendered other than "Taps" sounded by a bugler.

Rear Admiral Hoogewerff died February 13 in Honolulu while visiting his son, Lieut. Comdr. Hiester Hoogewerff, U. S. N., who is now operating officer on the staff of the commandant of minecraft, of the battle force.

Rear Admiral Hoogewerff was born in Howard County, Md., November 27, 1860, and was appointed to the Naval Academy by the President in 1877. During the Spanish-American War he served on the U. S. S. Cincinnati, of the North Atlantic Squadron, engaged in blockading Cuban ports, and participated in engagements at Matanzas, Cuba. He served as head of the Department of Equipment and Ordnance at the Naval Station, Olongapo, P. I., in 1908, and in 1909 commanded the Galveston.

In 1910 he was ordered to duty with the General Board and in 1911 was transferred to command the U. S. S. Kansas. After completing the Naval War College course in 1913 he was appointed superintendent of the Naval Observatory here and served in that capacity until he was given command of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania. He later served as commander of Division 1, Battleship Force 1, Atlantic Fleet, and for this service he was awarded the Navy Cross. He came back to Washington later for tours of duty as superintendent of the Naval Observatory and in the Office of Naval Operations.

Ministers Called Church Managers

Successful Business Men Viewed as Efficient in Congregation.

"A church congregation made up of men who are successful in their business life is always an organization of great efficiency," said Curtis Hodges, executive director of the Greater National Capital Committee of the Washington Board of Trade, in a talk yesterday before the Baptist ministers' conference at Calvary Baptist Church. Ministers of Washington churches are, in effect, he said, general managers of their congregations, and therefore should be directly interested in the work that is being done by the Greater National Capital Committee.

Hodges said the total amount of money brought into trade circulation here in the course of a year by the travel industry is approximately $40,000,000. All of this money coming from the outside being expended by visitors here, and circulating and recirculating in the city, creates new employment and adds to the success of every citizen. He said also great responsibility rests on pastors of Washington churches because Washington, as well as being the center of education, research and art, is also generally regarded as the national center of religious activities.

Something to Say
—not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click with them... that they're milder and taste better. I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

BONDS PAYABLE IN GOLD.

When the Senate passed the inflation bill it left one vital question still in doubt. Are Government bonds, which are promises to pay their face value in gold dollars of specified weight and fineness, to be paid in greenback currency? A number of senators brought this issue forward, but a motion by Senator Bulkley to clarify the meaning of the inflation act was voted down. Hence, the question is left to the House.

As the Senate passed the inflation measure it provides that $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks supported only by the credit of the Government may be issued and that they shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private. Presumably it is the intent of the Senate that the Government should dishonor its contracts to pay the full gold value of its bonds. Senator Bulkley's amendment would have made the proposed new currency legal tender for the settlement of all private debts, regardless of whether they contained clauses requiring payment in gold, but it would have required the Government to pay its bonds in dollars of the present gold value.

The theory behind this amendment is that a Government which has the power to regulate the value of money should not use that power to cheat the people from whom it has borrowed. That reasoning is fundamentally sound. If the Government should sell bonds payable only in dollars at whatever value the dollar may have when the obligation falls due, no one could complain if such bonds were paid in depreciated currency. But if the United States contracts to pay actual gold in a specified amount and then deliberately repudiates its agreement by paying in currency of less value it is cheating the people.

Since the Senate voted down Senator Bulkley's amendment it seems obvious that it has no intention of honoring the gold clause in the Government's bonds. Some one pointed out that if the gold content in the dollar should be reduced by 50 per cent and the Government should undertake to pay its bonds in gold at face value, the Federal debt would be increased from about $20,000,000,000 to $40,000,000,000.

The Supreme Court does not appear to have passed directly on this question. Some of its opinions suggest that payment of the gold bonds as specified can be enforced. Others indicate that the broad power of Congress over money would render the gold clause in the bonds inoperative. What the Supreme Court might say on the issue at present is a matter of conjecture. But surely Congress ought not to leave such a vital matter of policy to a decision of the Supreme Court on the question of its constitutionality.

It is not surprising that the Senate was ashamed to provide specifically that the proposed fiat currency should be used where Government obligations call for gold. Aside from breaking faith with the people who lent money to prosecute the war, this policy strikes a powerful blow at Government credit. Is it possible that the Government will try to float bonds promising to pay in gold dollars of specified weight and fineness while admitting that it does not intend to honor existing contracts as they are written? The people ought to know before this inflation measure is passed what the Government's intentions are. It is to be hoped that the House will meet the issue honestly, leaving nothing to conjecture when this measure is sent to the President's desk for signature.

A TIMELY CONFERENCE.

An opportune and comprehensive review of every phase of the momentous economic and financial changes impending as a result of legislation before Congress will take place in Washington this week, participated in by leaders of the business world and administration heads, including the President. The occasion is the twenty-first annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, which assembles today for a four-day session.

President Roosevelt will speak at the annual dinner of the chamber on Thursday evening. His first important address since the launching of his broad program in Congress is awaited with much interest by the representatives of commerce, industry and finance, an interest that is shared by the country at large. In addition to the address of the Chief Executive, most of the Cabinet members and heads of important divisions will appear before the chamber meetings for the elucidation of various proposed activities of the new administration.

Speakers from the ranks of business will discuss various topics. President Henry I. Harriman will speak for the chamber, presenting a summary of the changes which confront business. The former president of the chamber, Silas H. Strawn, is slated to discuss benefits to be secured from a revision of the anti-trust laws. Gerard Swope, of the General Electric Co., will consider practical aspects of business revival, and Gen. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania Railroad will consider the railroad's part in the present situation. In the long list of speakers appear such names as Walter Teagle, James A. Farrell, Paul Shoup and J. Howard Pew, giving evidence of the representative character of the leaders who will both attend and speak.

The chamber's meetings this week will constitute a second national congress composed of the most experienced and capable men in American business life. The deliberations of such a body and the composite opinion rendered upon pending issues will be of timely importance.

POLITICS AND TAXES.

One of the major responsibilities of a new President is to surround himself with advisers and co-workers who are sympathetic with his policies and who enjoy his full confidence. A redistribution of executive offices when a new President takes the helm is right and proper. It is logical, also, for the President to choose his political supporters for political jobs. But when positions of such a delicate nature as that of Commissioner of Internal Revenue are offered as plums to faithful party workers there is cause for apprehension.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is the Government's tax collecting agency. It has wide powers of discretion as to what taxes should be collected and what taxes are to be written off as "uncollectable." To put this agency in the hands of politicians, regardless of their personal probity, is to encourage wire-pulling on the part of wealthy political interests to escape payment of their full taxes.

Not all of the controversial tax cases reach the courts, the Board of Tax Appeals or even the Washington office of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Thousands of cases are compromised by field agents or officials within the bureau. In its 1932 report the bureau said that "increased efforts have been made to reach agreements with taxpayers as to tax liabilities in order to keep to a minimum the number of cases appealed to the Board of Tax Appeals and to avoid litigation in the courts."

When taxpayers do not report their full income or when the bureau thinks their taxes have not been computed properly, additional assessments may be made. In 1932 the bureau made such assessments amounting to $140,000,000. Field agents, also political appointees, made additional assessments of $32,364,500. These assessments are made within the discretion of the bureau officials. If they are not satisfactory to the taxpayer, agents of the bureau may compromise with the taxpayer rather than take the case to court. In this way a wide field for abuse is opened up. Unscrupulous interests seek to avoid payment of their taxes on political grounds.

There is a wide discrepancy between the amounts assessed by agents of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and the amount collected under those assessments. In some cases the Government sustains loss because the taxpayer has squandered all his income and is insolvent when time for payment of the tax arrives. In other cases insolvency is feigned. Indications are that the Government is cheated out of millions of dollars in this way. A corps of aggressive and competent collectors is needed, but these jobs as well as the higher positions are passed out as political plums. Such a system encourages fraud, incompetence and corruption.

Congress indulges in a great deal of unnecessary howling about tax refunds, which are checked and rechecked and then inspected by a congressional committee, but almost no attention is given to the lax methods employed in the initial assessment and collection of taxes. An investigation into the "compromises" by agents who receive their positions through political influence would be in order. Such an investigation might pave the way for putting the entire tax-collecting machinery under civil service and the elimination of all political appointments in the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

NEW YORK'S SALES TAX.

The experiment of the Empire State in inaugurating a 1 per cent retail sales tax will be watched with special interest, both by other States and by those who oppose or advocate a Federal tax of this kind. Other States are already collecting this form of revenue with notable success. New York's law excludes foodstuffs, but will collect one cent on every dollar's sale from all stores doing a business in any quarter amounting to $1,250 or more.

The Albany law requires the inclusion of the tax in the price quoted or advertised. That is, a merchant may not offer an article for sale for $5 plus the tax of 5 cents. In order to avoid this most stores, particularly those handling many articles of small price, will not attempt to add the tax to each item, but, as in the case of 5 and 10 cent stores, will merge the tax into the merchandising policies both at the buying and selling ends.

New York's new tax is considered a levy on the privilege of selling rather than upon goods themselves. The tax department will have no interest in how the merchant passes on the tax, or whether he absorbs it, except that he is not to make a nuisance of it by tacking it on to the price as a separate item. Wholesale houses that sell directly to consumers will be considered as retail establishments for the collection of the tax. Goods sold for delivery in another State will not be taxed if title is not to pass until delivery is made.

Much opposition was raised against the tax while it was being considered at Albany. As has been the case in many other places, however, New York merchants will soon get used to it. Making returns on total sales four times a year is not burdensome when they have already collected the amount due from their customers. Purchasers themselves will find that the few additional cents they pay out at any one time are a negligible item, and yet the sum total of these millions of operations means many millions of needed revenue for the State.

THE TRAGEDY AT LIMA.

An assassin's bullets brought to an end the stormy career of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro of Peru on Sunday afternoon, to be quickly followed by a declaration of martial law throughout the nation, the calling of Congress together in special session, and the election of Gen. Oscar Benavides to fill the unexpired presidential term. This all transpired within a few hours, and the country is reported to have accepted the transition without manifestations of disorder after quiet had been restored following the cowardly assault upon the president.

The fate of the Peruvian executive is further evidence that personal bravery in rulers is not infrequently their undoing. They are the special marks of the crazed brains of fanatics and revolutionaries. Gen. Sanchez Cerro had been repeatedly wounded in battle and attempted assassinations, having carried no less than fourteen bullets in his body before receiving the fatal ones. Gen. Benavides, who succeeds to the presidency, previously held the position of provisional president, and is generally looked upon as the logical man to head the nation during the remaining three years of the current term.

The short regime of the late president was marked by several revolutionary uprisings, but he maintained power by the severest of dictatorial methods. A majority of the constituent assembly who were elected at the same time he was made president, were deported or frightened into exile to be replaced by more subservient members. Gen. Sanchez Cerro's uncompromising attitude in connection with the seized port of Leticia resulted in an incipient war with Colombia.

With both neighbors and the nations of the world arrayed against the attitude the Peruvian government had taken in violation of Colombia's treaty rights and the various treaty obligations to which Peru was committed, it is to be hoped that President Benavides will find an honorable path of retreat for his country from an untenable position in the Leticia dispute. Gen. Sanchez Cerro had made the recovery of the Leticia corridor a campaign issue for years before his accession to the presidency. However, in supporting the local Peruvians who took forcible possession of territory that even the Lima government acknowledged had been ceded to Colombia, he called forth sharp criticism from the American Government and the League of Nations. Both Peru and Colombia are signatories of agreements that provide ample means for settlement of disputed boundaries or conventions by arbitration.

Pat Hurley finds that Congress can constitutionally transfer more power to the President than it has transferred already. Sure! Only one-third of this session has been consumed.

Messieurs Caillaux and Laval were thrown out of French politics when they came here and failed to bring home the bacon. Now its Ed. Herriot's turn.

AMERICA'S DICTATOR

By WILLIAM C. MURPHY, Jr., in the Commonweal.

There is something of a religious fervor in the Nation's confidence in President Roosevelt, and like a great religious ground-swell it is inexplicable on strictly rational grounds. But it is there, none the less, and it is the most powerful force in the United States today. The new President is envisaged as a near supernatural being who will protect the righteous, correct wrongs and punish wrongdoers. Perhaps, not the least element in his popular appeal was produced from the arrests of several erstwhile demigods of finance during his first two weeks in office. Time will tell whether or not they will be adjudged guilty of the offenses charged. But the mere fact that the arrests were made brought reassurance and renewed confidence to those who have sometimes thought that the traditional blindness of Justice has sometimes prevented that goddess from seeing that her scales were thrown out of balance by gold. Apparently the new deal was not to be made with stacked cards.

Perhaps, that is why after all there is something like a dictatorship in the United States today—a dictatorship that has not been legalized by Congress nor usurped by the President, a purely psychological dictatorship, the spontaneous product of the minds of 120,000,000 human beings who, for the time being at least, believe they have a guide who will not lead them astray.

Probably, there is a moral to be drawn from the present amazing situation, a moral pointing to a fact so obvious that it is often overlooked. A man who is elected to the Presidency by an overwhelming majority of the millions of voters throughout the Nation is certainly as authentic an agent of democratic governments as a congressman representing a few thousand voters and a few thousand jack rabbits and rattlesnakes. By the very nature of his office the President is compelled to place the general welfare of the Nation first, particularly if he hopes for reelection. On the other hand, it might conceivably happen that the all-absorbing interest of an individual congressman was obtaining an appropriation for a new crossroads postoffice or the paving of some local creek. Such things are not unknown.

It is a wise democracy which, in times of stress, has judgment enough to utilize its most efficient servant—otherwise, it may find a master.

The double-deck, farm-money bus is on its way for one of those excursions to an unknown destination.

The conductor's check-up may disclose too many dead-heads and stowaways with bad money.

The very necessity of exacting a tariff truce for the six weeks before the economic conference is an illuminating side-light on international practices.

Japan and Russia should wait a bit. When we get a railroad coordinator who can settle American transportation problems he can fix that little Chinese Eastern mixup some morning before breakfast.

It seems rather a waste of time and effort for Congress to build new conveyances for railroads, tariffs and public works when additional decks might simply be added to the world-renowned farm carry-all.

If your stocks are up 15 per cent in an 80-cent dollar how much do you figure you have gained?

It was all quiet along the Potomac Sunday evening. No wonder the President delayed his return to the Capital.

What nation will ever pay Uncle Sam on time again if defaulters are to be given 80 per cent preferential treatment?

A tariff truce may save M. Herriot's face; it wouldn't have saved him a premiership.

Blowing hot and cold is a simple trick in comparison with the congressional attempt to inflate money and deflate the farms, boost silver and lower gold, increase prices and reduce mortgages, all in one bill.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

TWO PHILOSOPHIES.

Raining! And it's cold wet rain!
Peonies will blossom soon again!
Or if you choose: Dark days like this
Are not my own idea of bliss.
I know my spine the water chills,
Rain may be good for daffodils
But I am subject to catarrh
And wet feet very dangerous are!

Raining! Cold, bitter rain and harsh,
The lawn is almost now a marsh.
Good for the roses: True enough!
But I need sun to do my stuff.
I find no keen enjoyment in Getting myself soaked to the skin.
Rain may bring blossoms fair to see,
But it brings suffering to me.

Rain! And divergent points of view
And both of them precisely true.
Rain brings the blossoms and the green
Which makes the lovely summer scene;
Likewise to him who walks the street
For many a day it spells defeat,
But though man praises or complains,
Grumbles or grins, some days it rains.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A WORLD in misery pleads in vain for a leader who can save it.

And now as always, being unable to think except in established grooves, it refuses even to consider the one leadership that would solve its problems.

All experience has shown that there is no hope for mankind except in Jesus of Nazareth.

The wisest men of many races, honestly striving to their utmost capacity, have devised scheme after scheme to insure peace, prosperity and security; yet each plan in turn, following some initial or apparent success, has broken down under the strain of greed, prejudice and malice. Even Communism, hope of the downtrodden masses, has in practice given power and privilege to the favored few while the toiling many live on crusts.

Only one plan known to mankind remains untried. It is the way offered by the Savior.

Is not that fact alone sufficient reason to give it an honest trial? When desperate men adrift at sea have tried every known method to save themselves, without sign or promise of success, will they refuse to try a new method merely because it never has been used?

You will answer that the way of the Nazarene is impractical. That is true. Love and compassion are always impractical. So are songs, laughter, poetry, music and all things that have no quality more useful than beauty.

But the impractical becomes the practical when men learn to use it. Nothing on earth is truly impractical when man develops sufficient knowledge and wisdom to comprehend and utilize it.

There are but two methods of controlling and directing a civilization.

Whatever the name of the method, and regardless of its confusing details, it is Christ's way or it is the jungle way.

The jungle way—the only one yet tried—is dog eat dog. Let the strong devour the weak.

Despite all good intentions and safeguards and restrictions, the jungle plan of competition must result in abundance for the few and misery for the many.

Why cling to a plan that inevitably dooms the many to want in a world of plenty? The strong alone enjoy it—and they only because they are praised and glorified by the weak who provide their abundance.

Christ's way is the way of brotherhood—not of competition—the way of pity and love and generosity.

What fault has it? If a man is weaker than you, is it not more decent and more enjoyable to help him than to show your strength by trampling him under foot?

POLITICAL COMMENT

Novel Economy.
Boston Transcript.

Government clerical service will have little attraction for many competent men and women, if Congress is to decree arbitrarily a separation from it in middle age. This, however, is what the provision in the independent office supply bill, automatically retiring civil service employes who have served 30-years, will mean in many cases. Retirement now is compulsory at the age of 70, but thousands of clerks entered the service at about the age of 21, and to discard a man simply because he has reached the age of 51 is as ridiculous as it is unfair. According to this proposal, 30 years will constitute the maximum period a person may work for the Government. It is the intent of the administration to get rid of 100,000 Government clerks, "in the interest of economy." It stands to reason, however, that the Government can not lose that number of employes without crippling many branches.

Rural Population.

Not many years ago it was the fashion among those who like to discover dangerous trends, to predict that the rural population would play out. That was considered regrettable since traditionally the folks from the farms had furnished new blood to vitalize the cities.

Now official reports show that such worries were baseless, for there are more people living on farms in this country than ever before in history. It seems from surveys conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture that about all the boys and girls from farms who lost their jobs in the cities are back under the parental roof.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Challenges Attempt to Transfer Power of Congress to the Executive.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The most important question which at this time faces the American people—and I call it a people's question advisedly—is in regard to the limitation of governmental powers, executive and legislative. The policy of Congress in yielding to the Presidential demand for power arbitrarily to regulate the industrial system and to disturb the American money standard by refixing the amount of gold in a dollar has made the question paramount.

So far as these "experiments" are concerned I am aware that in a time of depression pettifogging publicists may readily confuse and mislead the public. Befogged by the specious assertion that the United States Government is in the throes of a life-and-death emergency, we have here a very fruitful field for the spread of socialistic propaganda.

But executive tinkering with the gold dollar is directly contrary to the Constitution—plain enough for the proverbial man in the street to understand.

In sections 2 and 3 of article 2 of the Constitution, which prescribes duties of the President, the word "power" occurs three times. He has power "to grant reprieves and pardons for offenses against the United States, except in cases of impeachment;" he has "power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur;" he has power "to fill up all vacancies that may happen during the recess of the Senate, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session."

The Constitution, section 8, article 1, says: "The Congress shall have power * * * to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin." And more than that, in order to emphasize the limitation of that power, the Constitution framers provided, in section 10, that "No State shall * * * coin money."

Therefore, to me it seems plainly unconstitutional for Congress to make the President its agent in regulation of the value of money. Such a shifting of legislative power would only be legal under a constitutional provision that the President shall have power "to coin money" and "regulate the value thereof" by and with the advice and consent of Congress.

FEDERALIST.

Mere Man Beaten in Politics and Business by the More Aggressive Female.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The eagerness which seemingly characterizes women members of the Democratic party in seeking and obtaining high Government positions, must be disconcerting to the male element of the party, many of whom have long been waiting to secure the crumbs that fall from the party's table. This is particularly true, in view of the fact that the preponderating male element in the party now seeking Government jobs are numbered among the unemployed. But the battle for "woman's equality with man," under a Democratic administration, has been won. Hence what difference does it make to the woman politician who, conscious of the fact that the average man no longer possesses his one-time courage, must yield ground to her?

This condition is true not only of politics but of business in general, where so-called white collar jobs are involved. Can it be that the American man, having fallen from the proud and self-reliant place that once was his, has become a mere joke? It surely is becoming more and more difficult for him to procure employment in positions where women can perform the work required. He has been ousted from the lighter and more desirable places of employment once almost entirely occupied by him, and generally speaking, he is now obliged to take whatever employment he can get. In fact, the male of the species is fast becoming a burden to himself and to the world. His boundary is fixed at 40 and beyond this his future presents little in the way of success.

The eighteenth amendment, concerning which women have had much to say, has already caused great agitation. In due time the nineteenth amendment is likely to cause even greater agitation. The attempt to place woman in a false position in relation to the home by bringing her into the political and industrial fields, with the allurement of public office in the one case and "economic independence" in the other, with the consequent denial to man of his natural place in the world's work, appears to be fraught with difficulties which portend a social and industrial situation that is by no means pleasant to contemplate.

OBSERVER.

Why Harp on the Constitution, When It Has Been Scrapped?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see in your editorial, "Senate Votes Inflation," where you say, "The majority chose to defy the Constitution, which vests in Congress the sole right to coin money and regulate its value." I don't see why newspaper editors still keep on appealing to the Constitution, as if that would do any good, when they ought to know better.

Why, even Representative Beck, who has written a book on the Constitution, says 4 per cent alcoholic beer is constitutional; and as for the average congressman, I don't suppose the Constitution ever has any more effect on them than it has on Prof. Moley, and probably not as much. At least he will tell you that the Constitution still has some historic value.

My idea is that we might just as well give up as far as the old written Constitution is concerned and try to help out for the good of the new-deal Constitution which is now in the making. C. F. JENKINS.

Only in GOOD shirts can you find the careful attention to fabric, cut, shape, and making that goes into our exclusive Woodlothian shirts.

The firm which makes them has been one of America's leading shirt makers for more than 65 years.

The neckbands are all shaped and made by hand in its factory—not purchased in open markets from mass-production neckband factories, as makers of inferior shirts all too frequently do.

Only the best, pre-shrunken handkerchief cloth is used for their neckbands—buy the size your wear. It is unnecessary to allow for shrinkage.

The neckband of each Woodlothian shirt has a top and bottom—it is correctly cut, and shaped to fit.

Each band has two inner bands—making what the maker calls a "four-ply" band, believed to be the best neckband that can be made for shirts.

We invite you to see our new Woodlothian shirts for Spring and Summer. In plain and fancy madras, broadcloth, and cashmeres. Buy them—wear them—you will enthusiastically agree that they are worth every cent of their price.

The Meanderer

Writes of Strawberries Following Feast on May Day; of Kettles, Long Spoons, Strainers and Sugar Prices.

While most of us were sleeping last night the Meanderer's subject-matter for this morning was not in a state of repose. It was in a packed, crowded, jostling motor truck or in a fast-rolling express car. Strawberries, to be more direct, in enormous truck loads, packed six crates high and four crates wide, averaging not fewer than 100 crates to the load—or in similar quantities by express—sped over the 400 miles and more from the strawberry lands of the Carolinas to the Capital. So the first impetus is felt toward the noble work of filling the home jam jars full of heavenly strawberry mixtures.

One Washington dealer alone expects to offer 10,000 quarts or more to strawberry shoppers, with the most plentiful season for Carolina berries opening today. This dealer, one of the principal fruit and vegetable merchants in the Southwest Market, has just returned from the Carolina strawberry country, where, he says, the crop is more promising than he has seen it for ten years. All States that supply the Washington market with strawberries expect a heavier crop this year than last, the Meanderer learned from the Government's statistical wizards in the offices of the Department of Agriculture. These statisticians do not expect prices to be any higher than the very low prices of 1932.

The 1933 berry seems redder and sweeter than last year's, in the opinion of the Meanderer, who was given ample and enjoyable opportunity to taste the incoming products. Such irresistible berries may suggest to the housewife that she begin to store them away, getting an early start with the Carolina berries, and filling her final quota with berries from Maryland and Virginia, as May goes on. Present local prices on crates of berries range from $2 or less to $6.40.

Questions on berry prices may be asked and accommodatingly answered if Meanderer's readers will consult the dealer referred to in a paragraph above, whose name will be furnished on telephone or mail request.

A kettle-wise saleswoman in a big department store on F street says that women with experience in handling strawberries prefer enamelware utensils. Fruit mixtures do not burn easily in enamelware. A 3-gallon preserving kettle in a reliable white enamelware costs $2.85, and smaller kettles correspondingly less.

Long wooden spoons, ideal for preserving work, are 35 cents in the F street department store. An enameled jar filler, like a funnel with a broad tube, is 60 cents; a berry capper is 10 cents, and a convenient jelly strainer with a wire frame and two cloth straining bags of different thicknesses, costs $1.25.

Sugar prices are slightly higher in the last two weeks, but 10 pounds of sugar at 47 cents, quoted in a chain store, is an economical buy for preserving needs. Five pounds of sugar cost 25 cents.

A housewife who makes delicious strawberry preserves, varies some of her mixtures by adding crushed pineapple, recommending the flavor of the combination to those who would like to try it. A No. 1 can of crushed pineapple sells for 10 cents in the chain store mentioned.

Numerous tried and trusty recipes for preserving the berries and other fruits and vegetables are included in a Farmers' Bulletin, 1471, that can be obtained from the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture.

Culbertson on Bridge

TED HAD A RIGHT TO MOAN.

THOSE who have had the pleasure of playing bridge with my favorite male partner, Mr. Theodore A. Lightner, have noticed his habit of moaning at the bridge table. Ted's moans become most pronounced when things are going best with the partnership. However, the other day I watched a rubber in which he was playing against Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Phipps. When the hand was completed and Mr. Phipps had successfully made a rather ambitious Grand Slam contract, all of the kibitzers conceded that Mr. Lightner did have some justification for his lamentation about the unhappy results of the hand.

1—Hoping that by some happy chance his opponents may reach a contract of seven.

2—The hope is realized and Mr. Lightner takes measures to punish his adversaries' temerity.

Mr. and Mrs. Phipps are a splendid slam-bidding combination, but in view of their holdings, they were possibly a little bit over-enthusiastic, either individually or collectively. Mr. Lightner's double of the slam was basically entirely sound. He reasoned that with his (Mr. Lightner's) void in diamonds his partner's most likely lead was that suit. If a diamond was led, he could ruff and thus set the contract at once. If, at worst, his partner should lead a club, the ace would hold the trick, while the lead of a heart would establish a second-round trick in that suit in Mr. Lightner's hand. A further reason for Mr. Lightner's confidence in his ability to defeat the contract was that a double in this situation strongly suggested that the doubler was void of one suit. This would be an indirect request for the leader to open his longest suit.

It was so construed by Ted's partner, who, unfortunately for the success of the doubling stratgy, held five clubs and but four diamonds and hence chose the club as his opening lead. Of course, the contract was made.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If you were South and had reached a contract of four hearts on the hand below, what method of play would you adopt to make the greatest number of tricks against the opening lead of the spade 5?

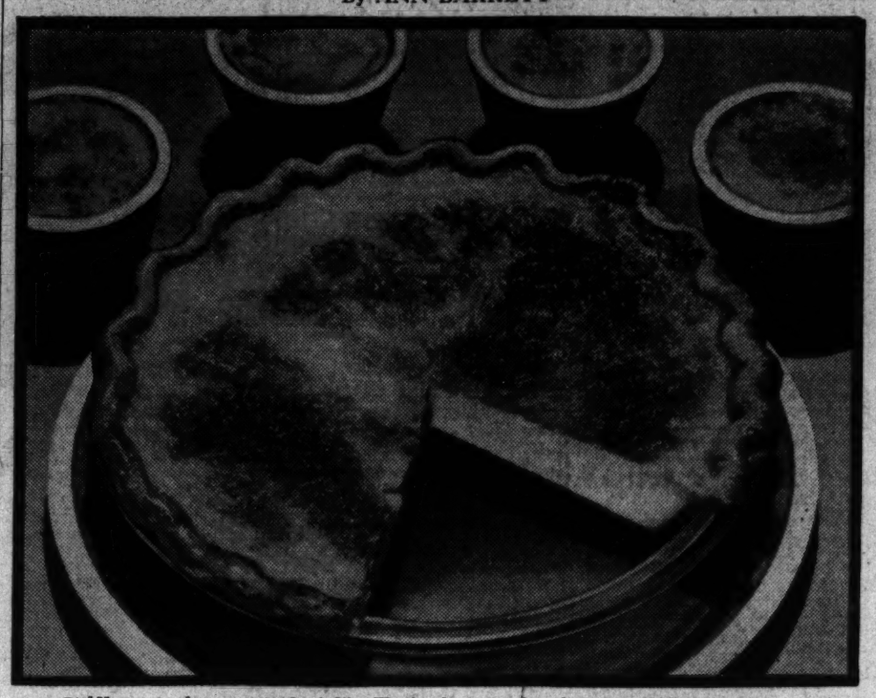
—WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT—

DEEP, VELVETY CUSTARD PIE IS MAJOR TEST OF GOOD COOK

By ANN BARRETT



"CAN you make a custard pie?" That's the way the old song should go, according to my observations. For when a custard pie can boast an unsoaked undercrust, a filling that's deep and golden and just the right shivery-velvet consistency, it's the first choice of millions. Including such diverse types of people as Lawyer Clarence Darrow, Screen Star Constance Bennett and Evangelist Billy Sunday.

So it looks as if a good way to be popular is to get next to all the tricks of turning out a perfect custard pie.

These tricks are simple—but so important I'm going to set them down right here in the front row where nobody can miss them. First, here are the guide-signs for the filling: beat eggs with fork, only enough to blend whites and yolks. See that sugar is completely dissolved. Scalding milk will help to do this, and also cook the filling in less time. Always strain the filling.

That Undercrust.

Second, about that undercrust: Unless you have an extra-deep pie plate, make crust an inch larger than plate, turn the extra crust under and then build it up around the edge so as to hold plenty of filling. Then to make sure the crust won't drink up the luscious filling, brush it over with unbeaten white of eggs, and bake it in a 425 over for exactly two minutes. When you come to fill this crust, do it right at the oven door, and you'll have no spill.

Baking Most Important.

Third, about the baking—most important point of all: After crust is filled, bake pie 10 minutes at 450 F. This will finish setting the crust. Then reduce heat to between 325 and 350—certainly no more than 350—and bake pie till done (about 45 minutes all told, for my recipe in 9-inch tin). You can test your pie by thrusting pointed knife into center. When this comes out clean, take out your pie and crow. For—if you've followed each direction carefully—your pie is a triumph.

(Incidentally, right here I want to repeat what I've said before. To be a good baker you must be able to control your oven. If your stove has no automatic oven control, it'll pay you many times over to buy a little oven thermometer that will tell you the exact oven temperature. By watching this, you can keep the heat from creeping up, as it is so likely to do.)

Everybody's Custard Pie.

Here's what to put into this famous pie—to make everybody happy. First beat up 5 eggs with a fork. Add 6 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 cups scalded milk. Mix thoroughly. Put into crust prepared as directed above, and bake carefully as directed.

Many people prefer a sprinkling of nutmeg to vanilla. Use ½ teaspoon of it, sprinkled over filling just before putting pie into oven. Increase sugar if you prefer a sweeter pie.

Maple and Coffee Custard Pie.

Maple-nut custard pie is another number so delicious it always gets an encore. You make it by just substituting grated or shaved maple sugar for granulated sugar in the standard recipe. Then just before putting it into the oven, add ½ cup finely-chopped pecans. These rise to the top and make the tastiest crust you can possibly imagine.

Then for the coffee fans, there's coffee custard. For this, just substitute ¾ cup strong coffee for ¾ cup of the milk given in standard recipe. This pie is best served very cold, spread with whipped cream.

Custard Pie Variations.

Custard pie can branch out into many flavors—the most popular, I find, being coconut. For this, just add 1 cup shredded or fresh-grated coconut to filling given above. For an extra-delicious touch, do this also: put ½ cup coconut in shallow pan and set it in oven to crisp and brown delicately. Then sprinkle this over the pie when it has been in the oven 30 minutes.

For custard meringue pie, make a meringue from 3 egg whites and 6 tablespoons powered sugar. Spread this over pie (after it is baked), and set pie in 350 oven till meringue is set and browned.

Another slick number is marshmallow-chocolate custard pie made like this: Melt 3 squares (ounces) grated chocolate in scalded milk (standard recipe above). When pie is baked, cover top with marshmallows and set it back in oven (350) for marshmallows to melt and brown.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

TOWARD GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

IT IS not an easy thing, the world being what it is, to teach a child in any country to love his own country and at the same time prevent development of a tendency to look down on other countries and to regard still others with something like hate.

Yet the best citizenship demands that the individual feel an affection for his country, more particularly for that section of it which he calls home, and a corresponding sense of responsibility in relation to it.

True love of country is a mixture of affection for that which is endeared through long familiarity and a kind of overflow of family feeling upon the larger community.

From this psychological source comes the energy which makes an individual a really good citizen in the sense that he will give intelligent support to whatever measures tend to make his country a better place in which to live.

To this end, his interest in social and national questions must be awakened through the intelligent discussion of such matters as they arise at home and at school.

He must be encouraged to think without prejudice or without pressure from authority; this means without pressure from parents and teachers. He must learn history from facts and not from oratory or from accounts designed to prejudice his attitude in one way or another. He must learn early to practice tolerance and fairness in all his dealings.

He may be encouraged to join any clubs which help him to feel that he is really a member of a community.

What Today Means to You

"TAURUS."

IF May 2 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 5:45 p. m. to 6:55 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:10 a. m. and from 2:45 p. m. to 4 p. m.

The final outcome of the day's activity rests very largely in your own hands on this May 2. You will make plans and lay foundations on this day from which you will reap handsomely or for which you will pay heavily, and it's all up to you! Do not become offended by the inconsiderate acts of others.

The child born on this May 2 will in all probability find himself drawn into the vortex of other peoples' problems; from early childhood days and all through life he will have to act as pacifier and peacemaker. A gentle little soul, with great ability in "getting around" people. The girls will show talent in dancing and may do well on the stage.

If May 2 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely an all-round person who will make a moderate success of anything you tackle; should you become particularly enthused over some particular pursuit you might make quite a name for yourself. Yours is probably not a creative mind, but you lend yourself readily to the guidance of others and you have great powers of mimicry. In trying to find your right work it would seem that you will be happiest where you can follow the directions of others and where too much responsibility will not come your way. You are inclined to be a bit too conscientious and at times to worry unnecessarily. Do not trouble yourself over the question of having enough money. You will always have enough to take care of you during your life, but you leave almost none to your heirs.

If you were born on May 2 you are a person who is physically attractive to those of the opposite sex. The women are usually attractive and not a little flirtatious while the men may generally be expected to be good-looking rather than handsome. In their homes, which are invariably happy places, these people radiate forth their inherent kindliness, graciousness and charm.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

White crepe and flame colored velvet fashions a smart, semi-mannish evening gown with matching jacket. (From Ardasse, Paris.)

SINGING in a rain—coat is not as easy as it sounds. It all depends upon how chic she feels, whether she sings or not.

And I must sadly say that she simply can not feel chic in the average raincoat! Made for rain and wear—it seems to think it is, this raincoat, and that all it has to do to be accepted is to be ugly. And it is quite, quite mistaken. So if any worthy uncle or aunt of otherwise misguided soul presents you with a raincoat of this type, gently and graciously, but oh, how firmly—give it to your maid.

An English manufacturer of these raincoats has offered them in a white crinkly crepe, one which is quite appropriately named "elephant's skin." It is a mixture of rayon and cotton and quite lovely—as well as completely practical. Velveteen collars and cuffs are used in contrasting collars on the raincoats from this house and novelty collars and interesting cut of silhouette are welcome indeed. The black and white reversible raincoats furnish one with a choice in collars, and the detachable pocket straps and wrist straps are changed over from one side to the other.

And as to fabrics, cotton and rayon, satin and marocain weaves are the principal fabrics. Lastex is being successfully used, too, but, of course, this interesting material needs a special kind of style. The general style is classical and simple, as somehow befits a raincoat, but oh, how different it is from the raincoat of yesteryear!

* * * *

How to be mannish without being might be answered in the Ardanse evening gown I sketched for you today. It is essentially feminine in appearance, but there is an air of the mannish about it, too. The jacket and the incrustations on the shoulders are flame-colored velvet; for the rest we have just white crepe—but how. This model is stunning in black, too.

You can spend a dollar for a bag or 60. You can feel as though you were carrying an expensive bag, and a good one—or you can feel, oh, so too, too conscious that you are carrying a cheap one! And it all has less to do with the contents of this bag than you think, too—because I know that you think it is necessary to have money in order to spend it on a bag and that is not true. You have to have a dollar for a dollar bag—or a dollar for a $20 one! Yes, it's very mysterious, and you will never know what I am driving at until you send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you exactly how to make bags, and nice and expensive-looking ones, too.

* * * *

The looser silhouette is everywhere evident. But try to watch for too much of it in regards to having both a draped blouse and a gathered skirt in one costume—this isn't so good. Have the fairly molded bodice and then a skirt which frankly hangs loosely from the belt line if you wish; or a very loose, draped bodice, and a form-fitting skirt. But not both in one costume, not yet.

The clever evening wraps that take the form of huge folded sleeves which simply tie at the neck, are evidence of this "floppy" tendency, too. We look to see miladi swathed and draped beyond recognition again—but in a graceful and alluring manner.

* * * *

Lozenge-shaped black buttons with all sorts of silver incrustations are chic—providing the incrustations are chic. It takes a button to trim and be practical at the same time!

Au revoir!

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ED WYNN always tells Graham, "Now this is going to be something different," but his performance at the Gridiron dinner really was different.

Some one had warned Mr. Wynn in New York that the Gridiron Club in some way would probably get the laugh on him, but did not explain how. Wynn got the idea that it might be a good roasting, as the gridiron suggests. At any rate, he arrived in Washington a badly worried comedian.

Wynn had sat up all night en route to the Capital writing tonight's radio program. He spent the morning with the members of the Federal Radio Commission, discussing his proposed radio net work, there was a luncheon for him, in fact he was kept on the jump all day and went to the dinner without having had a wink of sleep.

"What worries me," Wynn remarked at luncheon as he mopped his brow, "is what those fellows are going to do to me tonight. I think it will probably be something terrible."

A friend tried to reassure him but the comedian continued to "sweat blood."

"I'll be ready for them whatever it is," he added grimly.

And so-o-o-o a little while after the dinner had started the comedian had a real surprise when two members of the Gridiron came on with an imitation of Wynn's radio act in which the "Fire Chief" explained to Graham all about an opera he had written called "Franklin in Wonderland." The skit ended on a reference to the balanced budget, to which Graham McNamee remarked:

"I didn't know it had ever been balanced."

"Oh, yes, it was, Graham—in Wonderland."

The Gridiron guests of course enjoyed the skit hugely but Wynn had long since stopped eating and was on his guard for he knew the time was at hand for him to be put on the griddle.

As he had said earlier in the day he was "ready for them." Imagine the comedian's surprise and relief at the end of the act, when he found that all he had to do was to stand up, take a bow, and let the audience see the real Ed Wynn.

For once "The Perfect Fool" was himself perfectly fooled.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, wife of the President, broke all precedent in radio today by personally visiting the National Broadcasting Company studios here to make her radio address.

Heretofore radio facilities have always been provided First Ladies of the Land direct at the White House. These facilities were offered Mrs. Roosevelt, but she declined, saying she could just as easily come to the studios.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited the studios unaccompanied. She was presented over the air by Dr. Louise Stanley, chief of the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture.

SECRETARY OF STATE HULL will be the first of several outstanding governmental and industrial leaders to be heard in discussions of current economic problems during the sessions of the twenty-first annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington. Secretary Hull's address before the chamber's annual banquet at the Mayflower Hotel will be broadcast over WMAL and WJSV at 9:30 o'clock tonight.

Finance Minister Guido Jung of of Italy, who comes to Washington to confer with President Roosevelt, will be introduced by William Hard (WRC, 5:45 p. m.).

Effective today the WABC network script series, "Jack Dempsey's Gymnasium," which has been heard Mondays, Tuesday and Wednesdays at 6:30 p. m., will be heard for three weeks on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the same hour.

Claudette Colbert, screen star, will appear on the California Melodies broadcast tonight (WJSV 9:30 p. m.).

"I've played golf once and I made a hole in one under par," said Jane Ace, of the "Easy Aces." "It said eleven on one of the flags and I made the hole in ten."

The Household Musical Memories program, featuring Josef Koestner's Orchestra, Alice Mock, soprano, and Edgar A. Guest, famous poet, beginning with the broadcast tonight will be heard over the WJZ network at 9 p. m.

KATE SMITH will have double cause for celebration on her program tonight at 7:30 p. m. over WJSV, when she marks both her second anniversary on the radio and her twenty-fourth birthday. The singer will repeat the identical numbers that served for her inaugural broadcast two years ago.

Accompanied by Nat Brusiloff's orchestra, which has played for her since her debut, Kate will sing "I Surrender, Dear," "Dream a Little Dream of Me," "Please Don't Talk About Me When I'm Gone" and "By the River Ste. Marie." All these songs were currently popular this time two years back.

Since her beginning on radio 24 months ago, the former Washington girl, who once studied nursing, has enjoyed a meteoric career. A featured player in a Broadway musical comedy at the time, her singing has since carried her along to stardom in radio, vaudeville, motion pictures and records.

Ted Collins, Miss Smith's manager, will be interviewed in the "Meet the Artist" period (WJSV, 4 p. m.).

William O'Neill, president of the General Tire & Rubber Co., will tell what he thinks of the "new deal" and the rebirth of confidence in business in a radio address over the WEAF network tonight at 10:30 o'clock.

Prominent members of the Fashion Group, an organization of 400 women in all parts of the country who are engaged in various kinds of fashion work, will be heard in a series of talks to be presented during the Woman's Radio Review over WRC beginning today at 2:30 p. m. Kathleen Howard, former Metropolitan Opera star and now New York fashion editor and president of the Fashion Group, will inaugurate the series with a talk on "Late Spring Fashions."

A. B. Genung and W. R. Beattie will be the National Farm and Home speakers this noon (WMAL, 12:30 o'clock).

THE Massanutten Cadets Choir of Woodstock, Va., will sing this afternoon over WJSV at 3 o'clock. Their director will be Jean Poullot.

Tribute will be paid to the memory of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermack of Chicago, Tuesday, May 2, when the Paulist Choristers of Chicago sing "O Gloriosa Virginum," a new sacred song dedicated to them by the Chicago composer, Felix Borowski. The premiere performance of this new work will be heard during the broadcast from the stage of Orchestra Hall, in Chicago, over an NBC-WJZ network at 8:35 p. m.

The andante sostenuto and finale from the Brahms symphony No. 1 in C minor will compose the first half of the Damrosch broadcast tonight (WRC, 9:31 o'clock), and will be followed by four of Debussy's best known works. Charles Hackett will sing an air from the Frenchman's opera "L'Enfant Prodigue" with orchestra, and "Beau Soir" and "Les Cloches" with Dr. Damrosch's piano accompaniment. The symphony orchestra will play the familiar prelude to "L'Apres-midi d'un Faune."

Doris Robbins is married to Mel Jenssen of Casa Loma, but she is a singer with the orchestra of Ben Pollack. . . "Bubles" Copsy is Ben's tenor soloist and plays the trombone besides. . . Hilton La Marr is Ben's guitarist and is also heard in duets with Miss Robbins. . . An unusually large crowd of radio folk from both networks turned out to celebrate the opening of George Hall on his new midnight broadcasting "spot" Friday, April 21. . . Rudy Vallee, Vincent Lopez, Freddie Martin, Ozzie Nelson, Bert Lown, Rubinoff, Freddie Rich, Leon Belasco—all were there to wish their fellow-maestro luck. . . Ozzie Nelson is now announcing his programs and working in skits between numbers. . . Harriet Hilliard and the boys help him supply the "drammer."

Stannard has selected as his overture, "Youth Triumphant," which will be dedicated to the Washington Board of Trade, which is sponsoring the city-wide observance of Boys' Week here.

Most of the leading civic clubs of the city have scheduled boy speakers for their luncheon meetings this week. Among them are the Civitan, Rotary, Soroptimist, Lions, Optimist, Zonta, Kiwanis, Cosmopolitan and Washington Round Table. Stocks Continue Advances In Spite of Profit-Taking

One-Point Gain Recorded as Turnover Climbs to 6,042,210 Shares.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Financial markets today repeated the now familiar story of rising prices and turbulent trading.

Profit-taking applied the brakes to a strenuous rally by stocks, but although a few leaders closed lower, the list struck a balance of net gains which ranged from fractions to a couple of points.

Various groups swept into the leadership at intervals during the 6,000,000-share market, rails showing no particular advantage on one of these spurts. Commodity issues were inclined to be less active than on Saturday.

Trading in the first half hour was on an enormous scale and prices swept 1 to 3 points higher. This range was slightly exceeded on a later upturn, which the rails piloted, but through most of the afternoon realizing was an influential factor on price movements.

Net gains of 1 to 2 points were retained by Santa Fe, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel preferred, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, American Can, Consolidated Gas of New York, International Harvester, Public Service of New Jersey, Texas Gulf Sulphur, United Fruit, American Water Works, National Tea, South Puerto Rico Sugar and a number of other specialties. U. S. Steel's rise of nearly 3 points faded to a major fraction, while American Telephone, also up 3 points at the best, closed with a slight gain. Allied Chemical, Woolworth, American Smelting, National Steel, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward and Case were off fractions to 1¼ net. The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite for 20 rails closed at a new 1933 high. Sales totaled 6,042,210 shares.

Although wheat had a late reaction, most commodity markets reflected a preponderance of buying orders. Cotton, rubber, coffee, hides, silk and silver all appreciated; sugar lost an early gain. Moody's Index of 15 leading staples surpassed its 1933 high.

CURB CLIMBS AGAIN UNDER BUYING DRIVE

Late Trading Cuts Gains as Sales Increase to 624,000 Shares.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Curb stocks experienced another spirited advance today on a carryover of Saturday's buying movement. In the late dealings some of the trading favorites gave up a good part of earlier gains under heavy realizing. Sales totaled about 624,000 shares compared with 241,000 on Friday.

There were advances of 1 to 6 points in Fajardo Sugar, Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Celanese preferred, American Maize and Singer Manufacturing.

American Gas & Electric was lifted a point and the preferred jumped 5.

French Cities Offer to Pay Interest in 1 of 3 Forms

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—With gold payments prohibited under presidential edict, wide attention was focused today on the first announcement of how payments will be made to holders of gold bonds.

The "gold clause," an important part of the indenture of most foreign and domestic bonds, states that interest and principal are payable in gold of standard weight and value.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co., on behalf of the French cities of Bordeaux, Lyons and Marseilles announced that in view of the impossibility of obtaining gold coin for payment here of the semi-annual interest due today on the municipal exterior loans of 1919, fifteen year 6 per cent gold bonds, due November 1, 1934, holders are offered the option of the following three forms of payment:

1. Payment will be made here in United States currency upon presentation of the May 1 coupons at the office of the bankers, who are American paying agents.

2. Payment will be made in United States currency in New York at the dollar equivalent of French francs at gold parity of exchange, 25.52 francs for each dollar of coupons, the dollar equivalent to be computed by the paying agent on the basis of their average buying rate in New York for exchange on Paris on the day such coupons are presented.

3. Payment will be made in francs in Paris at the gold parity of exchange, 25.52 francs a dollar, upon presentation of the coupons at the office of Banque de Paris et des Pays-Bas.

BOND MARKET RISES ON HEAVIER TRADING

Foreign Loans Aid Upturn as the Sales Mount to $16,326,000.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Secondary corporation issues and foreign obligations led the bond market in another upward whirl today and gains of 1 to 5 or more points were recorded in most categories.

Trading activity advanced with prices, sales totaling $16,326,000, par value, while the average for 60 domestic corporate loans gained seven-tenths of a point.

Although the so-called "gilt edge" bonds generally eased under the influence of inflationary uncertainties, they were not subjected to any great pressure. The majority of United States Government securities, although rather quiet, held small gains.

The rail favorites, up 1 to more than 5 points, included some bonds of Alleghany Corp., Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corp., St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern and Rock Island.

French government and municipal issues were up 1 to around 9 points at one time. Bonds of Argentina, Australia, Austria, Denmark, Norway, Antwerp City and Great Britain were up fractionally to more than 6 points.

Birmingham Increases Production of Pig Iron

Birmingham, Ala., May 1 (A.P.).—Pig iron production in the Birmingham district was stepped up today as the Republic Steel Co. blew in one of its blast furnaces at East Thomas and called nearly 400 men back to work in an ore mine.

Resumption of production of pig iron at the East Thomas furnace was announced last week as preliminary operations were begun. Three cotton tie manufacturers are preparing their plants for resumption of manufacturing, probably by June 1.

WHEAT VALUES SINK ON FARM BILL DATA

Price Drops Under Mark Set Saturday; Oats Cut; Corn Mixed.

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—Uncertainties regarding effects of the many novel provisions of the new farm legislation did much today to pull grain prices down.

Wheat tumbled to a cent a bushel under Saturday's finish after an early jump of 2⅜ cents that resulted from a fresh outburst of inflation excitement. In some quarters decided tendencies were shown to take more notice of the farm bill proper, aside from inflation amendments, and many traders expressed doubt as to whether the bill would prove bullish.

Wheat closed nervous at ⅛ to ⅜ decline for the day, with corn ½ off to ¼ up; oats, ⅛-⅜ down, and provisions, showing 5 to 10 cents decline.

Low Price of Day.

Lowest prices of the day in wheat were reached just before trading ended. Contributing to the late downward swing of values was an authoritative unofficial report estimating the condition of the 1933 United States winter wheat crop as 62.3 per cent, compared with last month's Government report of 59.4.

This would indicate a yield of 349,000,000 bushels, against the latest official forecast of 334,000,000 bushels. Heaviest rains in a long while were reported Southwest, with practically all sections of the drought area participating.

Corn and oats were governed mainly by wheat action. Shipping demand here for corn was slow.

Provisions advanced and receded with grains.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON STRONG DEMAND

July Sells at 8.20, With the General Market Up 30 to 37 Points.

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—Cotton continued its rapid advance today, but heavy realizing canceled a part of the extreme rise of $2 a bale shown at the opening.

July contracts after selling up to 8.27 at the start, or 80 points above last Friday's finals, eased to 8.09, but recovered most of the loss, closing at 8.20. The final tone of the market was steady at net advances of 30 to 37 points.

Buying was also encouraged by the opening strength of the stock and grain markets. May sold up to 8.20 and October to 8.50 on the initial demand, but the advance attracted a good deal of profit taking as well as increased Southern selling. This caused quick reactions of 20 to 30 points during the early trading and later fluctuations were irregular.

The bulges continued to meet realizing and Southern selling, but the dips brought in a renewal of covering and trade buying, with May closing at 8.09 and October at 8.41, representing recoveries of about 10 to 20 points from the lowest.

Bar Calls on County Board to Provide Equipment for Police Force.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST,
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Unanimous indorsement of a resolution calling upon the county board to furnish a radio police cruiser for night work was given by the Arlington County Bar Association at its meeting yesterday at the courthouse. The resolution further sets forth that Arlington County is the only suburb in the metropolitan area that does not have at least one radio-equipped automobile.

Arthur C. Stickley 2d, author of the resolution, was appointed chairman of a special committee to present the matter to the county board at its meeting next Saturday. Other members are Bryan Gordon and H. W. Dudley.

The association formulated plans to sponsor a joint meeting of all bar associations in the Sixth Judicial Circuit at its June meeting. The circuit is comprised of associations in Alexandria City, Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William counties.

President Emery N. Hosmer appointed Claude O. Thomas, Col. Charles T. Jesse and W. Thomas French to plan the place and time for the annual outing.

The following committees were appointed:

Entertainment—Boardman Munson, chairman; Miss Ann Hedrick, Henry J. Klinge and John G. Turnbull.

Mrs. Miles Heads Arlington Women

The business meeting was preceeded by a luncheon and musical program by Dr. Earnest W. Ladovitch accompanied by Mrs. James Echols at the piano.

The secretary was instructed to write a letter of appreciation to the Arlington County Diary for the milk which it is furnishing to the needy families in that vicinity.

About the Show Shops

With NELSON B. BELL

Mary Pickford.

THERE is probably no more discriminating critic of the stage and screen, nor a kindlier one, than William Lyon Phelps, who this year becomes professor emeritus of literature at Yale. His pronouncements with regard to the drama are accepted by a wide and informed public as reflective of a mature and sympathetic judgment.

The following note was the immediate result:

"My Dear Mary Pickford: Please let me congratulate you heartily on the picture, 'Secrets.' We enjoyed it all immensely, and your acting is, of course, splendid. Please tell my friend, Leslie Howard, how much we admire him. Yours faithfully."

This is of interest to picturegoers of the Capital by reason of the fact that "Secrets" is to be shown this month at Loew's Palace Theater, presumably the week of May 12. If, however, the run either of "Cavalcade," the current attraction, or of Joan Crawford's "Today We Live," with Gary Cooper and Franchot Tone, which follows it, is extended, the "Secrets" engagement will be automatically deferred. At any rate, it is only two pictures away.

Speaking of incoming screen features, when inquiry was made last week as to the offering following "Below the Sea," at RKO-Keith's, the information was that it would be either Adolph Menjou and Greta Nissen in "The Circus Queen Murder," or Wheeler and Woolsey in "Diplomaniacs," probably the former—which was duly scheduled as the coming attraction in the dramatic section of last Sabbath's Post. So it will be Wheeler and Woolsey in "Diplomaniacs!"

Ain't we got fun!

With at least twelve productions definitely scheduled to be made this year, Darryl Zanuck announced last week-end that his new producing company, to release through United Artists, will be known as Twentieth Century Pictures, Inc., because that is the kind of box-office features it purposes to make—"modern headline stories, packing a punch aimed at the box-office . . . a spirit as up-to-the-minute and as vital as its name."

Joseph M. Schenck, who also is head of the United Artists organization, is president of Twentieth Century, and Zanuck, who recently created a considerable commotion in the film colony by resigning as production head of the Warner Brothers studios, is vice president in charge of production.

Zanuck announced that actual studio activities will begin June 1, with three productions going into work no later than the middle of July. At the same time it was made known that he had quit the Warners for two reasons—one a long-standing desire to operate his own producing unit; the other, a feeling that the Warners had let him down in matters of studio policy. A considerable number of his studio staff moved over to U. A., with him.

"That's Africa!"

E. C. Owen, who returns to the management of the Raleigh Hotel after a period of fifteen years, and DeWolf Hopper, here with the "Lambs' Gambol" Sunday night, bear a resemblance. Not that it matters.

When Waring's Pennsylvanians broadcast from the auditorium of the National Press Club on the Old Gold hour this Wednesday night, proceedings will get under way at 9 o'clock, one hour earlier than last week, account New York having gone daylight saving.

It will be found, nevertheless, that with David Ross announcing, George Givot clowning in dialect, as the Greek Ambassador of Good Will, and Mandy Lou, the Harlem hurricane of hilarity, all supplementing the orchestral harmonies of Fred and his boys, the program will not have gone off the Old Gold standard.

It just goes to show what risks young people will take in the spring. I mean when Mr. and Mrs. Carter Barron and Lou Brown, of the Loew organization, and a party of friends decided to spend Sunday down on the sun-bathed shores of South River they should have paid no attention to the suggestion of Mr. Olsen, of Olsen and Johnson, headlining this week's stage bill at Loew's Fox, that they be driven there in his 16-cylinder Cadillac by his Filipino chauffeur. But in a moment of weakness they not only listened, but accepted the proffer.

Now, like the cannibal that ate the millionaire who was too rich for his blood, they are all threatened with the gout from too much high living!

Due to the illness of Claire Luce, who recently suffered an injury to her leg, Dwight Deere Wiman and Tom Weatherly announce the engagement of Dorothy Stone, seen at the Earle as headliner of the vaudeville bill the week of April 14, for the role of Mimi in "Gay Divorce," with Fred Astaire, heretofore played by Miss Luce. Miss Stone will enter the cast tonight. In the interim the role has been played by Virginia Watson, Miss Luce's understudy.

This is the second time Miss Stone has stepped into a show on short notice, she having replaced Ruby Keeler in Ziegfeld's "Show Girl," when illness forced Miss Keeler out of the star role four years ago. She took the part then with two days' rehearsals.

Afterthoughts on the "Lambs' Gambol," at the National Sunday night: The 2-act and 20-scene revue was staged with about as much effectiveness as the ordinary run of road attractions. . . The costumes also were quite up to the requirements of big-time trouping, especially the Albertina Rasch effects worn by the masculine merry-merry in the "Love of the Satyrs" number and in "Pajamas". . . Not to mention the red satin suits of the four steppers in the "Pale Moonlight" finale of the last act. . . Although Harland Dixon, formerly of the team of Doyle & Dixon and one of the best dancers the stage has known, was one of this quartet, he was given no solo opportunity and worked throughout the evening in the obscure anonymity of an unknown chorus man. . . . How come? . . . John Wray, a swell character actor, masquerading as a master of ceremonies, was appearing before a living audience for the first time in four years and was just nervous enough to make ad libbing with Leon Errol a little too big an order. . . He has been in pictures all that time. . . Had Lon Chaney's role of The Frog in the talking version of "The Miracle Man," if you remember. . . He had it, as a matter of fact, even if you don't remember. . . Smith & Dale's "Last National Bank" skit was written by Dave Friedman, author of most of Eddie Cantor's radio continuities for that mocha and java hour Sunday nights, up to and including April 23. . . E street, around the National stage entrance, shortly before show time looked like the corner of Forty-seventh and Broadway. . . It also sounded like it. . . "Boy, if they want me for that part, it will set 'em back two grand a week in gold, I'm tellin' ya!"

Just a little of the old mint sauce, as you might say, that always goes with spring Lambs!

Taste and tempo in the theater both seem to have altered since Guy Bolton adapted this marital comedy of Herr Vajda's to the stellar uses of Miss Ina Claire.

At the time of its original production, the story of the young divorce lawyer whose lawfully wedded helpmeet didn't do too well as his wife, but fared magnificently as his client, was deemed a gay evening's entertainment. Last night, somehow, it seemed an interminably talky treatise upon how not to hold either a husband or a wife and extravagantly how not to win him or her back!

In sheer garrulity the first and last acts are the most serious offenders, the second getting up a considerable head of steam and revealing a brisk climacteric moment, as opposed to climaxes that are merely suggested in the other two. In the second act you really see the inkwell hurled—which is something in the way of action, at least.

The whole thing hinges upon the young divorce lawyer's infinite capacity for ignoring his wife and devoting his entire time and attention to beautiful clients intent on achieving the "ex vincula matrimoniae" business. He goes just a step too far in permitting one such official conference to erase from his memory the fact that it is his second wedding anniversary and that his wife is anxiously awaiting some token of his recollection of that incident in his life. When he fails this simple husbandly duty, friend wife whole-heartedly heaves the inkwell at him and calls it a day!

Divorced for a year and six weeks, Maurice Sorbier is about to commit matrimony a second time with his wife's "best and cattiest friend," when wife No. 1 bobs up unexpectedly to engage his professional services. She then becomes the cause of further inkwell hurling, with results that may possibly be imagined, stage romance being what it is.

It is, as I say, a preponderantly conversational comedy, with the principal elocutionary burdens falling upon Leona Powers, as Denise Sorbier; Donald Woods, as her barrister husband; Romaine Callander, as the friend of the family, and Kathryn Givney, as the tentative and tempestuous second wife, who never quite makes the altar. Interest, of course, centers in Miss Powers, who seemed to rush her speeches a bit too much for complete intelligibility last evening, but, notwithstanding that it is largely a woman's play, it must be said that last night's infrequent accolades were bestowed upon Mr. Callander, as an impressionable and theoretically innocent bystander, and Freddie Sherman, in the flamboyant part of an impetuous young Italian flying officer.

Ona Munson is cast in the comparatively small part of the maid, Marie, and Mrs. Hibbard in the even less prominent role of Marie Roget, wife of the philandering Mr. Callander. Burke Clarke is a little more generously dealt with as Labelle, office assistant to Sorbier, but all on the side of Mme. Sorbier, whose valued informant he becomes. In one brief scene, Maud Howell Smith, not a stranger to the Players' productions, appears as Miss Givney's aunt.

The two settings which Charles Squires has supplied for the three acts are models of completeness and good taste that contribute greatly to the atmospheric embellishment of a play which, it is to be feared, will not be remembered as one of the summer's most sparkling offerings.

GAYETY

"HINDU BELLES." Jimmy Lake offers a new burlesque entertainment in two acts, featuring Joe Yule, "Bimbo" Davis, Lee Hickman, Bob Sandberg, Tanware, Joy St. Clair, Reggie "Tassels" White, Nora Murray and Connie Fanslau. Reviewed Monday night by George H. Barrows.

When Charley LaVine raised the curtain on the second act at the Gayety last evening with his microphonic impersonations of "Singing Ham the Hamburger Man," Kate Smith and other radio personalities, he immediately redeemed a show that is mediocre, to say the least, throughout the first act.

Although Joe (Hey, Hey) Yule, "Bimbo" Davis and Lee Hickman, ably assisted by Bob Sandberg in the "straight" parts, did their best in the first part, the audience knew all the answers to gags and jokes that many times have crossed the boards of Washington's only burlesque theater.

LaVine also distinguished himself in a yodeling song and with important bits in other scenes. Reggie ("Tassels") White scored a resounding hit in the second stanza of "Hindu Belles" with her familiar tassels stunt—with elaborations—while the popular dance team of Worth, Byron and Worth displayed new steps that merited enthusiastic approval.

Although widely publicised as the feature of this week's program, Hinda Wasau has thus far been unable to make an appearance because of illness, but the capable Joy St. Clair steps into the breach to share the generous applause for feminine specialty numbers with Nora Murray, Connie Fanslau and "Tangara."

The "drag" of the first act is largely relieved by a chorus that numbers many new faces and displays a snappy dance routine in a variety of pleasing and colorful costumes.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"BONDAGE." Fox picturization of the novel "The House of Refuge," by Grace Bothcote Leake, cofeaturing Dorothy Jordan and Alexander Kirkland, with Dorothy Libaire, Rafaela Ottiano and Edward Woods. Directed by Alfred Santell. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Thoroughly mixing together all of the Mme. X's and merging them into a matrix of "Life Begins," Fox has produced "Bondage," a picture almost without an excuse, either from the sociological aspects of children born out of wedlock or from the standpoint of a dramaturgic study of life in its starkest form.

It is probably true that the theme of "Bondage" is one of the most perplexing problems any civilization has to face, but there are grave doubts of the appropriateness of this topic as a basis for motion picture entertainment.

To mothers witnessing the performance there will be, unquestionably, a sympathetic response to the tragic tale of Judy Peters, but to the men the story will at best give rise to no feelings other than a mild curiosity as to why Crooner Crawford "got away" with it.

One feature of interest of "Bondage," quite aside from the story and the acting, is the attempt that is made to work into the narrative some of the photographic effects of "Maedchen in Uniform" in depicting the life of the unfortunate girls and the tyranny of the matron of the "Home." But here only a mild degree of success is attained, for in dabbling with camera angles, and extreme has been reached, arriving at distortion, rather than emphasis, of the scene.

Dorothy Jordan gives an adequate delineation of a girl more sinned against than sinning; Edward Woods, a passable bounder—and crooner—and Alexander Kirkland, of the young doctor, dragged in at the beginning and close so that the story may be told as a flash-back. Rafaela Ottiano, as the heartless matron, really does an exceptional job in a cast that otherwise shows little in the way of dramatic or histrionic accomplishment.

"The Kid From Borneo," an Our Gang comedy; the Terry-Toon, "Jealous Lovers," and a release of Paramount News round out the program and furnish at least one excellent reason for sitting through the feature.

FIVE MONTGOMERY TOWNS GO TO POLLS

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8706 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone Shepherd 2363.

Five Montgomery County communities yesterday held elections of town officials. They were Takoma Park, Glen Echo, Somerset, Drummond and Garrett Park, Md.

The election at Takoma Park was the most exciting, with 1,277 of the 1,691 registered voters of the town casting ballots in one of the town's most heated elections. John R. Adams, incumbent; Millward C. Taft and Col. A. L. Conger were elected to serve two-year terms, and Maj. C. Leonard Boyer, president of the Takoma Park Community League, was elected to serve the one-year unexpired term of Irvine H. Ware, resigned.

Ballots cast were as follows: Col. Conger, 1,109; John R. Adams, 800; M. C. Taft, 717; R. L. Houston Jones, 472; J. Morris Phillips, 414, and Alvin G. McNish, 98. Maj. Boyer, who was unopposed, received 1,003 votes.

The new councilmen will take office June 5. Col. Conger at present is serving out the unexpired term of Mr. Ware and will continue to do so until June 5, when he will begin his two-year term. The judges did not finish counting the ballots until after midnight this morning. The polls closed at 7 p. m.

James I. Hambleton was reelected and John B. Shepard elected to the town council of Somerset, defeating nine others. The councilmen will take office at the first meeting of the town council after the election and will serve two years. Mr. Hambleton had announced he did not wish to be reelected.

Will Shoemaker, T. M. Anderson, who has been treasurer for four years, and J. W. Stohlman, jr., who was reelected, were elected to posts on the citizens' committee of Drummond special taxing area last night. They will take office at once and serve one-year terms.

Capt. L. L. Dye, U. S. M. C., was elected Mayor of Garrett Park last night. He was unopposed. Capt. Dye succeeds Mayor Richard H. Akers, resigned. Roy P. Moore and S. H. Ingberg were elected to serve two-year terms on the town council. Mr. Moore is president of the Garrett Park Citizens Association.

Ernest D. Houghton and Preston C. Daley, the latter reelected, were elected to serve two-year terms on the Glen Echo Town Council. They succeed Max Arnold and C. E. Bostwick, who were not candidates for reelection.

Veteran of Indian Wars Suicide at 82

Fear He Was Destined to Lose Sight Blamed for His Act.

Fear he would lose his sight was given as the reason for the suicide of John Gale, 82-year-old Indian War veteran, who yesterday morning was found with his throat slashed in his room at the home of a nephew, William J. G. Quinn, 6500 Wisconsin avenue, Bethesda, Md. A certificate of suicide was issued by Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda.

Gale, whose six months furlough from the Soldiers' Home to visit his nephew and niece was to end May 12, had been told by doctors that he probably would lose his sight, relatives told Corporal Oscar Gaither and Private Windsor Poole, of the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County Police.

The old soldier was unmarried and had served in Troop 3, Seventh Cavalry, from 1887 to 1892, in the Indian campaigns. He was a native of Philadelphia.

Alexandria Shrine Club Host at Feast for Wives

The Alexandria Shrine club celebrated ladies' night last night with a dinner in the George Mason Hotel, with a large number of Masons and their wives attending, the invitation list not being restricted to Shriners. Joseph H. Kretchmer, president of the club, presided, and the program was in charge of Leonard J. Miller, chairman, Roger C. Sullivan and Harry H. Newton.

The program included selections by Gene Bishop, radio artist, accompanied by Mrs. Downs; Duncan Thomson, in Scotch songs, accompanied by Walter Cossins; Harry Seaman, bass soloist, of Washington, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book; the Smith Brothers, with melodies of the Hawaiian Isles; Miss Christine Munoz, with classic Spanish dancing; John Minnigh, in saxophone numbers; Frank Perry, violin selections, and Miss Edna Timberlake, in vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Patty Carver.

Alumni of Virginia U. Offer 2 Scholarships

Two scholarships to the University of Virginia for 1933-34 are now open to applicants, it was announced yesterday by the Washington chapter of the University of Virginia Alumni Association which will make the awards.

The scholarships are open to all students from the District who intend to register in the academic department of the university. The appointments will be made during June and Louis Mackall, jr., 613 Fifteenth street northwest, secretary of the local chapter, is now receiving applications.

Harry Clare Renamed Prince Georges Judge

Magistrate Harry K. Clare, of the Nineteenth District of Prince Georges County, was reappointed to office for a term of two years, it was learned yesterday.

Serving his fourth term in office, Judge Clare is an active Democratic leader in his district. He was appointed in 1927 to fill the unexpired term of Judge Oscar Fuller, and has been appointed by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie every two years since.

Election at Cottage City Canceled by Legal Flaw

Cottage City, Md., was scheduled to have a town election yesterday, but didn't.

Not for lack of candidates and not for lack of voters, either, but because the board of election supervisors of the town failed to take the oath of office and the omission was not discovered until recently. They could have taken their oath yesterday, but it was feared that all their prior registrations might be declared illegal. So there wasn't any election—it was just canceled—and the present town officials will hold office until their successors are elected, by the terms of the town charter.

GOOLRICK DEMANDS DRY REPEAL ACTION

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 323.

Former State Senator C. O'Conor Goolrick, of Fredericksburg, Va., was the principal speaker last night at a meeting held in the American Legion room at Gadsby's Tavern under the auspices of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, Mrs. Ben B. Cain, jr., and Mrs. William Mackall, cochairmen; the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment, Gardner L. Boothe, chairman, and the Crusaders, Dr. John T. Ashton, chairman.

Mr. Goolrick said the eighteenth amendment has brought about "one of the most deplorable conditions in any country, the rule of the racketeer." He stated it is his belief that if the State Legislature is called into extra session the revenue derived from the tax on beer would more than offset the expense of the session. He said a government "should be alive, but it seems there is a species of inertia or political anemia in Richmond."

Another compelling reason why the Legislature should be called, he said, is that people can not pay their taxes, yet penalties are being assessed against them. The Legislature should be called and every dollar of penalty wiped out, he said. Senator Goolrick is also opposed to an increase in the gas tax or automobile tax. He does not favor a decrease in the gas tax, but he does not favor turning the gas tax over to the schools, as that would eventually injure the roads. He favors a sales tax for schools.

Miss Elizabeth Harris, Washington attorney, spoke along the lines of the importance of exercising the right of franchise, urging all voters to get out at elections to use the privileges. She said one of the greatest political crimes is indifference, and one of the greatest fallacies is the statement that one vote does not count.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Cain, who introduced Capt. William H. Stayton, of Washington, one of the original organizers of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment, who introduced the speakers. Capt. Stayton said there would have been no Constitution but for Virginia, and Virginia should "uphold the original document and be one of the first to clear it of an amendment that has caused widespread trouble."

Junior League members will be in charge of side shows and refreshment booths at the show.

Civic Leaders to Talk At Federation Session

James G. Yaden, president of the District of Columbia Federation of Citizens Associations, and Frederic Lee, president of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, will speak at the meeting of the Arlington County Civic Federation tonight at Lyon Park.

Acting on a resolution adopted at the April meeting, the executive committee has named a steering committee, consisting of William C. Hull, William D. Medley, and Mrs. Helen Orr, which committee, in an effort to speed up the business at regular meetings and to insure important matters getting before the federation, will confer with committee chairmen prior to the meeting and ascertain what reports they have and thus be prepared to move to suspend the regular order of business when necessary and avoid calling on committees having no report.

HYATTSVILLE POLL GOES TO FIREMEN

Department Fight, Dragging More Than Year, Is Settled Finally.

Hyattsville, Md., went to the polls yesterday to settle its fire department fight, which has dragged on more than a year, and gave the decision to the faction which has backed the firemen. Elections in five other Prince Georges towns were held quietly and without contest.

Only one member of the administration ticket, which stood for subordination of the fire department to the Hyattsville town government, was elected. This was C. D. Anderson, chairman of the finance committee, who ran for reelection from the First Ward. He beat O. T. Dudrow, 142 to 130.

Former Mayor H. T. Willis, not a member of the administration ticket, and a champion of the firemen, was elected mayor by a majority of 173. Dr. Willis received 704 votes to 531 cast for Caesar L. Aiello, former town attorney, and administration candidate for the mayoralty. Of the four wards in the town, Mr. Aiello carried only the first, by a vote of 135 to 111 for Dr. Willis.

Firemen Have 5 Votes.

The firemen will now have five votes on the council to three of the opposition, with another friend of the firemen in the mayor's seat. This will remove the divided vote in the council, which formerly always split four to four on fire department affairs and required the mayor's vote to break the tie.

In the Second Ward, the firemen's candidate, T. D. Jarrell, received 160 votes to George H. Morley's 96. The Third Ward went for E. Murray Gover, another fire department champion, by a vote of 312 to 220. And Robert C. Meredith, in the Fourth Ward, received 108 votes to 89 cast for L. L. Powers, running for reelection.

The total votes cast in the town numbered 1,263, a record number which bears witness to the interest aroused by the first over the fire department. A suit filed by the old administration to oust the firemen from their stronghold in the firehouse is still pending, but will certainly be withdrawn or dropped by the incoming officials.

Narrow Margin Victory.

The Cheverly election, also held yesterday, was marked by victories won by the narrowest of margins. Fred W. Gast was reelected mayor over Fred W. Nickel by a vote of 97 to 89, but in the Third Ward Dr. William T. Maloney received 42 votes to 41 cast for the incumbent, R. H. Wentworth. G. Watson Lambert was elected to the council from the Second Ward, over the incumbent, William R. Gaither, by a vote of 22 to 19.

In the Mount Rainier elections there were no contests, but the three single candidates polled large "confidence" votes. Mayor John H. Beall receive 230 votes, while 124 ballots were cast for Councilman Norman H. Pruitt and 52 for Rexford Worley. All these were reelected.

One for Each Office.

In Seat Pleasant also there was but one candidate for each office. Results here of desultory balloting were: For mayor, Harmon A. Acuff, 24; for treasurer, Irwin I. Main, 26, and for councilman, Robert Kraft, 21; Fabian Augustine, 20; Robert Gregory, 24; Van Moreland, 20, and William Pinkert, 19.

W. A. Carson was reelected Mayor of Riverdale without opposition by a vote of 80. Anton Kricke, jr., was returned to the council by 60 ballots, and George F. Montgomery was the choice of 20 residents of the Fifth Ward as their councilman.

NATS CONFIDENT AS INDIAN SERIES BEGINS TODAY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

Cleveland, Ohio, May 1.

THE Nats bounced into undisputed possession of second place yesterday without the formality of batting a ball when Cleveland walloped the White Sox, former share holders of the berth behind the Yankees.

On paper, second place is where the experts figure the Nats to wind up this season. But luckily for the Nats, this season's American League schedule is being played on grass, and on the verdant green of Griffith and Yankee Stadiums, the Nats have knocked off the Yankees four times in five games.

The Yanks are holding their lead thus far by a game and a half, which is a bit of a come-down from the four-game margin that New York boasted 11 days ago when the Nats were taking the second of two lickings from the Red Sox. Both clubs are in the West tonight, awaiting the first of the 13 games scheduled on the invasion and a lot will be learned about the American League race before they return on May 16.

Griffith Already Has Eye on Pennant.

Clark Griffith, of the Griffith Stadium Griffiths, majority stockholder in the Nats, was beaming like a lad with a new toy after the second game in New York Saturday evening.

"Yes, a greater play."

"But it didn't mean as much money, did it?"

"It might. You never can tell," was Griffith's answer.

Which suggests to this department that Mr. Griffith is more than mildly concerned with the Nats' pennant prospects.

Linke Is Credited for Good Deed.

"My pitching plans were shot before that last game with the Red Sox," said Cronin. "We had just used four pitchers in two games against the Yanks, and we couldn't play Whitehill on account of his suspension. Linke came through for us like a veteran."

Cronin's decision to pitch the Mississippi Valley League strikeout king against the Red Sox was arrived at 15 minutes before the game when he ordered Linke to warm up. Catcher Moe Berg's report on the lad's speed was so glowing that Cronin took the chance. Luke Sewell is authority for the statement that Linke's fast ball had such hitters as Alexander, McManus and Hodapp baffled by the hop.

Familiar Face on Tour.

Out here where the West begins this trip, Catcher Roy Spencer and First Baseman Harley Boss, as well as Manager Peckinpaugh will greet the club whose uniform they once wore.

In Chicago, Second Baseman Jackie Hayes and Pitcher Sam Jones are spending their second season in White Sox uniforms after their release by the Nats.

Four former Nats are now drawing their pay from Detroit. Manager Bucky Harris went to the Tigers at the close of the 1928 season and was joined this year by Pitchers Fred Marberry and Carl Fischer. Outfielder Earl Webb spent a week-end in a Washington uniform in 1930.

The strongest chapter of the Washington alumni will be found in St. Louis, where Pitchers Lloyd Brown, Bump Hadley and Dick Coffman and Outfielders Carl Reynolds and Sam West will be facing former Washington mates when the Nats wheel into St. Louis on May 8.

Cleveland, Chicago Are Now Tied for Third Place.

CLEVELAND, May 1 (A.P.).—Oral Hildebrand, Cleveland's sensational sophomore pitcher, who hurled a one-hit game his last time out, today shoved Chicago down into a tie with the Indians for third place, holding the White Sox to five hits while his teammates pounded out ten for an 8-to-1 victory.

While Hildebrand was earning his fourth straight victory, the Indians showered five Chicago hurlers with extra blows for their third triumph of the four-game series. Johnny Burnett hit a home run and a double; Joe Vosmik drove out a homer; Averill connected with two doubles, and Porter contributed a triple.

Sox' Only Run Is Unearned.

The Sox' only run was unearned and ended a string of 21 scoreless innings for the young right-hander. The tally came in the fourth, when Swanson walked, Burnett fumbled Simmons' grounder and Kress singled the former home.

Burnett sent the Indians away to a two-run lead in the third, connecting with his homer with Porter on base. Vosmik followed with his circuit drive to start the fourth frame.

Singles by Boss, Knickerbocker and Hildebrand followed Vosmik's fourbagger and sent Durham to the showers. Red Faber took the mound to retire Porter for the third out. The veteran spit-ball hurler was taken out for a pinch hitter and Fraser, Murray and Miller took turns at attempting to stop the Indians.

Chocolate Outpoints Farr, to Keep Title

Chocolate, who is recognized as world featherweight champion in New York State and as junior lightweight king by the National Boxing Association, tonight risked only the latter title which he won from Benny Bass in July, 1931.

South Carolina Bars 3 Baseball Players

Columbia, S. C., May 1 (A.P.).—Three star baseball players of the University of South Carolina were barred from further athletic competition at the school today because they participated in a semiprofessional game Saturday.

Those put off the squad were Roy Blair, first baseman; Bill Jenkins, catcher, and Ernest Correll, outfielder.

Dr. Ralph K. Foster, director of athletics at the university, said their participation in a semipro game at Lockhart violated both Southern Conference and university eligibility rules.

TWO HOMERS AID PIRATES IN 10-0 WIN

Both Are Made With Bases Loaded; Lee, of Phils, Hurt.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates brought their big bats and good pitching into the East for the first time this season today and with Floyd Vaughan and Earl Grace contributing home runs, each with the bases loaded, Bill Swift shut out the Phillies 10 to 0.

The two circuit drives, Vaughan's in the third and Grace's in the seventh, were the high spots of an attack that netted 17 hits off the four pitchers Manager Burt Shotton sent into the fray in an attempt to stop the league leaders. Swift was touched for nine hits, but he kept them well scattered and was invincible with men on the bases.

Lee Is Hurt Trying to Catch Liner.

The Phillies not only were shut out for the first time this season, but lost the services of Hal Lee, left fielder, who injured his leg trying to catch a liner off Traynor's bat in the big seventh inning.

Vaughan's homer, which swung the tide of the battle, was unique in that it was an "inside" home run, bounding off the top of the score board. The blow was hit off Phil Collins, who gave way to Austin Moore in the sixth. In the seventh Moore appeared on his way out of a hole when Grace connected with a circuit drive. With the bases loaded as the result of P. Waner's single, Traynor's double and a base on balls, two men were forced at the plate. Grace then came through and another run followed before the Pirates were retired.

Before the game, the Phils celebrated their fiftieth anniversary, as a member of the National League with a game between the old timers and the present day club.

Clark Griffith Follows Nationals to Cleveland

Muscle Shoals Long, Sarazen Discovers

Florence, Ala., May 1 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen, national open golf champion, today found out just how long Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals really is—he tried to drive a golf ball along the roadway atop the structure from one end to the other.

Gene's shot, a long, low drive, skimmed along and stopped just about midway the long roadway.

Sarazen stopped here to see the structure and had said in Birmingham he would attempt, with the aid of lucky bounces, to send the pellet from one approach to the other.

Huttick and Kimrey in Feature

Smith Faces Groves in Semiifinal; 3 Other Bouts.

DEWEY KIMREY, a burly North Carolina heavyweight, who has confined most of his fighting to the Southland, makes his debut tonight at Portner's Arena in an eight-round engagement with Arthur Huttick, stiff-punching body artist, that will top a program of 30 rounds.

Tipping the beams at around 200 pounds, and clambers into the Alexandria ring with a good record to his credit, and with the reputation of being an aggressive, clever and hard-hitting scrapper.

The fact remains that Kimrey will have to be at his best if he wants to bring home the bacon. He has to be clever to be able to ward off the terrorizing thrusts that the fast-stepping Huttick usually telegraphs to the body, and the Tarheel must be aggressive if he hopes to beat the alert German-American to the punch.

Huttick's Body Punches May Decide.

While Kimrey may land the hardest blows on the chin, it is doubtful if he will be able to keep pace with the smashingly potent body punches that Huttick plans to unlimber.

Kimrey will have the advantage in both weight and height, perhaps to be 20 pounds heavier, but what Huttick lacks in these respects he will probably make up in speed, skill and ability to sift through his opponent's defense for solid body smacks.

The Carolinian, who will be seconded by Chris Dundee, holds victories over Add Warren, conqueror of Marty Gallagher; Steve McGraw, Big Boy Peterson, Lew Carpenter, Pat Hayward, George Neron, George Gemas and numerous other heavyweights.

Huttick comes back by popular demand, primarily as a result of his decisive victory over Kennedy—a match that saw the Bronson-Grill protege smother Kennedy with stinging punches all over his body and face. Among other victims are Eddie Benson, Bob Olin, Artie Rodenback, Unknown Winston, Jack McCarthy and Walter Cobb.

Supporting Card Looms Promising.

There will be a lot of action in the semiwindup and preliminaries. In the six-round semiwindup Jimmy (Kid) Smith, who has been training diligently for his first shot here, will take on Baltimore Harry Groves, a tough little fellow. Smith is a West Virginian, and a few months back gave Eddie Buri a terrific battle until he broke his hand. Smith is Ralph Murdock's protege.

Another six-rounder brings Chief Perry Knowles, Goldie Ahearn's Seminole importation, into combat with Doug Swetnam, local flash, while Whitey Graham and Bob Lowry clash in a six-rounder. An eleventh-hour change brings Buddy Grimes, of Norfolk, as a substitute for Joe Maffei in the four-round opener with Espisido Dizon, of the Philippines, at 8:30 o'clock.

BOXING BITS SELECTIONS—Huttick to beat Kimrey, Smith to beat Groves, Knowles to beat Swetnam, Lowry to beat Graham, Dizon to beat Grimes.

Canada Names Team For Davis Cup Play

Toronto, May 1 (A.P.).—The Canadian Lawn Tennis Association today selected two veterans and a newcomer to international tennis to represent the dominion in the first round of the Davis Cup play against Cuba at Hot Springs, Va., next week.

Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, Canada's No. 1 ranking player, and Dr. Jack Wright, of Vancouver, are the veterans. Gilbert Nunns, of Toronto, a youngster, is the newcomer. Rainville and Wright represented Canada last year, losing to the United States, five matches to none, in the first round of the North American zone.

Wright and Rainville probably will carry the blunt of the battle again this year, although Nunns has shown indication in practice he will be a strong candidate for a singles berth.

G. P. O. WINS OPENER IN LEAGUE

Overcomes Investigation's Lead to Score, 10-5.

COMING from behind with a seven-run rally in the seventh and final inning, Government Printing Office defeated U. S. Bureau of Investigation in the opening game of the Departmental League, played on the east Ellipse yesterday. The final score was 10-5.

Luther C. Steward, president of the National Federation of Federal Employes, tossed out the first ball sending the teams into action. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, was among the 500 spectators who turned out for the fray.

Sleuths Off to Good Start.

The Sleuths got away from the barrier in good style, driving over five runs in the first three innings off Pete Ingram. Bob Lyons went to the mound for the Printers in the fourth inning and held the opposition to a lone bingle over the remainder of the route.

Triples by Bennie Schneider and Shorty Gartland and a home run by Lyons figured prominently in the G. P. O. uprising. Eddie Colliflower was shelled for an even dozen hits, but stuck to his guns to the end.

"Athletic Night" Set At J. C. C. on Monday

"Athletic Night" will be observed next Monday at the Jewish Community Center, with a boxing match between the J. C. C. fighters and an all-star team from Baltimore as an outstanding feature of the ceremonies.

A tribute also will be paid Angie Tardugno, who recently was crowned national 118-pound champion at Boston. A rousing welcome has been planned for Tardugno, who also will participate on the boxing card. His brother, Mike, 126-pounder, who went to the national quarter finals, will be in a match.

Leon Shub, Lou Every, Steve Muti and Gus Mirman, all capable fighters, will round out the J. C. C. line-up.

Invitations have been sent to Postmaster General James A Farley, Senator David I. Walsh, and other members of the Cabinet and Congress.

The event will be the closing touch to National Boys' Week.

Post Backs Fan's Move To Pay Fines With Dimes

The Washington Post:

Dear Sir—In reflecting on the events which occurred last Tuesday at the Nats-Yankee game at Griffith Stadium, a game which I saw, this idea has occurred to me, and I pass it along for what it is worth.

The idea is this: Why not raise a fund of $200 to give to Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill to pay the fines they were assessed in the "riot?" I would suggest that nobody give more than 10 cents, but it ought to be easy to get 2,000 fans to contribute a dime each to assure themselves of aggressive baseball on the field.

Personally, I think Mr. Harridge handled the situation well, but that doesn't remove the fact that most of the fans at the game were appreciative of the spirit shown by the players. In other words, that particular game was played in earnest, something which can not be said of all the games in recent years.

Why don't you start the ball rolling? The method of collection I leave to you, if you like the plan. Personally I know a lot of fans who'd be glad to mail or bring in a dime for this purpose.

I have always enjoyed The Post sports pages and I'm sure other Post readers will be glad to put this idea across.

Yours truly,
GEORGE S. LEWIS.

817 14th street northwest, Washington, D. C.

The Washington Post heartily indorses the suggestion of Mr. Lewis and is prepared to receive contributions toward the payment of the $100 fines assessed Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill, of the Washington Team.

Aggressiveness on the ball field more than any other single item has served to endear the game to the Nation's fans and has been too long lacking on big league diamonds. Baseball enjoyed its greatest popularity before the era of fraternizing ball players both on and off the field and any attempt to curb the fighting spirit of the clubs is to be deplored.

In order that all Washington fans may be given an opportunity to participate in the gesture toward Myer and Whitehill, The Post suggests also that no contribution be greater than a dime.—SHIRLEY L. POVICH, Sports Editor.

For your convenience, the following mailing form is attached:
CASHIER, WASHINGTON POST:

Herewith is my contribution of 10 cents toward payment of the $100 fines assessed Buddy Myer and Earl Whitehill following the "riot" at Griffith Stadium on April 25.

My contribution is being made in the interest of more spirited and aggressive baseball, which I believe all fans want to see.

It is understood that any amount collected in excess of the two $100 fines will be forwarded by The Post to the Community Chest.

Neil's Story Gets Pulitzer Mention

New York, May 1 (A.P.).—They took Edward J. Neil, staff sports writer of the Associated Press, "down the most dangerous mile and a half in the entire sports world," as he put it, on a bobsled at the last winter Olympics and the graphic story he wrote, a classic of descriptive writing, today received honorable mention among the best written newspaper stories of 1932.

Neil's story of the breathless dash down the mountain slide near Lake Placid with Harry Homberger's "Red Devils" gained widespread attention at the time, and was nominated by many sports followers throughout the country for the Pulitzer prize committee's consideration. Nationally recognized for his expert descriptions of big boxing matches, Neil's colorful stories of sports events have been conspicuous in the Associated Press report for a number of years.

He attended Andover and Bowdoin, began his newspaper career in Boston and joined the general sports staff of the Associated Press in New York in 1926. He has many close friendships among the great and the near-great of the sports world.

Negro Boy High Jumps To New School Record

Los Angeles, May 1 (A.P.).—Cornelius Johnson, Los Angeles High School Negro high jumper, who placed third in the 1932 Olympic games, bettered the world's interscholastic record when he leaped 6 feet 8½ inches in a city league meet today. The old mark of 6 feet 8 inches was set in 1931 by Willis Ward, a Michigan high school boy.

Rassling Allowed By Body in Illinois

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—The Illinois State Athletic Commission voted unanimously today to permit wrestling—banned in the State since Joe Savoldi won a surprise victory over Jim Londos for the heavyweight championship several weeks ago—to be resumed in Illinois.

The commission announced it would issue to promoters two types of permits to stage wrestling matches. One type would allow "contest" wrestling; the other "exhibition" wrestling.

The promoter would be required to state definitely in advertising his matches which type matches would be held. The ruling stated that "exhibition" matches might be stopped by the referee only in the event either contestant were injured.

Ban against wrestling was upheld by the attorney general today, but a Chicago judge previously issued an injunction restraining the commission from interfering with a wrestling show.

West's Pitchers Hold No Terrors for Cronin's Men.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 1.—Manager Joe Cronin's young men who have accumulated a four-game winning streak in recent operations in the East tonight are encamped in the West, the graveyard of Washington's pennant plans each season since the happy days of '24 and '25.

Tomorrow, clad in the grayish attire of the visiting club, which they will wear for thirteen days on their present invasion, the Nats encounter the third-place Cleveland Indians in the first of a three-game series that will mark Washington's debut on Western soil, which is littered with the crumpled hopes of former Managers Bucky Harris and Walter Johnson.

The Nats' inherent weakness in the West is a subject for the psychoanalysts. Not since 1921, when the Yankees beat out the Browns for the pennant by half a game, has the West offered a serious contender for the flag. Yet the Nats in the last half dozen years have always been able to hold their own and more against the concentration of strength in the East, only to bog down sadly against the so-called weaker Western clubs.

Nats' New Deal This Year.

But its a new deal the Washington Club is getting under Joe Cronin this season. Like his predecessors, Cronin has led his club successfully against the Eastern opposition, but unlike his predecessors, Cronin recognizes no inherent weakness of the Nats against the West. If Washington's chief difficulty in the West in previous seasons was the club's frame of mind, the present team is operating without that handicap.

"We figure to beat these clubs out here," said Cronin. "After those battles with the A's and the Yankees, there is nothing worrying us in the West. We're going to play the same kind of baseball and that kind of baseball will beat any club in the West.

"I'm going to start Earl Whitehill tomorrow and Buddy Myer will be in there at second base. We'll be at top strength and with the lads hitting as they are the club looks great. Myer will be back in the top hole in the batting order and Bluege goes to seventh. That's our strongest line-up."

West's Hurlers Big Threat.

There is no mistaking, however, that here and there in the West the pitchers are bulking large as a threat to Eastern invaders with low-hit games daily that are evidence that the twirling in this sector is greatly improved this season.

The Indians are not figuring to take it on the lam. Manager Peckinpaugh is rotating a five-star staff with fair success, comprising Wes Ferrell, Oral Hildebrand, Mel Harder, Clint Brown and Sarge Connally. Tomorrow will be Harder's turn on the mound and, despite his three losses this season, he is held in high regard by

VISHNU DEFEATS CRACK SPRINTERS AS PIMLICO OPENS

Jones Whips His Way to Victory

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., May 1.—Racing returned to the ancient Hilltop course here today with the first eight-race program ever offered on a Maryland track and for the cause of charity. Some 7,500 turned out for the sport, which included a variety of flat races and a steeplechase.

The sixth race, generally considered the feature, and dubbed the Snow Hill, was annexed by an old Pimlico favorite, Vishnu, which scored a head decision over Porter's Dream, with the formerly classy Silverdale a well-beaten third.

However, it was lucky for Vishnu and Bobby Jones, who had the mount, that Porter's Dream did not find clear sailing for the 6 furlongs. In contrast to Vishnu, which fairly bounded out of the starting gate to go to the front, Porter's Dream was caught in a tangle and had to be worked into running space. In the stretch drive, the filly was wearing down Vishnu with every stride. But Jones did not give up. He started whipping Vishnu at the sixteenth pole and let up only at the paddock gate, so intent was he on keeping his charge in front.

Crowd Small, But Enthusiastic.

Conditions were ideal for racing and the small crowd seemed enthusiastic enough. However, the play in the mutuels was very light.

Davoc, well-educated son of Monk's Way, took the decision from Rhyming and Sun Clothing in the opening sprint for juveniles. Buddy Hanford gave the colt a punishing ride up the stretch that decided the issue. Davoc, Rhyming and Sun Clothing fought a thrilling battle from start to finish, with the first named never being out of the lead, although pressed by a margin of a head for most of the 4 furlongs.

Buddy Hanford made it two straight by piloting Stepbrother home ahead of the second division of juveniles. Again Hanford's mount set the pace from start to finish, Stepbrother having a 2½-length advantage over Air Spirit, the favorite, which in turn was a half-length ahead of Peedeeque. Stepbrother paid 20 cents more than did Davoc in the first. It was $9.20.

A field of 15 contested in the season's first steeplechase and the winner turned up in Senado, a field horse, and the property of the Barry Vail Stable, which is financed by the fortune of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan. A length behind Senado was Daniel Soot, with Reverence, another field horse, third.

Senado, prominent throughout the running, went to the front the first time around and stood off determined drives by Daniel Soot, which was hard ridden by M. Sims. Four gentlemen riders, including G. H. (Pete) Bostwick, who recently returned from the Grand National, were seen in the saddle, and all finished the course, although none was prominent in the running. There were three mishaps. Shamus fell at the second jump. Cherry Brandy went down at the ninth, and Stephan, jr., which had been showing neat form, tumbled out of it at the twelfth fence.

Bally Bay's Margin Is Narrowed.

Bally Bay, once a notorious quitter in sprints, went the mile and 70 yards route and made every post a winning one to defeat, among others, Boscobel and Damascene, which were second and third. Dabson had the mount on the winner and sprinted him into a two-length lead rounding the clubhouse turn. Boscobel was second all the way, and Bellizzi tried in vain to catch the red colors of the flying Bally Bay. Damascene made his move on the far turn, but could only narrow the margin.

Jockey Dabson and Trainer-Owner Haymaker made it two in a row in the fifth race, which was for booby championship of Maryland. The winner was Politen, and the second horse was My Fergus. Both chased Aella, a 113-to-1 shot, into the ground in the stretch, but she gathered the show money at a $44 mutuel.

Buddy Hanford stole the jockey's show by piloting his third winner in the seventh event. Apprehensive, coupled with Chatwater, scored by three lengths over Cordoba. The latter beat Daudet by 1½ lengths. Chatwater helped her stablemate by running head and head with the pacemaker, Cordoba, to the stretch. Apprehensive then made her move and easily beat Cordoba, to pay $7.

Bubola won the finale by two lengths to pay $6.60. Arundel took the place from Fife by three lengths.

DAVOC, strongly handled and saving ground wherever possible, was placed to severe pressure during the final drive and came out slowly when nearing the finish. RHYMING displayed high early speed to hold a forward position, and fought it out stoutly when the real drive came. SUN CLOTHING, pinched back with the break, secured racing room midway of the turn and finished in determined fashion. GOOFUS broke was hard ridden and showed a good effort after meeting with minor interference midway position. REPEAL and BAR QUEEN broke slowly. AMERICAN AIR, BAR QUEEN and ROCKLYN came very wide into the homestretch.

STEPBROTHER, quickest to get going, raced into a commanding lead when entering the home stretch and held away thereafter. AIRY SPIRIT saved ground until entering the home stretch, swerved out during the final drive and was under severe ursing to stall off PEEDEEQUE. Latter, in close quarters rounding the turn, closed stoutly when securing racing room. PIMOCHIO raced on the inside and gave good test. BENDROMEL weakened gradually after the opening furlong. SENADO, fencing stoutly, took command after the third fence and, rated to all of his fences thereafter, held DANIEL SOOT safe when the final test came. DANIEL SOOT, reserved for the first eight fences, made a determined bid going to the tenth fence, but was unable to wear the winner down when hard ridden. REVERENCE went along in the thick of contention and continued resolutely in the final drive. QUICK MARCH was held safe when he went to a drive. HAMPSHIRE bobbled at several of his fences. RUBY KELLER was in fair hack most of the trip. The others were outrun. SHAMUS fell at the second fence. BALLY BAY sprinted to the front going to the first turn, raced reserved until leaving the back stretch and then held BOSCOBEL safe when straightened into the home stretch. BOSCOBEL, steadied within striking distance of the winner, made a stout effort approaching the main stretch, but could not make up any ground at the end. DAMASCENE, eased back a point to the first furlong, went around the opposition when moving into contention, but was no match for the first two. CANTERWOOD was easily best of the others. RUTH TIDINGS was done after five furlongs.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—POLITEN, $10.80, $5.60, $6.00; MY FERGUS, $7.60, $7.00; AELLA, $44.00.

POLITEN, reserved while racing closest to the pacemaker, moved into command with a rush when straightened into the home stretch and finished with speed in reserve. MY FERGUS worked his way up steadily when hard urged and came with good energy for the closing test. AELLA sprinted into an easy lead, saved ground, but was not able to stay when challenged. MING SUN lacked early speed and could never menace the leaders. He came wide into the home stretch. LIGHT BREEZE took a wide course all the way. MAINSHEET began sluggishly and lacked her usual fast finish. KINGBIRD had no excuses.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming handicap. The Snow Hill. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start fair from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:40½. Winner, R. T. Archibald's b. c. (4), by Laddin—Valley of the Moon. Trained by R. F. Carman, jr. Value to winner, $525; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47 3-5, 1:12 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VISHNU, $9.80, $5.20, $3.20; PORTER'S DREAM, $4.60, $3.20; SILVERDALE, $4.60.

VISHNU, away in the first flight, moved into the lead at once, resisted early contention from SILVERDALE and, holding on stoutly when placed to punishment, just lasted to stave off PORTER'S DREAM. Latter, after very slowly when fanned at the break, was rushed up on the inside of her field and, finishing fast between the pacemakers, was overtaking the winner at every stride. She raced as if best. SILVERDALE forced a steady early pace, but weakened during the closing furlong. NED O. was hard ridden and showed a good effort after meeting with minor interference midway of the back stretch. CARRY THE NEWS was unable to menace the leaders at any stage. INDIAN MESSAGE was outrun. DENON was away very slowly.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. The Woodberry. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:11. Off at 5:15½. Winner, Mrs. F. A. APPREHENSIVE, rated in near attendance of the pacemakers, moved up stoutly to dispose of CORDOBA and then came away without effort when reaching the finish. CORDOBA, hurried into a brief lead, raced CHATWATER into defeat, but could not stave off the winner when caught. DAUDET left with the pace, somewhat settled in his stride while working his way up on the inside and finished resolutely. WASHOUT raced forwardly and held on gamely when the final issue came. TRUE SWEEP went evenly throughout. CHATWATER was done after a fast five furlongs.

BUBOLA outran her field going to the first turn, was steadied under mild restraint and held ARUNDEL safe when the final test came. ARUNDEL, in close pursuit of the winner in the last six furlongs, was unable to better his position under stiff pressure. FIFE, saving ground and racing close up, finished with good courage. SUN D., bothered when crowded by SOLACE and TRENTONIAN going to the first turn, had a lot taken out of her while hustled along near the leaders and she weakened fast. RUANE circled his field and closed strong. LITTLE STOKES closed a good gap. PELHAM raced well all the way. PRIMLIN tired. TRENTONIAN crowded over on SOLACE and BUN D. going to the first turn.

Derby Hopes Prep for Classic

Mr. Khayyam Among Six Eastern Eligibles to Arrive.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 1 (A.P.).—Six Eastern eligibles for the Kentuck Derby arrived at Churchill Downs today, while several of the Western candidates were being groomed for a final test in the "Preparation Purse," a mile event on tomorrow's card at the track.

The Eastern thoroughbreds arriving today in special race horse cars included Mr. Khayyam and Good Advice, of the Catawba Stable; the Brookmeade Stable's Inlander, Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch, F. A. Griffith's Sarada and W. S. Kilmer's Dark Winter. Advices from Hayre de Grace today, however, were that Dark Winter would not start in the Derby.

Ladysman Expected Tomorrow.

Ladysman, the winter book favorite, and his stablemate, Pomponius, are expected Wednesday, but Pompoleon, another W. R. Coe colt, will be left in the East. The Audley Farm's Trace Call also is due at the Downs Wednesday.

All the thoroughbreds reaching here today were reported to have stood the 900-mile trip well and were expected to be given workouts soon.

The Preparation Purse held special interest because it was expected to bring together Head Play and Charley O., as well as to indicate what several other Western hopefuls may do in the mile and a quarter Derby Saturday.

Other entries include Shandon Farm's filly, At Top; J. C. Milam's Captain Red, L. M. Severson's Spicson, J. N. Camden's Ben Minturn and Interpreter, the Bradley pair, Fingal and Boilermaker; Thistle Play, Knockaway, and Calumet Farm's Warren Jr. The latter is not expected to start in the Derby. Col. Bradley is expected to couple Fingal with Broker's Tip as his Derby entry if Fingal does well in the "Prep."

Boilermaker, which has shown as a sprinter rather than a stayer this spring, is expected to have one more chance to show himself in tomorrow's race, although Col. Bradley recently indicated he would not enter him in the Derby.

George V. Graham, 14, Registers Hole-in-One

A 14-year-old youngster scored a hole-in-one on the 167-yard third hole of A course at Rock Creek yesterday.

He is George Vernon Graham, son of Harry Graham, Rock Creek manager. George used a brassie. His ball bounded on the green a few feet from the cup and trickled in, much to the astonishment of the youngster and his two witnesses, G. W. Knightson, of 5130 Connecticut avenue, and H. C. Chambliss, of 3406 Sixteenth street northeast.

Young Graham is athletically inclined. He is quite a star in basket ball and baseball, and has won numerous honors at Camp Goshen, in Virginia.

Most of U. S. Golf Stars In Open

Entry Total Is 550, With Few of Headliners Missing.

NEW YORK, May 1 (A.P.).—Despite a probable 20 per cent decline in the total of entries for qualifying rounds of the United States open golf championship, few if any of the outstanding American stars will be missing from the list.

Approximately 550 entries had been received today by the United States Golf Association, as compared with 1,012 last year. The last day's rush, in anticipation of the deadline of 6 p. m., tomorrow, is expected to add at least 200 or 250 names to the roster from all parts of the country, but it appears the total will be under 1,000 for the first time since 1927.

The few prominent players whose entries had not been received up to closing time today included T. Philip Perkins, of Cleveland, who tied Bobby Cruickshank for second place last year; Vincent Eldred, of Bellevue, Pa., tied for twelfth; Densmore Shute, of Philadelphia, tied for fourteenth; Francis Gallet, of Wauwatosa, Wis., and Mortie Dutra, of Long Beach, Calif., brother of Olin Dutra.

Perkins, Eldred, Shute and M. Dutra are exempt from the sectional play, scheduled on various courses for May 15, but they must file entries in order to be eligible for the finals, to be held June 8, 9 and 10 at Chicago.

Two of last year's most prominent American amateur competitors, Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, and Johnny Fischer, the intercollegiate champion, are among the entries. Goodwin, who tied for fourteenth in the 1932 open and was high amateur, is exempt from the District qualifying. Fischer's home is in Cincinnati and he competed for Michigan in college last year, but he is entered from the Highland Country Club, Fort Thomas, Ky., for the open.

G. W. to Be Host To Wake Forest

Colonials Hoping to Deal Deacons First Defeat Tomorrow Night.

George Washington University's young, but not so tender baseball team makes its first real bid for baseball fame tomorrow night at Griffith Stadium when it entertains Wake Forest. It will be the Colonials' third game of the season and they will be after their second victory. Noted for its strong baseball teams, Wake Forest has yet to taste of defeat this year and is leading the North Carolina Conference championship race. Duke, well up among the leaders of the Southern conference, North Carolina College and University, have gone down before the fighting "Deacons."

Coach Ed Morris believes he has uncovered a promising hurler in "Heine" Weingartner, who pitched G. W. to a 15-4 victory over Delaware in their second game last week. Weingartner, after getting off to a shaky start, limited the visitors to five well-scattered hits and was in full command of the situation.

A boys' band contest will precede the game tomorrow. All of the leading boy musical organizations of the city, including many high school units, are entered. A silver loving cup will be awarded the winning band.

Gastanaga Ill, Bout With Ruggerillo Off

Chicago, May 1 (A.P.).—An eight-round bout on the King Levinsky-Charley Retzlaff boxing program at the Chicago Stadium Wednesray night, between Isidore Gastanaga, of Spain, and Salvatore Ruggerillo, Italian heavyweight, today was canceled, due to illness of the young Spaniard.

Gastanaga, who has been training in Chicago for the bout, suffered a severe attack of sinus trouble.

Hurt Central Stars Back Today

Hayes, However, Lost for Series Game With Eastern.

CENTRAL'S baseball stock alternately rose and fell yesterday when it became known that its five injured regulars will be in the line-up today against Eastern, but that "Brick" Hayes, carrot-topped speed-ball artist, failed to pass a sufficient number of subjects to remain eligible for the series.

By far the most dependable moundsman on Central's roster, Hayes, was counted on heavily by Coach Jack Ray to bear the brunt of pitching. The freckle-faced kid was to have started against Eastern. However, the return of Don Raub, Shorty Chumbris, Cliff Keyser, Lefty Chumbris and Bill Bryant is heartening, and Ray believes the team has an even chance against the powerful Lincoln Park combination.

Four youngsters, Silverman, Cowan, Morris and Smith, comprise the Central mound corps. Ray is undecided who will serve them up today. Whoever looks the best before the game starts will get the call.

Guyon Concedes to Central.

Charley Guyon summed up Eastern's chances today by conceding the game to Central. Guyon thinks, or at least pretends to, that Central has too much power for his pitching staff, while his own lads looked surprisingly weak with the flail against Roosevelt last week.

Guyon, too, is undecided on a pitcher. He has Hale, Cleary, Sullivan and Barnes ready for duty. Hale probably will start, but Guyon admitted last night that he expects to use all four before the fray is over. Guyon respects the big bats wielded by the Blue and White.

Disappointed with the team's hitting in the Roosevelt game, the Chief intimated he was seriously considering a shake-up with a view to correcting the weakness.

Joe Mills, Joe Keegin, Harry Bassin, Dicky Fitzgerald and Eddie Fitzpatrick were expected to supply the Eastern box score with a number of extra base hits, but they fell short. Unless the lads awaken to their duty they may find themselves sojourning on the bench.

DIXIE PIGS PLAY.

Dixie Pigs will tangle with the Police, but in a baseball game, this afternoon at 5 o'clock on the South Ellipse in the Industrial League. It is the Coppers' first year in the circuit, while the Pigs won the championship last season.

Capital City Unlimiteds Plan for Coming Season

Teams seeking the city championship are Miller Furniture, 1932 senior champs; Federal A. C., Dor-A, Congress Heights, Griffith-Blue Coals, Stanton Cleaners, Woltz Photographers, St. Joseph's, United Barbers and the Colonials.

Miller Furniture and Congress Heights were named opponents in the opening game, to be played a week from tomorrow at Griffith Stadium in conjunction with the George Washington U.-Salem fray. Walter Johnson will heave the first ball over the pan, officially inaugurating the series.

On paper the league embraces some of the strongest teams ever to seek the championship. From the first name to the last the teams are formidable and an interesting pennant race is expected.

Adding to the interest will be the renewal of old rivalries, such as the St. Joseph's-Congress Heights and Miller-Dor-A feuds. Almost since the league was organized St. Joseph's and the boys from across the river have been fighting it out. Dor-A was beaten in two straight games by the Millers for the senior honors last year.

Tomorrow night's baseball carnival, consisting of contests in hitting, throwing and running the bases, also was discussed at last night's confab. Tom Doerer, jr., son of the local sports scribe, was the first to enter. The carnival is sponsored by George Washington U. and the Capital City League.

Entries will be received up until starting time, 7 o'clock, tomorrow night at the Stadium. Contestants should report to the Washington dugout in full uniform. The baseball regalia will gain them free admittance to the park.

GRIFFS PRACTICE.

Md. Is Beaten By Virginia On Track

Varsity Loses, 77-49, and Freshmen by 74 2-3 to 42 1-3.

UNIVERSITY, Va., May 1 (A.P.).—Virginia ran away with Maryland in a double-header track meet today, winning the Varsity event 77 to 49, and the Freshmen event 74 2-3 to 42 1-3.

The Cavaliers took 11 first places in the Varsity meet and 12 in the Freshmen.

Billy Lauck, Cavalier captain, lowered the Southern conference 2-mile mark to 9 minutes 45.6 seconds, finishing 200 yards ahead of the next runner.

Half an hour later Lauck won the mile run in 4 minutes 35.2 seconds.

Earl Widmyer, Maryland, won both of the sprints. The Old Line flash who placed second in the Penn Relay Century last Saturday was closely pressed in both events by Henry Sackett. In the furlong, Widmyer passed Sackett in the final 20 yards to win by inches.

Grover Everett, Virginia, ran the 220-yard low hurdles in 24.9 seconds, then broad jumped 22 feet 8 inches to take two firsts. George Coles, Cavalier weight specialist, tossed the shot 46 feet 8 inches, then hurled the discus 127 feet 2 inches to lead the field in both events.

Linwood Antrim seemed on the way to a new high hurdle record for Virginia until he tripped on the next to the last flight and was passed by his teammate, Angus McDonald.

The summaries:

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

MANY claims have been advanced as to the invention of basket ball. Various claimants assert that a peach basket was the first court's loop, others hold that it evolved from a native custom of playing with reed spheres. Whatever merit there is in these claims, the fact remains that long before Columbus conceived his westward trip to the New World, natives of the Chichen Itza—part of which is now Yucatan in Central America—played a game which strangely resembled modern basket ball.

The game was played on a rectangular court, at each end of which were erected loops of stone with openings slightly larger than the present loop. The Tlachtill court was about the size of a football field. The natives played in teams, each of which strove to drive a solid rubber ball through one of the loops.

Much more difficult than modern basket ball was Tlachtill—the loops were 25 feet above the floor of the court, they were set sideways so that the player had to stand against a wall in shooting a basket, and to get from one end of the court to the other the player had to run 100 yards.

The organ bird of Tasmania is one of the several species of "magpies" living in Australia. Australian magpies are not true magpies, but piping crow-shrikes. The Tasmanian bird is famous for its call which sounds like a hand-organ slightly out of tune.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

LETTERS FROM A REFORESTATION CAMP. NO. 4.

DEAR ELLA: Well, I am deep in the woods now, so deep that if it wasn't for our aches at night we would be totally out of touch with the depression. The boys are getting used to axes, saws and spades now, although most of them never saw those tools before, except in pictures like "The Covered Wagon." I remember there was an ax in our house back home, but I always thought it was an antique. Nobody ever used it except the old man.

* * * *

There is quite a trick to swinging an ax, Ella. You have to have form just like people do in golf or baseball or anything. The instructors put in a lot of time explaining to us that we couldn't get anywhere with a tree unless we had correct timing and something he called rithim. He said most of our trouble was too short a back swing, and I guess he was right, only with some of us it wasn't accidental. We didn't want to look any too good.

* * * *

Personally I took it easy on account of my back aching so easily, but one of the instructors who looked like he might have been a top sergeant some time watched me a few minutes and then asked me if I was chopping down a tree or just trying to carve some initials on the bark.

* * * *

All the work ain't chopping down trees. We do a lot of digging and raking and things. And we have to cart away trees and transplant saplings. I bet I look funny with 6 or 8 yards of tree over my shoulder, but it is no laffing matter, because my shoulder gets very sore. I got what they call sapling shoulder, which is like trench feet only worse. And my hands are so full of carelesses that a palm reader would have to go over my palm on stilts.

* * * *

The night life here is very dull, and there are too many funny noises to suit me. The frogs and owls are very creepy, and I would give anything for the good old noise of 6 taxicab smashup or a street fight. The woods is full of strange reptyles and bugs. I was deloused of seventeen-year locusts yesterday and my tentmate shook two chipmunks and a woodpecker out of his undershirt the other morning.

* * * *

It is nuthing to wake up in the middle of the night and find a rabbit hoping across your chest or a catbird making a nest in your ear.

* * * *

Well, I will close for this time. That liniment I asked you for ain't never arrived, but there is such a demand for it that maybe somebody stole it at the postal tent. Write me and let me know if you hear anything about the new deal. Yours,

EDDIE.

APPEAL FOR RETURN OF A SACRED COD.

("Sacred Cod Stolen from Massachusetts State House."—Headline.)

O, shameless man,
O cruel thief!
Return our cod,
And ease our grief!

O, Massachusetts
There she stands
So pleadingly
With outstretched hands.

O, steal the Lowells,
If you wish,
But spare, O, spare
Our sacred fish.

Steal all the Cabots,
If you must,
But spare our cods—
In cods we trust!

HABIT.

"Platitude 38; longitude 47," replied his companion.

They say you can cause a serious traffic jam anywhere around the White House these days by merely shouting, "Oh, Professor!"

Have you heard that the new money may be called Moleymoney?

Miss Virginia Morris, 32-year-old clerk in a Washington department store, leaped or fell to her death late yesterday from an eighth-floor window of the Hotel Peter Stuyvesant in New York City, according to word received here last night.

Information was withheld at the Hutchinson home, but it was learned that Miss Morris intended to return to Washington some time this week. Prior to coming here, she had lived in New York several years, and it was to visit friends that she returned.

New York police indicated they would investigate circumstances surrounding the fatal plunge. The body will be taken to Richmond, Va., for burial. She is survived by two other sisters in Richmond.

TAKOMA GROUP HITS PATRICK'S CHARGES

Citizens Renew Stand for Restriction of Utility Appeal Cases.

Members of the Takoma Park Citizens Association last night answered Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, in his accusation that their resolutions asking restriction of utility valuation appeal cases to the courts, were based on lack of information.

The association reaffirmed the resolution it adopted at a previous meeting which approved recently introduced congressional legislation limiting court reviews of valuation.

Letters were sent to Gen. Patrick explaining their position and stating that their decision was reached only after competent and detailed investigation by qualified members of the association.

In another letter to Gen. Patrick the association took him to task for his statements in regard to the Public Utilities Commission's tardiness in answering the appeal of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. in the telephone rate case.

The association adopted a number of resolutions concerning public schools. It asked for the erection of the proposed Northern High School and additions to the Paul Junior High School. A resolution was adopted favoring the fulfillment of the budget requirements of the Community Center department.

Tax Slash Urged On District Heads

Cathedral Heights and Cleveland Park Citizens Seek Cut.

The District Commissioners were urged to give a horizontal cut to all assessed valuations of property in the District and thus bring about a reduction in the tax burden commensurate with the reduced appropriation for the fiscal year in a motion introduced by J. W. Townsend at a meeting of the Cathedral Heights-Cleveland Park Citizens Association last night.

Another motion was passed asking that the Federal Employment Bureau be continued, but reorganized along more efficient lines.

Francis P. Sullivan was appointed chairman of a committee to seek immediate action on the Calvert Street Bridge.

Resolution Favored For District Inquriy

A resolution asking appropriation of $2,500 for expenses of a House District Committee investigation into the District government, was favorably reported to the House yesterday by Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District Committee.

The inquiry will be pressed by a subcommittee headed by Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland.

Montrose Park Made Western Drill Ground

Cadets of Western High School will no longer have to drill on the streets of Burleith.

They may now drill in Montrose Park, Georgetown, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks, announced yesterday.

MAY DAY OBSERVED QUIETLY AS DANCES AND GAMES PREVAIL

Radical Demonstration Mild, Rousing Little Interest While Police Watch.

A quite celebration of May Day was observed throughout the city yesterday. In the public schools child health examinations were conducted, on various playgrounds maypole dances and games held sway and a mild radical demonstration in the downtown section failed to rouse public enthusiasm.

Youngsters attending grade schools were paraded before a corps of physicians in the annual child health day examinations, while Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a radio address, advocated "the use of all possible Governmental agencies set up to give all people additional information in order that the children may not suffer."

The usual May Day dances and games proved the main attraction at playgrounds and recreational centers. Hundreds of children and grownups flocked out of doors to observe traditional celebrations.

Radicals Present Pleas.

A group of so-called radicals paraded with banners from Eighth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest to the District Building. There Commissioner Reichelderfer heard Charles Spencer and Alace Zucker, leaders of the Washington Unemployed Council, in pleas to "Free the Scottsboro boys, Tom Mooney and defend the Soviet union."

In her May Day address on the subject of child health, Mrs. Roosevelt declared:

"We should remember that as far as possible the children's housing should be healthful and what money we have should be spent on rent, on food, leaving only what money is actually needed for the minimum amount of clothing."

She said it was extremely important that the children's milk and vegetables should not be curtailed and should be properly cooked, for "many good foods are ruined by the way in which they are cooked."

"In Pennsylvania," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "it has been found necessary instead of giving money to people for their work, to give them rations, because bought in quantity they could be bought much more cheaply."

Cooking Negligence Seen.

The First Lady said it would be found necessary to show women how to cook the foods, adding that in this country there had been negligence in the art of cooking.

Under guidance of motorcycle policemen, who used not a single tear gas bomb, but who perhaps, inadvertently provided clouds of exhaust fumes, the so-called radicals marched through downtown streets in an orderly manner. They numbered 70 at the start, but their ranks swelled to 103 at the end.

Banners were flown demanding "relief!" and others bore the legends, "Down with German Fascism!" "Down with Jim Crowism" and "Defend the Soviet Union."

New Demonstration Due.

As they marched, shouts were heard for defendants in the Scottsboro case, and a lustry cry to "Free Tom Mooney" prevailed throughout the parade.

"Yesterday's parade," Spencer said, "is the vanguard of a much greater demonstration coming here on May 8 to demand help for the Scottsboro boys."

High police officials, including Superintendent Ernest Brown and Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, accompanied a large police detail escorting the marchers.

Dogwood Blooms Begin to Appear

Trees Will Reach Full Blossom in Week in Parks Here.

Dogwood trees are beginning to bloom in Rock Creek Park, in Potomac Park and along the Mount Vernon Memorial highway, between Alexandria, Va., and Mount Vernon, officials of the park division of the office of Public Buildings and Public Parks announced yesterday.

If the weather continues favorable, the trees will reach full bloom within a week and remain in flower for about two weks. The pink variety is showing south of the Taft Bridge, while the white dogwood is much in evidence in Rock Creek Park.

The pink bloomed Judas tree is in blossom along Ridge road, in Rock Creek Park. The crab apple trees in Anacostia Park are making their exit. A few are still in bloom.

BUNKER HILL SCHOOL CONDITIONS ARE HIT

Citizens of Michigan Park Put Blame on Faulty Management.

Condemning the District School Board for failure to alleviate congestion and to improve teaching facilities at the Bunker Hill Elementary School, Fourteenth street and Michigan avenue northeast, members of the Michigan Park Citizens Association charged that a continuance of existing conditions would result in a serious handicap to the education of children in that section.

Dr. Herbert F. Wright, vice president of the association and chairman of the committee on schools, declared that existing conditions in the schools were not altogether the result of Government economy, but also a lack of systematic management. The school now houses 205 students in two rooms operating nine stagger classes and is being handled by three teachers. The association charged that students are being kept from school rather than being deprived of sufficient hours of study.

A protest on District economies was voiced by the association. Striking out the $5,000 appropriation fund granted for the survey for a viaduct over the railroad crossing in the Michigan Park area was condemned. The association indorsed the selection of fire officials from members of the Fire Department and asked that traffic hazards be corrected at Fourteenth street and Michigan avenue northeast.

The woman was charged with reckless driving and failing to exhibit a driving permit.

Woman's Assailant Is Sent to Asylum

Robertson, Serving Term of 15 Years, Develops Prison Psychosis.

Devloping what physicians termed "prison psychosis," Harry Clay Robertson, sentenced to fifteen years in Lorton Reformatory following his conviction on a charge of criminally assaulting Margaret Sobiotny, of Uniontown, Pa., has been transferred to Howard Hall at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Robertson was originally sentenced to serve 25 years, but Justice F. D. Letts, of the District Supreme Court, before whom he was tried, called him back after he had served a short time and cut the sentence to 15 years.

A jury in District Supreme Court adjudged Robertson to be of unsound mind after District alienists had testified as to his actions at Lorton.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

It has been noticeable recently that many motorists are not giving signals when stopping or turning. For the benefit of those who are driving in one's immediate vicinity, and oneself, it is only fair to give some kind of intelligent signal when about to make an abrupt change in course.

The figures are:

	1932	1933
Deaths	41	24
Injuries	1,281	1,178
Accidents	2,827	2,743

"Be Careful!"

COLLEGE GRADUATES MARCH ON CAPITAL

Jobless White-Collar Class Will Meet Here Today to Seek Relief.

Perhaps the forgotten man is going to assert himself.

The fair Capital which has seen the veteran and the "hunger marchers" on its doorstep will receive another type of petitioner today.

"White collar" men, college graduates who are unemployed, today will convene here and petition the President for some measure to benefit their class.

Several hundred delegations are expected among which will be a group of Harvard graduates who will call on their fellow alumnus, President Roosevelt.

At the White House it was said that, although no formal news of the "march" had been received, the petitioners would be received there should they come.

The meeting here today and tomorrow will be at Barker Hall of the Young Women's Christian Association, it was learned. It is under the direction of the Association of Unemployed College Alumni.

Plans for seeking relief legislation for educated men and women now out of jobs will be formulated and then submitted to the President and Congress.

The chairman of the association, Joseph P. Lash, will be aided in the conference by Dorothy Shoemaker, of Swarthmore College; John W. Price, of Kansas State Teachers College; Varian Frye, of Harvard, and Monroe Plane, of Howard University.

Pullman Bag Contains $500 in Stolen Apparel

A pullman bag containing clothing valued at $500 was reported stolen yesterday afternoon from the car of Harry A. Wilkinson, of New York, manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., while parked on Pennsylvania avenue between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets northwest.

BONUS TREK PLANS WAIT ON MEETING

Liaison Committee Fails to Confirm Report of 500 Leaving Chicago.

No alterations in their plans for a "bonus and veterans' benefit conference" in Washington, May 12-15, were reported by the Veterans National Liaison committee members following a talk with Louis Howe, White House secretary, yesterday. However, the committee said that they would make no statement regarding the bonus march until after a conference with Howe today.

The liaison committee could not confirm a report received by police that 500 members of the Workers Ex-Service Men's League, a Communist organization, had left Chicago for Washington to demand payment of the bonus.

The members of the liaison committee scouted the statement of William Conley, national commander of the Disabled American Veterans, that the claims of so-called leaders of the B. E. F. that they can send 50,000 bonus marchers to the city are bids for personal publicity. Conley had said he thought that Washington is unduly alarmed by claims of the alleged leaders of the B. E. F.

The report of the 500 men leaving Chicago was received by Lieut. Horace Lineburg, of the crime prevention bureau of the police department. This contingent was reported traveling by way of Indianapolis, where it was expected 150 more men would join them. He declared that, according to the report received, the marchers would demand food and shelter from the Government while demand for bonus is pressed.

In the meantime, Maj. Ernest W. Brown is making an effort to ascertain the truth of continued reports of the impending convergence of another bonus army on Washington. He has sent out telegrams of inquiry to the various key cities of the country asking information concerning any bonus organizations being formed with the names of the leaders.

Maj. Brown admitted that he was skeptical of the reports.

NORTHEAST SAVINGS STOCK SUBSCRIBING RISES NEARER GOAL

1,000 North Capitol Bank Depositors Get Dividend of $30,000.

Nearly three-fourths of the new stock needed to reopen the Northeast Savings Bank has been subscribed, G. F. Hoover, vice president and conservator of the bank, said yesterday.

The new stock issue consists of 10,000 shares, to furnish $250,000 in new capital. Of this number, subscriptions have already been received for 7,476 shares, Mr. Hoover said.

Twenty workers, representing groups interested in the reopening of the Industrial Savings Bank, have succeeded in obtaining subscriptions for about $53,000 in new stock of this bank, it was also said yesterday. The bank is issuing new stock to the amount of $200,000.

About 1,000 depositors in the closed North Capitol Savings Bank received about $30,000 yesterday as their share in the first payment made to patrons since the bank closed last July. A line started to form in front of the bank about 6 a. m. yesterday morning, and the paying started about 8:15 a. m., continuing to 5:30 p. m. There are about 6,000 depositors in the bank who will receive a total of $125,000 as the first 12½ per cent dividend.

The Departmental Bank, which also made a payment to its depositors yesterday, paid about 1,000 persons between 7:30 a. m. and 9 p. m. This bank will remain open tonight and tomorrow night until 9 o'clock to pay off the rest of its 4,000 patrons, according to Receiver W. B. Allman. Paying 20 per cent of deposits, the bank expects to put about $160,000 into circulation on this dividend. It is the second one paid since the bank closed last year, a 30 per cent dividend having been paid in February.

FEW FILE REPORTS ON SALES OF BEER

Licensees Have Till May 10 to Pay Tax or Lose Their Permits.

May Day brought but a handful of the 1,600 holders of temporary beer permits to the District tax assessor's office yesterday with reports on the first month's sales. Only 43 had filed returns as the office closed, and these reported sales of 520 barrels between April 7 and May 1.

Before May 10 all of the licensees must make reports to the assessor's office and pay the tax of $1 a barrel or else be in danger of having their permits revoked by the Beverage Permits Board. All wholesalers and brewers must report the amount of beer sold to every buyer in the District.

52 More Licenses.

The Permit Board yesterday granted 52 more temporary licenses at its semiweekly session. This brought the total to about 1,600 granted out of 2,000 applications.

Vernon E. West, chairman, revealed that through an oversight the board had failed to include officers of corporations in a question on the application blank regarding citizenship.

The law requires that individual partners, and officers of any corporation obtaining a license to be American citizens.

Aliens to Lose Permits.

Nothing will be done at this time to revoke licenses where such corporations have obtained permits, Mr. West said, but in connection with the inspections being made preparatory to issuance of annual licenses the specific question will be asked, and all corporations having officers who are aliens will lose their permits.

The permit board, which has been borrowing District employes from several departments to assist it, is planning to obtain more permanent assistance until all annual licenses are issued. No money is available to the hiring of such aids, however, so that the board will seek to have transfers made in the municipal government.

Curtis SavesTwo Indians From Jail

The intervention of former Vice President Charles Curtis yesterday saved two full-blooded Indians from possible incarceration in the white man's jail house on the shores of the Eastern Branch.

One, Chief Wash, 32 years old, was faced with a charge of intoxication in Police Court, and the other, who was with him when the chief opened up his bag of war cries in the Southwest section Sunday, was charged with selling beads on Sunday.

Attorney Robert I. Miller, close friend of Mr. Curtis, informed Judge John P. McMahon, in Police Court, that Mr. Curtis had requested him to intercede for the Indians. The judge took their personal bonds not to repeat the offense.

Citizens' Unit Hits Barbecue Revelry

Forest Hills Group to Ask Midnight Closing of Food Stands.

Return of beer has brought revelry throughout the night along "barbecue row" in upper Connecticut avenue, it was charged last night by the Forest Hills Citizens Association. The association will ask authorities to endeavor to get the barbecue stands to close at midnight.

Conferees of the House were urged to agree to school building items restored by the Senate. Mrs. L. B. Wright, chairman of the school buildings committee of the association, was given a vote of thanks for her work on behalf of schools and feeding hungry children.

Col. John O. Johnson was reelected president; George Esch, vice president; Mrs. Wright, recording secretary; Mrs. William P. Meggers, elected corresponding secretary, and Joseph McCollum, elected treasurer. L. A. Carruthers and Joseph Sanders were chosen delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Northeast Boys Club Enlarges Its Program

Increased membership and an enlarged program was reported yesterday by Bruce Baird, president of the Northeast Boys Club, in a statement recounting the organization's activities during the winter.

Mr. Baird stated that many changes and improvements had been made at the club headquarters, 1663 Kramer street northeast. A new print shop, game room, boxing and wrestling rooms have been added. Five volunteer workers have been added to the staff of the institution, he reported.
